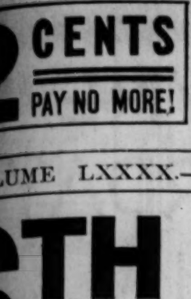
ARCHANGEL, March 27.—Roaring over ice and snow at 30 and 40 miles an hour, I have covered nearly 400 miles along the Dvina and Pinega rivers and forests of the hinterland examining conditions in the timber cutting regions of the north.



A 100 horse power Bristol-Lucifer motor operated the aerosled built exactly like an airplane, the fuselage on wide runners with the propeller behind. At top speed the machine skidded over frozen surfaces of rivers and icy roads. Every horse which we encountered ran away from the weird machine, while the peasants shouted curses as they pulled their teams and sledges out of the snowdrifts.

We couldn't go slow as slackening of speed meant sinking into the snow and "the devil's own time" in getting started again.

Like Traveling in Plane.

"Contact," yelled the mechanician as the pilot rattled the dynamo crank and the motor sputtered into action.

From Archangel we followed a hard packed horse sled trail down the Dvina river with a blood red pennant fluttering from the windshield.

It's exactly like traveling in an airplane with the exception that one can smoke and, looking out of the mica windows, see the landscape rush by. It was warm inside the cabin with a bearskin great coat, high felt boots and a fur hat over the ears.

We passed numerous parties of peasant children gathering logs and putting them aboard small rafts on the ice.

Sled Strikes Peasant.

A heavy snow began falling so we could not see either shore from the middle of the river, which is more than three miles wide here. The weather got so thick we were forced to leave the river and take to the road on land. It was exceedingly dangerous traveling through the villages, owing to the horse sled traffic and children rushing up to the aerosled, which is without brakes. We couldn't slow down if we started to run into anything.

Looming ahead of us there suddenly appeared a peasant walking along. His dog barked loudly, but the man paid no heed and a second later we struck him. The struts of iron piping flung the man clear of the deadly propeller blades, but gave him a nasty gash across the forehead. The peasant, who was deaf and dumb, was so scared that he ran away and refused a ride to the next village for medical attention.

Twelve Families in House.

We spent the night at Kholmogory, a town just above the confluence of the Dvina and Pinega rivers, occupying one room of a big house where a dozen families lived in separate rooms. The dairy farms about this town make a specialty of serving thick cream, milk, butter, cheese and veal.

We started out early the next morning but got stuck several times in the snow. Once an aged peasant running an old faded khaki American army tunic with one regulation button still on it, helped to push us out of the snow.

Fifty miles down the river we climbed a steep bank, discovering telltale caterpillar tractor trails, and struck inland over a road of ice. Despite the bitter cold, girls and women ran barelegged from houses to watch us glide past.

Wages of Workers Small.

Kotlas was the first big cutting section visited. There are 480 workers there, felling trees in zones around the town. Working eight hour a day and five days a week, the cutters earn two rubles 12 kopecks a day, or about $1.12. [The wage figures in United States money are based on the gold value of the ruble of 48 cents. Outside of Russia it is worth 6 cents.] Drivers handling their own horses get 5 rubles 7 kopecks daily [about $2.53], while common drivers and mechanics get 3 rubles 36 kopecks [about $1.63].

CERMAK'S LEAD PILES UP ANEW IN STRAW POLL

West Side Voters Mark Ballots.

Mayoralty Poll

	Previous day's straws.	Yesterday's straws.	Totals to date.	Per cent.
Cermak [D.]	4,812	1,493	6,305	66.56
Thompson [R.]	2,432	735	3,167	33.44
Totals	7,244	2,228	9,472	100.00

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Anton J. Cermak, Democratic nominee for mayor, again ran away from his opponent in the straw vote yesterday. The votes were obtained on street corners in the four northwest side Republican wards and in the three central west side Republican wards.

In these seven wards Cermak received a larger percentage of the straw votes than he did in the fifteen Democratic wards of the west side. This indicates that Cermak is obtaining a very large support from the Republicans. It is clear that it will be the Republicans who will put Cermak over.

A summary of the distribution of the 2,228 straws collected yesterday is as follows:

Candidate.	Straws.	Per cent.
Cermak [Dem.]	1,493	67.01
Thompson [Rep.]	735	32.99
Totals	2,228	100.00

In the three central Republican wards—the 28th, 35th, and 36th—the percentage for Cermak was higher than in the four northwest wards, the 37th, 39th, 40th, and 41st wards. The straw votes for Cermak and Thompson at each street intersection in the three central Republican wards were as follows:

Ward	Corner	Cermak	Thompson	Total
28	Madison-Western	69	43	112
28	Chicago-Kedzie	88	34	122
28	Lake-Kedzie	87	58	145
35	North-California	89	37	126
35	North-Kedzie	105	46	151
36	Armitage-Crawford	58	16	75
36	Chicago-Crawford	80	29	109
Totals		577	263	840
Per cent		68.69	31.31	100.00

The following table shows the street corner vote in the four northwest Republican wards:

Ward.		Cermak.	Thompson.	Total.
37	Lake-Central	85	45	130
37	Cicero-Chicago	63	31	94
37	Central-Chicago	62	21	83
37	Central-Division	44	22	66
39	Kedzie-Belmont	50	26	76
39	Milwaukee-Belmont	66	26	92
40	Irving Pk.-Kedzie	58	49	107
40	Irving Pk.-Elston	81	28	109
41	Irving Pk.-Milwaukee	77	48	125
41	Avondale-Harlem	79	51	130
41	Montrose-Milwaukee	110	70	180
41	Lawrence-Milwaukee	71	27	98
41	Northwest Highway-Harlem	11	10	21
41	Lawrence-Milwaukee	59	18	77
Totals		916	472	1,388
Per cent		65.99	34.01	100.00

In the three central Republican wards of the west side, Thompson obtained 31.31 per cent of the straw votes collected yesterday, while in the 1927 election he received 60.33 per cent. On the northwest side Thompson got 34.01 per cent of the straws yesterday as contrasted with 53.90 per cent of the votes in the 1927 election.

In this section THE TRIBUNE poll in 1927 credited Thompson with 55.67 per cent of the votes. In the central Republican wards the 1927 poll on street corners gave Thompson 56.13 per cent of the voting strength of the group.

The poll this time may not as accurately forecast public sentiment as did the poll of 1927, but practically the same spots were polled as were canvassed in 1927.

DAISY DEBOE FREE ON BOND PENDING TEST

Los Angeles, Cal., March 27.—[Special.]—Pending determination of the constitutionality of a portion of the state probation statutes, Daisy De Boe was freed from jail today by the state Appellate court after posting a $5,000 bond.

Miss De Boe was convicted last January of appropriating funds from Clara Bow while acting as Miss Bow's secretary, and prior to today had made five futile appeals to the state Appellate and Supreme courts, seeking liberation from jail while her new trial motions were proceeding to the higher court.

Miss De Boe was sentenced to eighteen months in Los Angeles jail, preliminary to three and a half years' liberty on probation.

Mystery Ship Begs Aid; Men Take to Boats

New York, March 28 [Saturday].—[Special.]—After two hours of confused but urgent pleas for help, a wireless operator, believed to have been sending from a small foreign freighter thirty miles south-southeast of Barnegat, N. J., flashed through the air at 2:03 o'clock this morning word that he and his fellows were abandoning ship.

"Leaving now," was his brief parting message, and despite repeated assurances that help in the form of the coast guard cutter Sebago and the coast guard destroyer Upshur were on their way he could not be raised again. Only a few minutes before 2:03 a. m. he stumblingly had tapped out:

"If we can get help in hurry we will last a ligsg [unintelligible] in boats room water."

Signals Difficult to Read.

The signals were difficult to understand, as if sent by a man not accustomed to the work, and the theory was advanced that the sender probably was the mate of a small foreign tramp steamer, pressed into service as radio man.

Coming over the regular 600 meter wave length, the signals were first heard at 12:30 a. m. and led to the immediate "piping down" of all radio broadcasting stations in this part of the country. But, except for "S O S thirty miles south of Barnegat," the message from the stricken ship could not be made out.

When the sender failed repeatedly to give his call letters or the name of his craft the Brooklyn navy yard radio station began asking him slowly to identify himself.

Seek Definite Information.

Occasionally picking up a few syllables which they thought might be in German, the navy radio operators had scant success in getting more definite information. The coast guard radio station and the Radiomarine Corporation of America caught a vague reference to 15 men aboard the ship.

At 1:47 a. m. the Brooklyn navy yard station eventually picked up the sender of the constantly repeated appeal.

"Are you still with us?" the navy man tapped out slowly and distinctly.

"Yes; send slow," was the answer.

"Are you still south?" the navy station asked.

"Yes, thirty SSE, Barnegat," was the reply.

Then, at 1:55 a. m., came the incoherent message which indicated that the water had reached the radio room and that the boats were being manned.

PROSECUTOR ACTS TO SEIZE PROPERTY FOR BAIL FORFEITS

Seven suits to dispossess tenants and owners of seven parcels of property listed on forfeited bail bonds were started yesterday in the Municipal court by Assistant State's Attorney Edgar B. Elder. The total of the bond forfeitures is $23,000, although the estimated aggregate value of the property involved is $68,000.

Prosecutor Elder said this action is the first of its kind ever to be taken to enforce the collection of criminal bond forfeitures. He said that hundreds of similar suits are to follow on forfeited bonds dating back many years.

The owners and tenants of the property involved will be granted a formal hearing if they desire before Judge William R. Fetzer on April 10. If the judge enters the orders asked by the prosecutor the county will then take possession of the property and order the tenants to vacate within five days. The county will then have authority to sell, rent, or lease the property involved, the prosecutor said.

FATE OF MALLOY GIVEN TO JURY IN U. S. COURT

Federal Judge Fred L. Wham yesterday ordered a sealed verdict returned at 10 o'clock this morning in the case of John E. Malloy, former assistant cashier of the closed Lawrence Avenue National bank, who has been on trial all week charged with embezzling $60,000.

The case reached the jury at 5:20 p. m., Malloy's own story and his cross-examination occupying most of the day's session. Under questioning by Defense Counsel William F. Waugh, Malloy admitted that he "borrowed from one account to bolster up the cash showing of the bank."

The defendant said the bank was in bad shape and that the clearing house several times refused to clear its checks. A merger was in prospect, he said, and he tried to do everything he could to put the books in condition to satisfy the other bank.

Malloy also repeated his story that two bandits held up the bank on New Year's day, kidnaped him and rifled the cash and safe deposit boxes.

16 Expelled in Indiana U. Rum Scandal

Bloomington, Ind., March 27.—[Special.]—Announcement of the expulsion of sixteen students from Indiana university for misconduct was made today by Dean of Men C. E. Edmondson, head of the faculty committee on student affairs. Three student organizations, he stated, also have been marked for punishment.

Liquor Parties Investigated.

The dean's verdict was given at the close of a week's investigation of campus dances and other affairs where liquor was reported to have flowed too freely and where some dancing couples were said to have gone up one flight of stairs too many at fraternity houses.

Names of the suspended students were not given nor were the penalized organizations mentioned. Dean Edmondson likewise declined to state the nature of the penalties which will be imposed on the organizations. He asserted, however, that none would be ordered to close their doors. It is supposed that the three organizations are Greek letter fraternity chapters and that they will be ordered to forfeit social privileges.

Deplores Wild Rumors.

In a typewritten report to the press, Dean Edmondson deplored the fact that "newspaper rumors of wholesale violations of Indiana university's rules have done a great injustice to our student body." The report also comes to the defense of Indiana students and challenges "any community of 3,500 citizens anywhere in the state to be better behaved than the Indiana university student group."

The expelled students will be notified soon that they are no longer students at Indiana university, Dean Edmondson stated. Two co-eds had already been suspended from the university and the dean's report explains that their names were made public, contrary to the university's policy, because they had reached police records.

Young Prince Michael, Ill with Flu, Has Setback

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 27.—(AP)—The condition of the young crown prince, Michael, who is suffering from influenza for the second time this winter, was considered less satisfactory tonight by court physicians. The illness developed yesterday while the boy was visiting his mother, Queen Helen. King Carol spent a long time today at the bedside of his son.

Rev. Yarrow Guilty; Must Pay $5,000

The Rev. Philip Yarrow, superintendent of the Illinois Vigilance association, was found guilty of malicious prosecution last evening by a jury in the court of Superior Judge Frank H. Hayes. He was ordered to pay $5,000 to Walter Shaver, a book seller, who charged that the minister had entrapped him into selling an obscene book.

A malice count is included in the verdict, which empowers the court to send the Rev. Mr. Yarrow to jail if the judgment is not paid.

Testimony showed that George Brown, an investigator for Mr. Yarrow, posing as a customer, went to Shaver's book store at 4715 Sheridan road in January, 1929, and asked to be shown a copy of a work called "A Night in a Moorish Harem." Shaver told him he did not have the book, but would order a copy from the publishers, and Brown promised to return the following evening for the volume.

Prosecuted by Yarrow.

When the book was delivered to Brown the Rev. Mr. Yarrow and three policemen appeared and arrested Shaver on a charge of selling indecent literature. Shaver was found not guilty by a jury in the Municipal court.

During the trial evidence was introduced to show that the minister received a percentage of the fines collected from persons whose arrest he causes for possessing or selling indecent literature. Shaver declared that he had no knowledge of the contents of the harem book and had ordered it only as a service to a customer.

Attorney Cameron Latter, representing the book seller, referred to his client's arrest as a "deliberate entrapment." The Rev. Mr. Yarrow he denominated "an un-American snooper with a lust for gold" and "a wolf in sheep's clothing."

Defense Calls Book the Issue.

"You would do the like of Yarrow's profession a favor by putting the stamp of disapproval on his work," the attorney told the jury. "By his own hands he has stripped the mantle of a minister from his shoulders. It was a frameup against Shaver and more shame to the man who framed him because he is a minister of the gospel."

The Rev. Mr. Yarrow's attorney, Reuben Freedman, declared that there was no malice in the arrest and that the minister was only doing his duty when he had Shaver taken into custody. The verdict, he asserted, would be a vote of approval or disapproval of the sale of books like "A Night in a Moorish Harem.

Holds Price Arouses Suspicion.

While on the stand the Rev. Mr. Yarrow had stated that while the price of $20 quoted by Shaver for the work did not necessarily imply that the contents were pornographic, he insisted that such a price gave him just cause for suspicion.

The minister received the verdict without comment. It was reported that all but one of the jury had favored conviction from the start.

The Rev. Mr. Yarrow for years has carried on crusades against vice resorts, stage and motion picture shows of an alleged indecent character, and alleged obscene literature. About a year ago when he criticized the Municipal courts as places in which citizens had "as much chance of getting justice as a cake of ice in the crater of Mont Pelee," Judge Immenhausen cited him for contempt. The case was dropped when the minister apologized. It was shown then that half the fines from prosecutions like that of Shaver go to the informer.

STATE MASSES TESTIMONY IN MURDER TRIAL

Policeman Reveals His Illusions.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

In two scenes of dramatic intensity the state's case against Leo V. Brothers for the murder of Alfred J. Lingle moved toward a climax yesterday in Judge Joseph Sabath's courtroom before a capacity audience in which lawyers, doctors, and members of the grand jury mingled with the general public.

Anthony L. Ruthy, the policeman who was on traffic duty at Michigan avenue and Randolph street on the afternoon of last June 9, the day of the murder in the Illinois Central subway, "surprised" the defense and astonished the crowd by admitting for the first time in public that he is a victim of mental illusions, and that he was under such illusions or "visions," as he termed it, when he identified Frank Foster as the fugitive he had chased from the scene a few minutes after the shooting.

Intended Defense Witness.

This apparently takes from the case the point of double identification, which the defense had frequently referred to. The defense lawyers had made know their intention of calling Ruthy as their witness to show that the man he had identified as Foster had been identified by others as Brothers.

Ruthy said his mind was a blank the day he identified Foster. It was brought out by the defense that Ruthy has been assigned to the office of Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, since last February, and they questioned Ruthy upon the theory that he was acting a clever part in yesterday's court performance.

Priest Identifies Brothers.

The second bit of high drama of the day was the testimony of the Rev. John J. Reynolds, C. S. C. [Congregation of the Holy Cross], an instructor in history at the University of Notre Dame.

"This man answers the description," Father Reynolds said in response to a request from Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks to pick out the man he had observed closely on Randolph street, running from the scene of the killing.

The priest walked from the witness stand to the side of the defendant and placed his hand on his shoulder to pick him out of the group at the table.

Another Points to Defendant.

Another witness, the seventh to identify Brothers, was Marcus David, 3600 Sunnyside avenue, a shipping clerk at the Blackstone shop.

He said he was waiting for a bus in front of the subway entrance at the southeast corner of Michigan avenue and Randolph street when he heard a shot and saw a young man come running up the steps. The man stopped a few moments and then ran across the street. He had a good look at his face, David said, and identified the man as Brothers.

"It is that man looking at me now," he said, pointing out the defendant.

A Conflict in Testimony.

There is conflict in the testimony of Father Reynolds and that of David as to the color of the suit that the fugitive wore. The priest said it was slate gray. David said it was brown. The priest described the hair of the runner as yellow blonde, but said that the sun was bright that day in an "untroubled sky" and that this would cause a sheen on the hair of the man, who was hatless.

Father Reynolds said he was "concentrating" on the face of the man. He sought to avoid being a witness, he said, but his superiors told him he "owed a duty to justice." He is a young and active, black haired man, who has been an athletic coach.

A motion was made by the defense at the close of his questioning to strike his testimony from the record, on the ground that the identification was not certain, but this was overruled.

Ruthy Called by Court.

The Ruthy scene came at the opening of the afternoon session, after a long consultation of attorneys before the bench. The state asked to have the court call the policeman as a witness, as the state regarded him as unreliable and desired the right to cross examine him, a right it would not have if he were called as a state's witness. The defense objections to this were finally overruled and Ruthy was called to the stand by Judge Sabath. Ruthy is a stout, red faced man, who spoke nervously and seemed to be making a great effort to control himself.

If he was acting, as the defense al-torneys at once began to intimate, it was a masterly performance, for his hands twitched, and he snapped his fingers and described little circles in front of him as he told of the visions that come to him, visions of Abraham Lincoln, a little black dog, and "the good Lord." They do strange things, he said.

Dr. James Whitney Hall, mental expert, and Dr. John McKiniock, who treated Ruthy for a fractured skull which resulted from an accident in 1924, were in court at the request of the state. Dr. Hall was ready to testify as to Ruthy's condition, but the defense asked for delay, and this was given until Monday. Brothers' attorneys are to get their own expert and this phase of the case will resolve itself into a question of expert opinion.

"I'd rather stand," said Ruthy, when he was told to take his seat in the witness chair. But he finally sat down. It is said of him that he is normal in any routine police work, such as he has been accustomed to since 1922, but that any strange surroundings may upset him. That he has been out on police work all this time, carrying a gun, was a matter of comment in court, but it was explained that his superiors did not know about his condition. Ruthy said he was "sick quite a bit in the head."

Examined by Both Sides.

After a brief examination by Judge Sabath he was cross-examined by Assistant State's Attorney Brooks and by Attorney Louis Piquett for the defense.

Just before the killing of Lingle, he said, he had a vision, as he stood in the midst of the roaring traffic. This was that a policeman had just been killed over by the viaduct, by a man in a gray coat. A little later he heard some one cry out, "Stop that man," and the vision seemed to melt into reality, for he saw a man running across the street. The vision and the man became one, and he gave chase. He did not know until the man had disappeared in Randolph street what had happened in the tunnel.

"Did you not identify Foster?" asked Mr. Piquett.

"I identified Foster as the vision at the time," was the cryptic reply.

If Ruthy was acting, he was well coached, or he must have made close observations at a psychopathic clinic.

It is expected that his testimony will result in his removal from further police duty. He said he had not done much since February, but had found two men with whom he had talked at the time of the Lingle killing.

RUTHY ON THE STAND

The courtroom was hushed as Policeman Ruthy took the witness stand. The crowd seemed somewhat bewildered by the lengthy wrangling of the attorneys over the policeman's testimony but appeared to sense that something unusual was to occur. Ruthy walked up the witness stand steps and raised his right hand as the oath was administered. He at first insisted on standing, but was finally persuaded to seat himself in the witness chair.

He gave his name as Anthony L. Ruthy, 1621 East 55th street, in response to questions from Judge Sabath. His voice was firm.

Q.—Have you been steadily at that occupation? A.—Except when I was sick. I was off quite a bit with a sickness in my head. The last time was in July.

As he spoke of the "sickness in his head," the witness passed his hand with a confused gesture over his brow.

Q.—Where are you stationed now? A.—At the state's attorney's office since the last part of February.

Q.—Where were you stationed on June 9, 1930? A.—At Randolph and Michigan.

Q.—Have you any recollection of anything unusual that day? A.—Yes.

Q.—What was it? A.—I had a vision. After that I found some one was killed there.

Judge Sabath signaled to Prosecutor Brooks to continue the questioning.

Q.—When you say you were assigned to the state's attorney's office, you mean you just sit in the office, don't you? A.—Just to be around there, yes.

Q.—Ever sent out of there? A.—Yes. I located two parties I talked to that day, June 9. I was ten days finding them.

Q.—When did this trouble in your head start? A.—I had an accident, fractured my skull at that corner.

Q.—It still bothers you? A.—Yes, it does.

His Vision of June 9.

Q.—What is this vision you speak of? A.—I don't know that many people get them. This day I'm speaking of something came to me that a policeman was killed in front of me in a vision just like that. (The witness indicated a spot in the air a few feet in front of him.) A man came running. He wore a gray suit and had black hair. The vision was in front of my face all the time. Finally the fellow—he was almost hit by an automobile—passed by me.

"Some one hollered," Ruthy went on. "The man ahead of me was running. I ran after him and the vision kept in front of me. I ran him up the alley, he and the vision. He turned the corner of the alley and over to Wabash. I still had the vision in front of me.

[The witness was gesturing as he described the chase.]

Loses the Fugitive.

"The man was bent over like he was trying to pull a cap from his pocket. I lost him in Randolph street. On the way back I met a boy who told me that a man had run into a priest and knocked him into the subway. Then I got over to Michigan and heard a man was killed. Gee whiz, I didn't know what to think then. I went down into the subway and there was a man lying on his stomach and a little gun near him. Officer Cleveland was there."

Ruthy's face had become flushed. A bailiff brought him a glass of water which he gulped eagerly.

"Has the state ever asked you to identify anybody in this case?" inquired Prosecutor Brooks.

"They never asked me at all," replied Ruthy.

Q.—Did you have any other difficulties with your head? A.—I had plenty of visions. I saw everybody from the good Lord down. I saw Abe Lincoln. I never saw Lincoln in my life. Gee, it must be terrible to think that this world will some day be ruled by the yellow race."

Q.—Have you told us now about all the visions you had? A.—Well, I saw a little black dog in a vision a few weeks ago.

PIQUETT CROSS-EXAMINES

Attorney Piquett of the defense took up the questioning.

Q.—You've been six weeks in the Temple building office of the state's attorney? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And in your regular duties as an officer you carry a gun? A.—Yes.

Q.—How long ago was this accident that hurt your head? A.—In 1924.

Q.—Did your visions get any better after you went into Pat Roche's office?

The witness seemed puzzled by this question. He finally answered: "Yes, I do."

Q.—You did identify some one you saw that day, didn't you? A.—I identified a vision I had in front of me that day.

Q.—Wasn't Frank Foster arrested? A.—My mind was blank that day.

Q.—Abe Lincoln wasn't arrested? A.—No, sir, not Abe Lincoln.

Q.—Did you tell the court at the time of the Foster trial about your visions? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you tell Dr. Hall about your visions? A.—Yes, sir. I can't help it if I had that accident.

Q.—Tell us more about Lincoln. Do you see him long? A.—O, about 15 or 20 minutes. I see others, too. Everybody from the good Lord down.

MARCUS DAVID TESTIFIES

Ruthy was then excused from the stand, Marcus David, a shipping clerk, who gave his address as 3600 Sunnyside avenue, was the next witness.

The examination of David, a pallid man with a high voice, who appeared nervous, proceeded under the direction of Prosecutor Brooks.

Q.—Where were you June 9, 1930? A.—At Randolph and Michigan.

Q.—Tell us how you got there. A.—I took my machine to 25th and Wabash to have it fixed and left it there. I took a bus back to the Blackstone shop on North Michigan avenue, where I was employed, and got off at Randolph street to transfer to a north side bus. I stood on the southeast corner, in front of the tunnel entrance.

Q.—What did you see? A.—I heard a shot. A young man came running. He went at a slow trot diagonally across the street.

Shouts to Policeman.

Q.—How far did you watch him? A.—He got past the cop. Then I heard a lady's voice, coming from the tunnel, calling, "Catch that man! Catch that man! He's just killed a man!" and I repeated her words in a shout to the policeman.

Q.—Then what did you do? A.—I saw the cop take after the gentleman running. I went down into the subway and after a while saw Capt. Gilbert there. I told him what I'd seen.

Q.—Did you get a good look at the man that was running? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Do you see him in the courtroom now? A.—Yes, sir. He is the gentleman looking at me [pointing at Brothers] behind the two other gentlemen there.

Q.—How was he dressed that day? A.—He had on a brown suit.

Under Cross-Examination.

Attorney Piquett cross-examined the witness.

Q.—Are you married? A.—No, I'm not—I'm glad to say. [Laughter.]

David was then asked to take the pointer and describe on the map of the scene of the slaying the course taken by the running man.

Q.—Did you notice a Yellow Cab parked at the southeast corner? A.—No, sir.

A list of other state's' witnesses was read to him. He said he knew none of them.

Q.—Were there other people there? A.—Yes, several. They were standing out in the street. There was a line of automobiles parked there.

Q.—Wasn't there a no parking sign there? A.—Sure. There are lots of 'em everywhere. They don't mean anything.

A Hat in His Hand.

Q.—Did the man you saw wear a hat? A.—No, sir, he had it in his right hand.

Q.—What was the color of his hair? A.—Blond.

Q.—A yellow blond? A.—No. More of a dark blond.

Q.—Have you ever identified any one else in this case? A.—A few days after the murder I was taken to see a man at the Shakespeare station. But he was just a shabby tramp. The man I saw running that day was a very classy young man.

Q.—Ever hear about a reward in this case? A.—Certainly.

Q.—How much was it? A.—Fifty-five thousand dollars, I understand.

Q.—Ever been promised any money in this case? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Do you expect to share in the reward? A.—Absolutely not.

Q.—Didn't you tell Capt. Gilbert the man you saw running was 5 feet 8 inches tall and with dark hair? A.—No. He was 5 feet 9 inches or more and a blonde and had a brown suit, very classy.

FATHER REYNOLDS' STORY

When the Rev. Father John Reynolds was called to the stand, the defense attorneys asked leave to question him privately. This permission was granted. After ten minutes, Father Reynolds took the stand. He was garbed in clerical black with the white collar of the Roman Catholic faith. He spoke in a high pitched voice which was in contrast to the almost inaudible testimony of some of the previous witnesses.

After preliminary questions concerning the witness' name and present address, Prosecutor Brooks questioned him as follows:

Q.—Where have you taught before? A.—On the Pacific coast. I taught history and coached the varsity track squad in a college there. I also did some coaching in football and basketball.

Q.—How long have you been ordained? A.—I am in my ninth year.

Here to See a Doctor.

Q.—Calling your attention to the 9th day of June, 1930, did you come to Chicago from Notre Dame? A.—Yes. I had an appointment with a doctor about some sinus trouble.

Q.—How did you come here? A.—By the South Shore line. I got off at Randolph street.

Q.—Tell us what followed. A.—I was halfway through the tunnel when I remembered that I had left my office book on the train. I went back for it, wondering at the time why the Lord had not given me an extra brain cell to provide against such things. Then I walked again through the tunnel and was almost to the west stairs when I heard a shot. It reverberated through the tunnel so loudly that I thought it was almost behind me. I turned around and looked to see if any one were lying on the ground. I saw a number of men running up the east stairway. I ran up the west stairway and looked around me, to see if the chase were on.

Hears Cry, "Stop That Man!"

Q.—What happened next? A.—I heard a voice, hysterical, high, calling: "Stop that man! Stop that man!" There was quite a crowd. Then across the street, between the safety island and the curb, I saw a blonde young chap making his way rapidly to the west curb. I followed him with my eyes. When he was about sixty feet away from me, he paused as if to mix in with the crowd.

An objection by the defense as to the apparent purpose of the fugitive was sustained by Judge Sabath.

"I stood there watching him," Father Reynolds resumed. "He ran about fifteen yards up Randolph street, then he turned around again. He stopped about five seconds each time."

Q.—Then? A.—I looked down the street. The policeman on duty was charging rapidly toward the running man. The man turned and ran up the alley.

Puts His Hand on Brothers.

Again the courtroom stilled to silence as Mr. Brooks asked the question which has been asked of each identifying witness:

"Do you see any one in the courtroom today who resembles that man you saw running?"

"Well," said the witness, choosing his words with care, "Mr. Brothers answers the description."

"Will you point him out?" asked the prosecutor.

There was some confusion when the witness sought to indicate Brothers. He said that the man "behind Mr. Krum" was Brothers. Brothers was sitting beside Defense Attorney Tyrrell Krum and a bailiff was sitting behind the lawyer. Prosecutor Brooks finally requested the priest to point at whom he meant.

The witness descended from the stand and with quick steps went over to where Brothers sat and laid his hand on the defendant's shoulder. Then he returned to his seat.

Q.—When did you next see this man? A.—At the Congress hotel, on Dec. 26. I don't recall the number of the room.

Q.—What were the circumstances under which you viewed him? A.—There was a cloth hanging over a doorway and an opening in the cloth about the height of my eyes. I asked to look at Brothers at a distance of sixty feet, at which distance I had seen the man that day. I viewed him at that distance. He was under movie lights.

Q.—Did you notice anything particular about him? A.—He fitted the description of the man on Randolph street. Besides that, his nervous reactions were the same as the man I saw——

Objections to the term "nervous reactions" were sustained.

DEFENSE TAKES WITNESS

The cross-examination was then conducted by Attorney Harry Cantwell of St. Louis.

Q.—Did you see any one standing around the east entrance of the tunnel that day? A.—There was too much of a crowd to notice any one in particular.

Q.—Did you see a Yellow cab at the east entrance? A.—I don't recall.

[Daniel D. Mills, a state witness, has testified that he was parked in a Yellow cab at the east entrance of the tunnel.]

Q.—Did you see Officer Ruthy there? A.—Yes. He was running very rapidly for a man his size.

Q. — How was the fleeing man dressed? A.—He had a sort of gray suit on, sort of a slate color.

Q. — What was the color of his shoes? A.—If I were to say, I would say black. I'm not sure. I was concentrated more on his face.

He Describes the Fugitive.

In response to questions about the height and weight of the fugitive, Father Reynolds estimated that he was about five feet ten inches tall and weighing between 160 and 170 pounds. He said he had not noticed any scars or marks on his face.

"What was the color of his hair?" Attorney Cantwell asked.

"Well," the witness again chose his words painstakingly, "the sunshine was very bright. The sky was untroubled by a cloud. His hair had a sort of shimmer to it. He seemed to be a decided blond.

Q. — Would you call it a golden blond? A.—I'd say a yellow, bright blond.

Q.—Did he have a hat on? A.—No. No hat on.

Q.—Wear any gloves? A.—When I looked at him his right hand was towards me and it seemed black. Having heard the shot, I assumed that he held a gun in his hand. But I'm not sure. It was his face that fascinated me.

Others in the Chase.

Q.—Anybody else chase him? A.—Yes, some people ran after the policeman. The policeman had no chance to catch him, as the fellow was fleet a d the policeman rather slow-gaited.

Q.—When did Roche ask you first to come here and identify a suspect? A.—Well, I was in New York and my personal attorney told me they wanted me to return to Chicago and look at a man. I didn't want to, so they asked me to write out a detailed description of the man. I did so.

Q.—What was that description? A.—The same as I have given here, only I added my impressions of the man as an athlete.

Q.—Would you say it was a man you heard yell: "Stop that man." A.—My first impression was that it was a woman. It seemed high, hysterical, nervous.

Questioned as to whether he had seen any other state witnesses at the scene that day, the witness declared he could not remember any. He mentioned that a man had spoken cordially to him as he passed in the tunnel and he was sure, he said, that this man was Lingle.

Lawyer Confers with Brothers.

During the cross-examination Attorney Cantwell conferred several times with Brothers. The latter whispered suggestions to his lawyer.

Q.—Were you ever asked to come to Chicago to hear the confession of Brothers—I mean the confession in a spiritual way? A.—No, I was hazy anyway about his faith. I understand he was a Catholic when young.

Q.—When did you first give your name to the authorities as a witness? A.—My superiors first told me to keep out of the case as they thought there were plenty of other witnesses. Then the newspapers began calling for the priest who had been on the scene and my superiors said I had a duty to justice—

This phrase was objected to by the defense attorneys and was ordered stricken out.

He Tells What He Saw.

"Well, anyway," resumed Father Reynolds, "I gave my name to the authorities and told them what I had seen."

"Was there another priest on the scene that day?" Attorney Cantwell inquired.

"My memory is hazy on that point," the witness answered.

The attorney then returned to the description of Brothers' hair which has been described by other witnesses as brown or light colored.

Q.—Was the hair of the man you saw lighter than mine? A.—It would be lighter in the sunshine.

Prosecutor Brooks asked one question on re-direct examination.

Q.—As you look at the defendant now, would you say he has the same hair as the man you saw? A.—Well, that hair has a sheen now under the electric light. And under the sunshine it would be even more pronounced.

The last sentence was objected to by the defense attorneys and was ordered stricken from the record. Judge Sabath ruled, however, that the first sentence of the answer should remain in the record.

APPLEGATE BACK AGAIN

Clark L. Applegate, the race horse trainer who had testified on Thursday that he saw Brothers drop a revolver in the tunnel immediately after Lingle was shot, and pursued the defendant up the subway stairs, again took the witness stand under cross-examination by Attorney Cantwell when court opened in the morning. Queries concerning Applegate's friendship with Lingle were renewed.

Q.—When did you first meet Mr. Lingle. A.—Four or five years ago.

Q.—And when did you become intimate friends? A.—O, our friendship grew regularly.

Q.—And were you an intimate friend of Pat Roche? A.—I knew him very well.

Q.—Have any business transactions with him? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Have you any other business occupation than training horses? A.—No, sir.

Never Reimbursed for Opinion.

Q.—Has any one ever reimbursed you for an expert opinion on the winner of a horse race? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Ever share in the winnings on races in which you had furnished an opinion? A. [with a grin]—I've shared in the losings.

"Has your license ever been canceled for training horses?" asked Attorney Cantwell.

"No, sir," responded Applegate.

Attorney Cantwell returned to the subject of Investigator Roche's connection with the witness.

Q.—Did Roche ever tell you that the state had spent a lot of money getting this man Brothers, and had a lot of trouble identifying him? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you ever make the statement that the man you saw running from the tunnel was about 5 feet 6 or 8 inches tall and weighed about 150 pounds? A.—No.

Q.—Did you see a left-handed glove lying around that day? A.—No.

Q.—Did the slayer wear a glove? A.—I'm not positive.

Q.—Did he throw the gun away with his hand? A.—Well, he couldn't throw it away with his foot.

The cross-examination of Applegate was concluded. Prosecutor Brooks arose to make this statement:

"Let the record show that when the defense wishes to subpoena Mrs. Applegate the state will be glad to oblige by serving the subpoena."

The defense attorneys objected to this statement and Judge Sabath sustained the objection. In his opening statement Mr. Brooks had indicated that Mrs. Applegate, who was with her husband in the tunnel, would not be called by the state because of her nervous condition. The defense has indicated it will subpoena her.

THREE MEN HELD FOR MURDER OF GARAGE MAN; ONE CONFESSES

Henry Davis, Howard Hunter, and David Allen, all Negroes, were held at the detective bureau last night for the murder of Newton Pirtle, 30 years old, attendant in the Wickhorst garage, 3940 West Harrison street, who was clubbed to death the previous night. Pirtle was married and the father of two children.

Davis, the police said, confessed that upon his discharge from the garage two weeks ago he had threatened to kill Pirtle and had later enlisted the aid of Hunter and Allen. They looked on as Davis struck Pirtle, first with an Indian club and then with a hammer, according to the alleged confession.

With Pirtle dead, Hunter suggested taking the cash register in a stored automobile to lend the crime the appearance of a robbery, according to the police. Davis, found driving the car, was seized and he implicated the other two.

TELLS ABOUT GUN

Dr. Clarence Muehlberger, chemist and toxicologist for the coroner, testified that the revolver which had been taken from the side of Lingle's body was given to him for examination by Deputy Coroner H. L. Porsche. It had six cartridges in it, one of which had been fired, he said. Lieut. Col. Calvin Goddard, ballistics expert, fired a test shot from the revolver into waste, then took the bullet and compared it with the Lingle death bullet. Col. Goddard is to testify as to his findings next week.

The numbers on the gun, which was a .38 Colt Detective Special, had been filed away, Dr. Muehlberger said, but he applied an etching reagent and three hours later was able to make out the number for photographing, as 364,533. Coroner Bundesen has testified that the gun of this number was sold to a man supposed to be Frank Foster.

Adjournment of the trial was taken until Monday at the request of the defense, who said they had information they wanted to look up in St. Louis. With the exception of the doctors to testify on Ruthy the state has only two more witnesses, and may close the case in chief on Monday. The doctors are to testify on Tuesday.

SUES WIFE'S KIN FOR LOST LOVE; SEEKS $350,000

St. Louis, Mo., March 27.—(AP)—John T. Milliken Jr., son of the late millionaire founder of J. T. Milliken & Co., chemical manufacturing firm, today filed suit for $350,000 damages against the mother and three other relatives of his wife, the family lawyer, and a friend of the wife, charging them with alienation of her affections.

Milliken, who is heir to one-fourth of his father's estate, was married at Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 28, 1929, to Miss Mildred McCloy of Pittsburgh. It was his second marriage, his first wife having obtained a divorce in 1927. The second Mrs. Milliken filed suit for divorce Feb. 16.

In his suit Milliken names as defendants his mother-in-law, Mrs. Harriet Flannery McCloy; his wife's uncles, J. Rogers Flannery and Walter Flannery; her aunt, Mrs. Evelyn Mulvihill; Joseph A. Beck, Pittsburgh attorney, and Mrs. Charles Weigland of St. Louis.

QUIZ GUARDS WHO KILLED CONVICTS IN JOLIET BREAK

Names Are Revealed at Legislative Inquiry.

Members of the special legislative committee investigating the causes of the recent riots in the Joliet and Stateville penitentiaries learned yesterday for the first time the names of the guards who shot and killed three prisoners as they were attempting to escape from the Joliet prison on Feb. 22.

All except one of the men stationed outside the prison walls to break up the escape were questioned. The exception is Arthur Weiss, who is in a Chicago hospital, where he underwent an operation several days ago. Only one of those questioned admitted that he had fired on the escaping men. He is Albert Stelling, who has been a prison keeper for four years. On the morning the break for freedom was made, he said, he fired five times with a shotgun and apparently struck two of the fugitives.

Watched for Many Days.

"Every morning at 3 o'clock I took my stand on Woodruff road, near the southeast prison wall," he asserted. "I was hidden behind an automobile with a shotgun in my hands. We had been told that the convicts were going to try to make a big break from the hospital.

"I couldn't see the inmates as they came down the wall. I heard somebody shout, 'Here they come,' and then 'Halt.' I saw one man coming under a light. I blazed away at him and he fell. I saw another one coming and I shot at him. He fell, too."

Representative Michael Igoe [Dem., Chicago] asked who had given the command to halt and Stelling replied that he didn't know. He was positive, however, that the order was given.

"Isn't there a rule that says you must call halt to a man before you shoot at him?" demanded Mr. Igoe.

No Order About Warning.

"I never heard it," returned the prison guard. "I had no such order from the warden. When a man goes over the wall or leaves his division it is understood that he is to be shot."

Under close questioning Stelling said that this rule was given him by Deputy Warden Berriman in 1926 and he had never heard of any change.

"You didn't give the first man any warning yourself."

"No, I let him have it. The newspapers had given him warning. There was noo need for me to give any warning. It is up to the prisoners to stay inside the wall; they have no business outside."

Quizzed on Powder Burns.

Stelling said that at least one more shot had been fired besides those coming from his gun. Representative Igoe and Representative Thon [Rep., Oak Park] questioned him about powder burns that convict witnesses reported seeing on the body of one of the men shot, and Stelling declared to knew nothing about them. He maintained that he was from seventy-five to a hundred feet from the men when he fired.

Testimony about the powder marks was disputed by Dr. C. J. Carlin, prison physician, who asserted there were none. He added that none of the men had been shot in the top of the head. Convicts had declared that guards fired down on the fugitives from the wall.

Stelling admitted that he was regarded as the best marksman among the guards. He named Weiss and Capt. B. A. Davenport, guard, who was severely beated in the first riot on March 14, as among those whom he had seen after the shooting. The three of them went and looked at the bodies as they lay in the street about fifteen minutes after the shooting. They had not gone to them sooner, the guard said, because it was feared more prisoners were coming over.

Other Guards Named.

The guards who were outside the walls but denied doing any shooting were Joseph P. Smith, William Bittle, Frank Harrelson, Nicholas Hankasky, and L. J. Pettit.

Ever since the riots the Feb. 22 shooting has been a live issue in the investigation, the convicts and the Rev. George L. Whitmeyer, ousted chaplain, having designated it as murder. Prison officials, on the other hand, have maintained that it was impossible to shut off the escape inside the walls and that the only feasible method was to be prepared to kill those making the break.

Deputy Warden George A. Erickson furnished the guards' names under protest, claiming that as soon as they were known it would be impossible for them to go again into the prison yard. Warden Hill, who was not a witness yesterday, said that he would not accept any recommendation made by the committee about the disposition of guards.

About Solitary Confinement.

Deputy Warden Erickson was questioned about solitary punishment and declared that the longest stretch of it ever given a prisoner was thirty days. It was rare when a man had to go to the hospital as a result of being tied to the bars. Two prisoners who have undergone long sentences in solitary, John Tepper and Walter Knauer, are to be heard today.

During the hearing W. D. Heise, a Joliet attorney, appeared as counsel for the guards, stating that he had been retained by their relatives and friends.

The committee plans to end its taking of testimony at the old prison today. Hearings, when they are resumed, probably some time next week, will be at Springfield. Warden Hill continued his strict régime with the convicts at both prisons yesterday, all but 600 of the total of nearly 4,700 being kept locked in the cells even at meal times.

2,000 Jobless Families to Get Farms in Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 27.—President Ibanes today signed a decree ordering farm plots, animals, and labor implements to be given to 2,000 jobless families. The families will be given twenty years to pay at 6 per cent interest. Most of these unemployed families formerly worked in the nitrate fields.

SPRING FREEZE TO TURN DRIZZLE TO SNOW TODAY

Deaths Reported in Plains Storm.

A belated blast of winter was bearing on Chicago last night. Hovering in the upper thirties up to midnight, the thermometer was expected to slip below freezing soon after daybreak, transforming the steady rain to snow.

The weather man, W. P. Day, predicted continued chilly temperatures and unsettled skies throughout the day, with the mercury falling still lower late tonight to reach a probable minimum of 20 degrees tomorrow morning. Tomorrow, he indicated, will be fair and cold.

Snow Blankets Plains.

The spring snowstorm, having pushed northeastward to the Mississippi valley, leaving beneficial moisture in the farming areas, was centered last night over the vicinity of St. Louis. In its wake was a snow blanket that blocked traffic from the Texas panhandle to the Dakotas. Rainfall, in some places more than an inch, fell in Illinois, Missouri, and Iowa. Quincy reported three-quarters of an inch.

From two to four inches of snow covered northwestern Iowa, northeastern Nebraska, South Dakota, and southern Minnesota, and light snow fell in southern Wisconsin yesterday. The general forecast called for colder weather and snow today in Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin.

Railway trains from the west reported delays of several hours, the most serious hazards being met in Kansas. One train of the Santa Fe line, due in Chicago at 9:25 p. m., was snowbound in Kansas, where strong gales piled the snow in deep drifts. All other lines from the west reported delays of two to four hours.

North Dakota reported the first fatality of the storm. S. E. S. Huse of Mankato, Minn., was killed when a blinding snowstorm wrecked his car at Eckelson, N. D. Bud Fountain of Cloud, Neb., and John Ukena of Gordon, Neb., were reported missing, and hundreds of motorists suffered frozen hands and feet in the blizzard area.

Destruction of fruit crops seemed certain in parts of Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, and Texas. The temperature went below zero in the Dakotas and near zero readings were reported as far south as Amarillo, Tex., where it was 7 above.

CANAL VICTIM IDENTIFIED.

The body of a man taken from the drainage canal at Lockport on Wednesday was identified last night as that of Isaac Meyer, 65 years old, 3328 West Monroe street.

A NIGHT LETTER from Ring Lardner

Tucson, Ariz., March 27.—[Special.]—Mrs. Henry L. Crane of this city returned today from New York where she saw a clean show [she forgets the name of it], did some shopping and went through a harrowing and costly experience. She was staying at a quiet family hotel on Forty-fifth street between Broadway and Eighth avenue, and one night, returning late from a picture, she was held up by a bandit and robbed of her purse. The bandit was unarmed excepting for a revolver, but Mrs. Crane, who is not in the best of health, refrained from making an outcry for fear she would attract the attention of a policeman.

ATLANTIC PILOT HERO FINED FOR BREACH OF RULES

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Clarence D. Chamberlin, the first pilot to carry a passenger across the Atlantic ocean, was grounded for a week and fined $50 today for infraction of federal aviation regulations.

CLARENCE D. CHAMBERLIN. [Acme Photo.]

Chamberlin was punished, according to officials here, as a result of operating an airplane on an unexpired license. The action was recommended by Inspector Sanford Willets of New York, who declared that Chamberlin had also flown a plane across New York bay at an altitude of 40 feet, whereas federal regulations allow a minimum of 500 feet.

Chamberlin, who is now employed in an advisory capacity by the New York police department, reported that he was testing a plane in which Ruth Nichols, holder of the women's altitude record, was to attempt a distance flight.

AVIATRIX FALLS MILES, BUT MAY HAVE NEW MARK

Elinor Smith Unhurt in Quest for Record.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., March 27.—(AP)—The possibility that Miss Elinor Smith shattered the women's altitude record before she became unconscious and fell about 25,000 feet in her airplane today was voiced tonight by William Ward, president of the National Aeronautical association, who examined the barograph of the plane.

Long Island's flapper flyer succeeded in landing the ship with only slight damage and no injury to herself.

Ward will send the barograph to Washington at once for calibration.

Her Motor Stalls.

Miss Smith was attempting to regain the women's altitude record from Miss Ruth Nichols. She was over New York City when the motor stalled. By expert maneuvering she brought it down in a field.

The plane overturned and the propeller and cowling over the motor were damaged. A severe headache caused by her oxygen tank becoming disconnected in the wild descent was Miss Smith's only ill effect.

Gains Altitude Rapidly.

"I got to 25,000 feet in just about 30 minutes," she said. "I was over New York City when I noticed the motor was turning up about 2,100 revolutions per minute.

"We were going along like a house on fire when zowie—it was all over. I thought first of the gas, but found I still had some. I had my safety belt off and as I leaned back I must have slipped a screw in the oxygen tank. The next thing I knew my heat felt like it was all swelled up.

Drops 23,000 Feet.

"I looked at the altimeter and found I had dropped 23,000 feet.

"I didn't have time to put my belt on, but I threw off my helmet and goggles so I wouldn't get cut from them. Then she went over and there I was. I had on an extra heavy padded flying suit."

She said as soon as the plane is repaired she will make another attempt at the record.

EVEN THE LADIES MUST HAVE THEIR RIOTS IN GERMANY

BERLIN, March 27.—(AP)—Fists and chairs were brought into play tonight when female communist sympathizers started a free for all fight at a meeting of women members of the Nationalist "Steel Helmet" organization. Husbands, who were waiting outside, helped police restore order.

The communist women feigned heart attacks and even death and then screamed wildly when the police started to eject them. There were no serious injuries.

Twenty persons were injured at Lundenscheid tonight when communists and National Socialists clashed at a meeting of the latter group.

Drys Raid Night Club on West Side; Arrest Owner

Federal dry agents led by Deputy Marshals Joseph Spizzirri and Joseph O'Neill late last night raided the Byron Tavern, a night club at 2349 Byron street. Eight couples were in the place at the time. Henry Canowet, the owner, was arrested, and a quantity of liquor and about twenty-five dozen bottles of beer were confiscated. According to Spizzirri, a small liquor cutting plant was discovered in the basement. Canowet will be arraigned this morning before United States Commissioner Walker.

LINDBERGH FLIES 3 MILES A MINUTE IN NEW PLANE

Ship Is Shaped Like Winged Bullet.

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, accompanied by his wife, tried out a new low wing Lockheed plane equipped with retractable landing gears in two test flights over the metropolitan area today.

Attaining a top speed estimated by observers at more than 200 miles an hour, the plane landed at a surprisingly low speed for so fast a craft. The plane is shaped like a winged bullet.

"The plane performed very well, indeed," Col. Lindbergh said later.

Operate Gear by Crank.

"Its wing design and dimensions are the same as in my own plane, which will be fitted with the retractable landing gear as soon as possible. In the plane I flew today this gear is operated by a crank mechanism, but in another which is being completed on the coast and in my own ship it will have hydraulic control."

Asked what speed he had attained, Col. Lindbergh said:

"The manufacturer's rating is 201 miles an hour. Without putting the plane over a speed course I should not like to say what the exact top was."

Retractable Landing Gear.

The plane, which Col. Lindbergh flew today, is powered with a 425 horsepower Pratt & Whitney Wasp motor, while his own Lockheed Sirius, which now is at Teterboro, N. J., awaiting installation of the retractable landing gear, has a 575 horsepower Wright Cyclone motor.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh drove to the Newark airport from their home near Princeton and looked over the new plane, the landing gear of which was developed in part from suggestions made by the colonel. The pilot is able to retract the whole undercarriage of the plane into recesses in the wing and thus reduce the parasitic resistance of the craft.

Goes Aloft Second Time.

Taking off at 10 a. m., the colonel circled over the tip of Staten island, attaining an altitude of about 3,000 feet. He swung about in a wide circle which brought him over the city side of the North river and then landed at 10:22 a. m. Three minutes later he went aloft again for a ten minute spin.

Miss Ruth Nichols, holder of the woman's altitude record, and several other pilots also tried out the new ship and expressed pleasure at its performances.

DENTIST IS FOUND DEAD.

Acting on the suspicions of a patient, police last night burst in the office door of Dr. C. L. Shecsley, a dentist, at 702 East 63d street, and found the dentist dead in bed in his rear living quarters. He had been dead several days.

CHIROPRACTOR FREED; LICENSE CHARGE DROPPED

Frank Wittenberger, a Des Plaines chiropractor, was acquitted of practicing medicine without a license in the Des Plaines police court yesterday on the testimony of the parents of 8 year old Lester Henke, who died of a spinal disorder on Feb. 8, while under Wittenberger's care. Magistrate William R. Hayes nolle prossed the charge on recommendation of Assistant State's Attorney Robert Donigan, who conceded there was insufficient evidence. Dr. A. M. Purves, who attended the boy shortly before his death, alleged that Wittenberger had made a faulty diagnosis and testified he saw the chiropractor administering treatments to the boy. The parents contradicted Dr. Purves.

BABY SUFFERING FROM ECZEMA
Quickly healed by Resinol

"I want you to know how much your wonderful Resinol Ointment has helped my baby. At the age of eight months he developed a case of eczema on his forehead. The skin became so red and sore that people even remarked about it and I hated to take him out. I tried other ointments but none were successful until I tried your Resinol Ointment. After using the contents of one jar and a small amount of the second, his skin was completely healed. I am never without this product."

CERMAK BATTLES THOMPSON WITH HIS OWN WEAPON

Mayor Proposes Added Tax Burden, He Says.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Using the opposition's own campaign material to prove his point, A. J. Cermak, Democratic mayoralty nominee, asserted last night that the city hall hopes, if it wins on April 7, to increase expenditures, adding $20,000,000 a year to the bills of the taxpayers.

Speaking to an audience that filled the De Paul auditorium, he said that the opposition had provided complete corroboration of his charge that retention of the present administration in power will mean a huge jump in taxes. He said that the same set of facts verified fully his assertion that the city hall is responsible for the present upward swing in property owners' bills.

Cites Statement of Mayor.

His argument was based on an assertion of Mayor Thompson, made in recent speeches, that he has found the lawyers are all wrong about the city's having used up its bonding power and that if he is reëlected he will issue $400,000,000 in new municipal bonds. Cermak said the minimum interest on these bonds would be $20,000,000 a year.

This was the climax of a day of discussion of this subject by Cermak. He alluded to it first at a crowded noon meeting at the Adelphi theater. He touched on it again at a gathering of 250 social workers at the Hotel Morrison and again at an afternoon meeting at the Music Box theater. But he hit it the hardest at De Paul.

"To issue $400,000,000 in bonds, provided that they bore only the comparatively low rate of 5 per cent interest," he said, "would mean that an additional burden of $20,000,000 a year would be placed upon the shoulders of the taxpayers, to say nothing of the $400,000,000 they would have to pay ultimately.

Tax Rates Would Rise.

"To meet the interest charges alone it would be necessary to increase still further the city corporate and education tax rates, which already have risen from $3.15 in 1927 to $4.03 in 1929, and are still going up.

"Such an increase would mean the confiscation of the homes of many small taxpayers. Already thousands of home owners have found it impossible to pay even their 1929 tax bills, now due, which have been increased 19 to 20 per cent through city hall expenditures. How can these and other property owners ever expect to pay bills that will include the additional $20,000,000 now proposed.

Puts Blame on City Hall.

"To simplify the discussion of the tax problem I have heretofore confined myself largely to the question of rates. I have said little about the additional tax burden created by the revaluation of real estate. But I want to show you tonight that the responsibility for the tangle that resulted from that revaluation rests squarely on the present city administration and its partner, the state administration under Len Small.

"Let me state the facts. The original assessment for 1928 was made first by the board of assessors, four out of five of whom were Republicans allied with the city hall. Then the board of review, consisting of three Republicans, all of whom were friendly to the city hall at that time, passed upon the assessment.

"Then the state tax commission came into the picture. That entire board, including its chairman, William H. Malone, was appointed by Gov. Small, who was put into office by city hall votes and who now is ready to run for governor again if Thompson wins.

Reassessment Ordered by Malone.

"Malone, a Small-Thompson follower, ordered the reassessment. If Thompson had never been in office, Malone never would have been in office. Whatever the reassessment cost, whatever changes in valuation it brought about, what confusion it cost, what difficulties it imposed on local governments, rests squarely on the city hall."

He then went on to say that the tax situation in Chicago is responsible for much of the local aggravation of the business depression and the large amount of unemployment in the city, that the uncertainty concerning future taxes, as well as the present high rates, not only are keeping new industries out of the city, but driving hitherto successful Chicago industries to new locations.

He said that stagnation in the building industry alone—because of high taxes—is responsible for one extremely serious form of unemployment.

Cites Inactivity in Building.

"Ninety per cent of the building trade workers of the city are idle today," he said, "because taxes are so high it is unprofitable to own real estate or to put up buildings. The idleness of these building trades workers means the idleness of others who produce the things the building workers would buy if they had the money to do so.

"Until a mayor is elected who is opposed to increased taxation, who favors reduction instead, unemployment will continue. It certainly will not be done away with by talking about $400,000,000 bond issues and adding $20,000,000 a year to the burden upon the taxpayers."

At the Adelphi Cermak displayed a copy of a resolution adopted by the city council with Thompson's approval, he said, in which the city government guaranteed to pay its share of the original estimated cost of the reassessment. He said it showed that Thompson wanted the revaluation.

Thompson Meeting Lacks Crowd.

The Thompson meeting at the Apollo did not fill the house. There were empty seats on the main floor while he was speaking. And there was hissing when he apparently was starting to repeat his attack on Julius Rosenwald for supporting Cermak. Apparently the sound of it stopped him from completing that part of his regular speech.

In the course of other phases of his appeal to various forms of racial, religious, and class prejudice he referred for the first time to Cermak as a "Bohunk."

"For the first time in my life," he said, "I saw the Irish lay down to a Bohunk. Something tells me the Irish on April 7 are going to tell this Bohunk where to get off."

Another speaker, John M. Harlan, whose independent candidacy was terminated by the election board on grounds of invalidity, conceded during his talk that Cermak now is leading.

"We don't care if Tony has the edge now," he said. "We're going around the line and when the score is counted we'll be far in the lead."

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, who gave up his candidacy, added his name last night to those protesting against appeals to intolerance and ignorance.

"Don't be misled by a slanderous subterfuge created only to divert your mind from the real issue," he said in a radio speech. "A man's religion, name and personal actions are his own business. Only his public character belongs to the people he serves."

NOTES OF MAYORALTY RACE

The Cermak radio program today opens with the broadcasting of the speeches before the Illinois Women's Democratic club at the Hotel Sherman at 2 o'clock. In the evening Ulysses S. Schwartz will be on WBBM at 8 o'clock, Col. A. A. Sprague on WJJD at 8:15, Thomas F. Byrne and Michael J. Galvin on WCFL at 8:45, and Attorney John P. McKinley on WIBO at 9:45.

Without naming the speakers, Thompson headquarters announced it will have speeches on the air tonight as follows: 6:30, WJJD; 7:15, WCFL; 9:45, WGES, WBBM and WIBO.

Former service men of the west side have arranged a "grand rally" for the Democratic nominees at the Mid-City hall, 3350 West Jackson boulevard, Monday night.

John R. Palandech announced that, after criticizing Thompson for stirring up racial and religious strife, editors and publishers of fifty foreign language newspapers representing seventeen nationalities pledged their support to Cermak. The action was taken at a dinner at which Cermak was a guest.

Lieut. Fred R. Weiss, a Fifth division veteran, left his sickbed at the Hines Memorial hospital to obtain the signatures of 500 of his comrades for a statement favoring Cermak because of his work for service men.

Mrs. William S. Hefferan will address a meeting of neighbors of the Harper Junior High school tonight at 8 p. m. at the residence of Mrs. Mary De Lorme, 8507 Justine street, on public school matters. She is speaking before school patrons in the interest of A. J. Cermak.

The Jewish Woman's Progressive League for Cermak, headed by Mrs. Louis Voller, a Republican, will sponsor a series of neighborhood meetings during the coming week. One on Monday will be at 2 p. m. at Albany Park Masonic temple, 4652 North Kedzie avenue. One will also be held at that time at the home of Mrs. Arthur Wilkins, 5200 Ingleside avenue.

CHARITY CHIEFS TELL WHY THEY BACK CERMAK

Leaders of Church Groups Praise Candidate.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Social service leaders from private charitable groups supported by Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish faiths, told a luncheon group in the Morrison hotel yesterday why they will vote for A. J. Cermak, Democratic nominee for mayor.

The meeting, sponsored by the independent social service committee for Cermak, was attended by social service workers from all over the city. The speakers stressed coöperation from the county department of public welfare since its organization by Mr. Cermak as president of the county board. Mr. Cermak reviewed the progress in county welfare work during his administration and told of his plans for Chicago if he becomes mayor.

Cahn Praises County Bureau.

Louis M. Cahn, director of the Jewish charities of Chicago, declared:

"When Mr. Cermak appointed the county welfare bureau four years ago he did not know race, color, or creed. He appointed those whom he thought would be able to carry out the idea of social service.

"Every suggestion to make social service more efficient was supported by the county commissioners headed by Mr. Cermak. We have every reason to feel confident that he will carry out the promises made for Chicago, because he has carried out promises for the county."

Mrs. George V. McIntyre, president of the Big Sisters, said that as a representative of the organization of Catholic women interested in the welfare of girls and women, her work had taken her into every institution operated by the county.

Calls Cermak "Remarkable Man."

"I want to say right here that any request that we have made has always been heard and if of a constructive nature, granted. After my experience of the last eight years I believe Mr. Cermak is a truly remarkable man who has done great things. We are for him and we know he is the man to lead Chicago."

Miss S. P. Breckinridge of the social service school of the University of Chicago declared that "Cermak will not only make a better mayor, but a good mayor."

NONPARTISAN GROUP MOBILIZES 2,400 TO BLOCK VOTE FRAUDS

Twenty-four hundred neutral watchers, most of them ex-service men with credentials of the board of election commissioners, will help guard the polls against fraud at the mayoralty election on April 7, according to an announcement yesterday by C. B. Hopkins, secretary of the Voters Nonpartisan association.

The nonpartisan organization is an outgrowth of the troubles in the elections of 1928 and has had workers at every primary and election since then. It is headed by Rush C. Butler and one of its members is Franck J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission.

Word has reached the organization that schools to instruct repeaters have been formed in at least one ward of the city at which "pupils" are paid $1 to vote "right," Mr. Hopkins said. His organization, he said, has informed the election officials of this case and plans to thwart any such illegal voting which is attempted.

The election board yesterday continued its hearings on suspect notices sent out mostly in the colored wards. The hearings will close tonight.

MRS. BORDEN TELLS WHY SHE IS FOR CERMAK

The independent women's committee in the campaign headquarters of Anton J. Cermak yesterday made public the fourth of a series of interviews with housewives, business women, social workers, and society leaders who are supporting Mr. Cermak. Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank heads the independent women's committee.

Mrs. Waller Borden, 1020 Lake Shore drive, asked why she intended to vote for Cermak, replied:

"I've always been a Republican. The only reason I'm deserting my party temporarily is that Mayor Thompson in three administrations has failed to give us good government. I believe from Mr. Cermak's past record that he will."

German Jobless Office Gets $20,000,000 Credit

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 27.—The national unemployment office today obtained a credit of $20,000,000 from the reichsbank to cover its temporary deficit arising from lower receipts from contributions and through the fact that the insurance office is no longer directly financed by the government.

LEWIS PREDICTS ERA OF GREAT U. S. PROSPERITY

Be Ready for Opportunity, Senator Urges.

With the United States achieving its destiny as the world's source of supply, an era of unbounded prosperity is approaching. This forecast was made by Senator James Hamilton Lewis before the members of the round table of the Medical and Dental Arts club yesterday.

"We need only be patient for a little while, endure a little longer," Senator Lewis said. "Our situation is the most remarkable in history. We are entering upon a position no nation ever held. None of us will live long enough to see the end of it as it sweeps along a great arc to the top."

Senator Lewis diagnosed the period of depression, drawing the parallel of a physician studying outward symptoms as indicative of inward conditions and inward conditions as leading to outward manifestations. The organs of government, he said, may be studied in the same fashion as human organs, so that whenever a great conflict ends with victory for an invaded nation the nation inevitably enters on a period of great prosperity.

Optimistic for U. S. Future.

The rise of England as the manufacturing agent of Europe after the Napoleonic wars and the rise of Germany in science, art, and production after the Franco-Prussian war were cited by the speaker as examples. America alone emerged from the world war uninvaded in every sense of the word, he said.

"There is always a lapse at the end of a great struggle," Senator Lewis said. "This lapse is feared as pointing to a period of depression. It is rather a period of fruition toward the ripening of an era of development. In days past the United States was a debtor to other nations. It is now a creditor with interest on loans reaching $1,000,000,000 annually."

Opportunity for America.

Senator Lewis characterized other nations as wasted and distracted. He pointed to South America in upheaval, with nine nations under domination of dictators; to China torn by internal revolution, to Japan agitated by dissent, and to Europe in a ferment of political unrest.

"For the first time in the history of civilization a nation is without a competitor," he declared. "We are that nation. The people of the United States have a situation without parallel, they should educate themselves to look to the future and see what it holds in its lap.

"The sun is rising, lighting the arching sky just beyond. There we enter on our destiny as the first nation in all the world, for the first time in our civilization, to enjoy full prosperity of a hitherto unknown degree."

KILLED BY FREIGHT CAR.

Jolted from the roof of a freight car he was repairing, Joseph de Marco, 64 years old, of Schiller Park, a carpenter, was thrown beneath the wheels and fatally injured yesterday in the Soo line yards in Schiller Park.

BUSINESS MANAGER DISPLAYS $11,000 REPORT ON SCHOOLS

Ernest Withall, Republican committeeman in the 15th ward and business manager for the board of education, yesterday exhibited copies of a 16 page color magazine filled with pictures of school buildings and board members, issued as the 66th annual report of the schools system. He said that 500,000 copies of the report have been printed by the Cuneo Press, Inc., at a cost of $11,000. The money was taken from the president's contingent fund, he said.

In a debate last Wednesday over the plan to distribute the report among the school children, Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, only Democratic trustee, charged that the report was political campaign literature.

The magazine boasts that 119,521 seats for pupils will be provided when the present building program is completed. Statistical information occupies less than one page. The other 15 pages are taken up with laudatory letters, pictures of buildings, board members, and department heads, and pictures illustrating classroom activities.

EMMERSON HAS WEEKS TO WEIGH DRY REPEAL BILL

Can Delay Decision Well Into April.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 27.—[Special.]—The O'Grady-McDermott dry law repeal bill passed by the senate Wednesday will not reach Gov. Emmerson in shape for his signature or veto before the end of next week, it seemed probable today.

The repeal measure and the tax warrant bill to replenish the depleted state treasury, which went through both houses of the assembly this week, is now in the enrolling and engrossing department, being put in final form.

This completed, it will be returned to the legislative chambers and signed by officers of both houses—Lieut. Gov. Sterling and Secretary Paddock on the senate side, and Speaker Shanahan and Clerk Blaeuer in the house of representatives. It is then ready for submission to the governor, who has ten days from that date to sign, veto, or allow the measure to become a law without signature.

Immediately upon its receipt, the governor, following regular procedure, will send the bill to the Supreme court building for an opinion on its legality from Attorney General Carlstrom. A bill is rarely returned from this office in less than four or five days.

This would leave the governor ten days to consider his action. If any hearings upon the bill are held before him, they will be held during this time. No requests for hearings have yet reached his office.

THE BETTER WAY TO PREVENT CONSTIPATION

YOU MUST look out for the health of your family. Often a faulty diet leads to constipation. Headaches, dizziness, loss of energy follow. Husband and children become irritable. Serious disease may develop.

You can prevent this by including roughage in the diet. A pleasant way to supply this roughage is with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, a delicious, ready-to-eat cereal.

Two tablespoonfuls daily, for each person, will prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In severe cases, use with each meal. Do this instead of giving them habit-forming pills and drugs.

ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron to enrich the blood and lend color to cheeks and lips. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

an Delay Decision Well Into April.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 27.—[Spe-l.]—The O'Grady-McDermott dry repeal bill passed by the senate ednesday will not reach Gov. Emrson in shape for his signature or e before the end of next week, seemed probable today.

The repeal measure and the tax rrent bill to replenish the depleted e treasury, which went through h houses of the assembly this week, now in the enrolling and engross-department, being put in final m.

This completed, it will be returned the legislative chambers and signed officers of both houses—Lieut. Gov. rling and Secretary Paddock on the ate side, and Speaker Shanahan d Clerk Blaeuer in the house of presentatives. It is then ready for mission to the governor, who has days from that date to sign, veto, allow the measure to become a law thout signature.

Immediately upon its receipt, the vernor, following regular procedure, l send the bill to the Supreme court iding for an opinion on its legality m Attorney General Carlstrom. A is rarely returned from this office less than four or five days.

This would leave the governor five ys to consider his action. If any arings upon the bill are held before
, they will be held during this time.
requests for hearings have yet

MICHIGAN MAY TRY FRED BURKE IN MURDER CASE

'Most Dangerous' Outlaw to Fight Extradition.

St. Joseph, Mo., March 27.—[Special.]—The claims of Chicago for the custody of Fred Burke, the "most dangerous man alive," as one of the machine gunners who participated in the Clark street massacre on St. Valentine's day, 1929, weakened here today. Consequently the demand of Michigan officials, who want Burke for the murder of a policeman, was considered strengthened.

Burke, who was captured yesterday in a farm house near Milan, 25 miles east, after a search of two years, evinced little interest in the requests of outside authorities for his custody.
He talked with Assistant State's Attorneys Harry F. Ditchburne and Walker Butler of Chicago, but guard-prosecutors and others he made one assertive statement. He would not waive extradition anywhere.

Killed Policeman, Charge.

Although crimes are charged against Burke in a dozen states, only three charges, supported by evidence, have been presented so far. They are the massacre in Chicago, the shooting in December, 1929, of Policeman Charles Skelly of St. Joseph, Mich., and the robbery of an express truck, which resulted in the killing of a guard, in Toledo, O. Federal authorities at Toledo have informally bid for Burke's custody for interfering with an interstate shipment.

The claim of Chicago was until today considered the strongest, but in view of the various requisitions Missouri authorities, including Gov.
Henry S. Caulfield, announced no action on demands would be taken until tomorrow. Gov. Caulfield said he understood Chicago officers would recommend that Burke be turned over to St. Joseph, Mich., for the Skelly killing.

From Chicago came other reports quoting Chief of Detectives John Norton that "we haven't a leg to stand on." It was further reported that Acting Police Commissioner John Alcock had advised the chief of police of St. Joseph, Mich., that Chicago expected to defer its right to Michigan.
Moreover, it was tacitly admitted that the visit of Ditchburne and Butler was principally to quiz Burke on the massacre, and promise him immunity from possible electrocution for information and clews on the massacre.
They failed in this.

Demands Comfort in Jail.

Burke spent an uncomfortable night in his cell, but was, in the memory of local officials, accorded more consideration than any since the heyday of Jesse James and his gang, who thrived in this region. He demanded extra bedding, and received it. He asked for extra blankets and got them. He even pinned blankets over his cell window to bar the view of curious. The entire town has been excited since his capture, and scores of leading citizens strolled into the jail to view him.

Early this morning five detectives arrived here from Chicago by automobile. They are Sergts. Edward Tyrrell, Arthur Katt, Edward Waller, Edward Glean, and Lawrence Lyon.
All knew Burke, and identified him.
Three hours later Ditchburne and Butler arrived by train. After interviewing Burke for an hour they announced he would not waive extradition, and departed immediately for Kansas City to question his bride, Bonnie Burke.
She is the daughter of Barney Porter, in whose farmhouse near Milan
Burke was caught.

During the afternoon Burke was viewed by two witnesses from Lincoln,
Neb., in connection with the $1,500-
000 holdup last September of the Lincoln National bank. They could not identify him, according to Sheriff
Claude Hensel of Lincoln.

Later a telegram was received by
Gov. Caulfield from Gov. Wilber M.
Brucker of Michigan. It was augmented by a phone call afterward.
Gov. Brucker asked Gov. Caulfield to consider Michigan's claim. Two St.
Joseph, Mich., policemen left there with extradition papers.

ARNOLD BENNETT.

Death Takes Arnold Bennett, British Author, at Age of 63

LONDON, March 27.—(AP)—Enoch Arnold Bennett, one of the greatest literary figures of the present century, died here tonight at the age of 63.

Stricken with influenza seven weeks ago, the famous novelist and playwright was recovering when he contracted typhoid fever. After hours of unconsciousness he passed away peacefully after a blood transfusion had resulted in temporary relief.

Bennett wrote some thirty novels and more than a dozen plays. His earlier novels of the drabness of "The Five Towns," England's pottery district—particularly "The Old Wives Tale"—were rated as classics. In less serious works he acted as guide to what is best in literature, travel and recreation, having always been a keen observer of human life. Though personally of a deeply reserved nature, he could chat with the common man on paper as few authors of his caliber have been able to do. His faculty for saying something witty or interesting on every occasion was proverbial.

TRAINED TO BE LAWYER.

Arnold Bennett never was destined by his parents to be an author. He was trained for the law. He was born at Hanley, in Staffordshire, in the potteries district, May 27, 1867, and christened "Enoch Arnold Bennett." He was educated at the New Castle school and placed in a lawyer's office. There he remained until he was 26. During the time he was supposed to be poring over cases, syllabuses, and commentaries he was trying his hand at composing articles. When the opportunity to join the staff as an assistant editor of Woman came he eagerly took advantage of it.

In 1900 Bennett withdrew from the editorial office and went to the country to devote himself solely to his novels. In 1908 he founded his reputation with "The Old Wives' Tale." Later came "Clayhanger," "Hilda Lessways," and "The Roll Call." These were all realistic novels of the common folk of the English midlands where he was born. They are praised for the realistic picture they give of midland life in the later nineteenth century.

Wrote Series of Plays.

Bennett sallied into other fields of fiction, producing sensational, humorous, and ironical effects. "The Grand Babylon Hotel," "Sacred and Profane Love," and "Buried Alive" are examples of this departure.

Arnold Bennett's series of plays, "The Great Adventure," "What the Public Wants," "The Honeymoon," "The Title," and "Milestones," show him as a specialist in modern comedy.

Of late years Bennett embroiled himself in literary conflict by criticizing England's younger writers, saying they were too lazy to produce worth while work. They retorted that Bennett went to the other extreme and wrote too much, and that his latest works did not approach his earlier books in excellence.

In 1926 Bennett declared that the two best books of fiction he read during the year were by American writers—Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy" and Herman Melville's "Pierre," written years before.

GEORGE F. BAKER CELEBRATES 91ST BIRTHDAY ON SHIP

Brunswick, Ga., March 27.—(AP)—Holding to his life long policy of silence, George F. Baker, New York financier, a familiar figure in Wall street for nearly 70 years, moved up into John D. Rockefeller's class today by celebrating his 91st birthday. Next July 8 will be Rockefeller's 92 birthday.

GEORGE F. BAKER.

Baker spent the day aboard the yacht Viking, owned by his son, George E. Baker Jr., off the coast of Jekyll island, near here.

It was in the absence of reporters and cameramen that the Baker birthday tradition was upheld. But once in his career has he given an interview. On his 84th birthday he explained why he did not give interviews.

Enjoying good health, his friends said, the financier boarded the yacht this morning and at noon partook of a birthday dinner with twenty-five friends and members of the family. Many congratulatory telegrams were received.

Among those at the dinner were George F. Baker Jr., a daughter, Mrs. Howard St. George, several grandchildren, and E. E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley railroad. Mr. Baker will depart for New York tomorrow.

HENRY COUNTY VETERAN MARKS 91ST BIRTHDAY

Alpha, Ill., March 27.—[Special.]—John A. Widney, one of the few remaining civil war veterans in Henry county, celebrated his 91st birthday at his home here today.

A descendant of Col. John Widney, a Dutch nobleman who fought with William of Orange at the battle of the Boyne, and a son of Col. Alexander Widney, Mexican war veteran, John Widney's family came here from Pennsylvania in 1858.

That autumn, John recalls, he went to Galesburg to hear Abraham Lincoln debate Stephen A. Douglas. The following summer John built a schoolhouse on a corner of his father's farm and, when the civil war broke out, had seven of his pupils trained in the manual of arms by using cornstalks.

They enlisted in B company of the 112th Illinois volunteers, serving throughout the war. Being mustered out, John Widney rode a white horse in the regimental band down Pennsylvania avenue, Washington, and afterwards attended a White House reception, shaking hands with President Lincoln.

For many years Mr. Widney has been secretary-treasurer of the 112th Regiment association. Still hale and hearty, he cultivates his own garden.

Blows Self Up by Tying Dynamite to His Waist

Washington, Pa., March 27.—[Special.] — Clarence Masters, 35, world war veteran of Deep Valley, Green county, despondent over ill health due to military service overseas, tied a stick of dynamite about his waist and then discharged it in a field near his home today.

BREEN SILENT ON SPY'S CHARGES TO GRAFT JURY

Politics Responsible, Is Serritella's Reply.

James W. Breen, first assistant corporation counsel, declined yesterday to comment on disclosures of charges made against him by Mrs. Shirley Kub, former investigator for Acting Police Commissioner Alcock, in testimony before the special grand jury investigating alleged police graft. Mrs. Kub asserted that Breen controlled the police department and that he acted with Dan Serritella, a Capone lieutenant and a member of Mayor Thompson's cabinet, to run the downtown district "wide open."

Serritella was accused by Mrs. Kub in her testimony of dictating the police policy concerning vice and gambling in the downtown and nearby districts. Breen, she said, saw that Serritella's desires were transmitted to the proper sources.

Won't Discuss Charges.

"I haven't read about this in the papers yet," said Breen in his office last evening. "All I can say is that it is a grand jury matter and I've got troubles enough of my own without tampering with grand jury affairs. Just leave me out of it. I do not want to get into trouble with the grand jury."

Serritella was asked at the city hall about the charges.

"There isn't a grain of truth in it," he said. "It's all been hatched up because there is a campaign on."

Serritella and Breen are expected to be among the first of Thompson's cabinet members to be given an opportunity to go before the jury to tell what, if any, knowledge they have of any alliance betwen crime and politics or corruption in the police department. They are to be questioned particularly about the charges made by Mrs. Kub, it is reported.

Mrs. Kub said that the arrangements for her employment were made in Breen's home and on his recommendation and that for a time she reported to Breen rather than to Commissioner Alcock.

Alcock Also Noncommittal.

Alcock also was reluctant to comment on the disclosures.

"I can't even say that I know this Mrs. Kub," he said.

"I am not going to comment on or contradict a newspaper story. I never do that. Anyway, I'm busy day and night with this Burke matter, so I haven't time to look into this grand jury story."

Alcock, on a previous visit to the grand jury room, had admitted, it was reported, that Mrs. Kub was an employé of his department for a short time.

Chief Justice John P. McCoorty of the Criminal court after a conference with representatives of the state's attorney's office, said there was no question as to the authenticity of the testimony as it was compared with the jury minutes and found to be exact.

Captains Issue Statements.

Capts. Daniel Gilbert and Willard Malone, whom Serritella and Breen tried to control, according to Mrs. Kub, also issued short statements yesterday.

"I do not know Mrs. Kub," said Capt. Gilbert. "I have seen Serritella several times, but it would not do him or any one else any good to try to influence me in my duty, because I am a Democrat to begin with."

Capt. Malone pointed to his record to show that he had done his duty. Mrs. Kub did not charge that Capt. Malone had submitted to the dictates of political bosses, but indicated, rather, that he had "jumped the traces."

Capt. Malone said that in five months his men had raided 113 gambling places and 72 vice resorts. He said that he has made more arrests in the first district than any captain in the last 10 years. Capt. Malone said he knew Mrs. Kub, but did not remember anything he had said to her. He asserted that he barely knew Serritella.

3 BOY ROBBERS IN KNICKERS HOLD UP DELIVERY BOY

Three boys in knickers last night pounced on Michael O'Brien, 17 year old delivery boy for a Walgreen drug store at 7058 South Shore drive, as he completed an errand at 6836 South Shore drive. O'Brien, who lives at 6808 Lowe avenue, said the smallest boy pressed a pistol to the back of his head and marched him to the alley in the rear, where they robbed him of $10.

Late in the afternoon two gunmen stalked into the administration office of the Jirka school, 1420 East 17th street, while 980 children were in the classrooms, held up the principal, Mrs. Mary E. Rodgers; the clerk, Miss Gertrude Matti, and the engineer, Edward O'Neil. From the principal they took two rings valued at $2,000 and from O'Neil $47, escaping in a dilapidated automobile driven by a confederate.

Other robbery victims last night were Dr. Alfred N. Moore, who was knocked down by two thugs in the rear of his apartment at 7300 South Shore drive, losing $65; Samuel Wax, proprietor of a fish market at 934 Baltimore avenue, who lost $450; Fred Bernhardt, 430 Garfield avenue, who was slugged and robbed of $30, and Miss Sophia Kaskin, manager of a tea store at 5002 West Madison street, from which $35 was seized.

Three men in a battered automoblie halted Joseph R. Applebaum and his wife, Edith, of 1719 Bryn Mawr avenue near their home early this morning. They took $18 from Applebaum and $7, a $200 ring, and a fur coat valued at $750 from his wife. The Applebaums were on foot at the time. He is head of a produce company at 328 Randolph street.

AT WORK IN RUSSIAN LUMBER CAMP

Scene in one of the northern camps which is similar in all respects to those visited by Tribune correspondent. The outside world has been stirred by reports of cruelty and suffering and human slavery in the camps, but The Tribune correspondent found hardships and small pay, but no slavery.

Girls Vie with Men as Lumberjacks in Russian Camps

pany's mess huts costs 50 to 80 kopecks a day, or (about 25 to 40 cents).

Afoot, we staggered through the snow where the actual cutting was going on. The work is done by brigades, or crews, numbering four to eight persons, who cut each tree marked, clean it of the branches, shave off the bark on one side, and then cut it into 14 feet lengths.

Despite the clumsy tools, big saws and heavy axes, it takes less than a minute on the average to fell a tree and a couple of minutes to dress it.

Then loading crews take over the heavy work of getting the logs to the road, placing them on huge sledges for transportation to the river by tractors. Girls comprise more than half of the cutters but all the loaders are men.

The girls and women wear high boots and trousers, but always a skimpy, little skirt and shawl denotes their sex. The superintendent said the women refused to abandon skirts, although several were nearly crushed by falling trees because they were hindered in scrambling aside.

Visits Norwegian Crew.

We next visited the Norwegians—tall, slim, lanky lads, smoking pipes and carrying tools in a businesslike way in belts around their waists, using ribbon saws and narrow Swedish axes. The more systematic methods of the Norsemen, who are up here to train the Russian lumberjacks, was apparent immediately, as they carefully selected the direction the trees were to fall, to make it easier to get them out and to keep the lanes free to roll the logs out to the roadway.

"Come over to dinner at our mess," the foreman of the Norwegian crew said when we asked him how living conditions were. "We get along all right, but we can't see that we are influencing the Russians towards adopting our methods. They insist their procedure and tools are the best, so there is nothing we can do.

"Maybe They Are Glad to Work."

When asked about forced labor, one Norwegian said:

"There are evidently numerous kulaks [rich peasants] working here because we can see that they are inexperienced lumbermen, while the entire native population is expert at timbering. But I guess the kulaks are glad of the opportunity to get work, make a litle money, eat regularly, and get a roof over their heads."

One girl with snappy bobbed hair and hands showing traces of a manicure, volunteered for cutting with the "shock brigade," as the young workers are called. She gave up a job as a clerk in a soviet village to undertake arduous labor.

"Not Patriotism, Just Enthusiasm."

"You're extremely patriotic," I remarked.

"No, that's not patriotism, it's enthusiasm to get the five year plan completed successfully," she said. "Patriotism indicates nationalism, but we are internationalists."

I pointed out that the five year plan is distinctly Russia's internal affair and its success would react on Russia's domestic economy.

"No, our five year plan is an incentive to workers all over the world to see what communism and socialistic culture can do," she insisted.

Tries to Invade Bathhouse.

I visited a hospital where girls are suffering from influenza and then started to enter a steam bathhouse, but shrill outcries warned me to keep out. Women clerks were bathing.

At night I visited several bunkhouses and was forcibly struck by the quaint Russian system of mixing girls, boys, men, and women all together in a common sleeping room.

Everything seems extremely proper. Nobody undresses entirely. There are no shades on the windows, so every one outside can see what's going on inside, but it seemed a bit bizarre.

In one bunkhouse four girls were reading, several others were sleeping, a half a dozen lads were asleep and two more were making tea.

Twelve to sixteen persons sleep in a hermetically sealed room without ventilation in rows of wooden bunks on opposite walls, with a long table down the center.

With the atmosphere oppressively warm and the fact that everybody sleeps with most of their clothing on, bed covers are unnecessary, although, following the Russian habit, most of them go barefooted. I noticed that all the girls managed to keep their feet clean and white, but the male extremities could have stood lots of soap and water.

Adjoining the sleeping quarters is the drying room, where boots, mittens, gloves, fur hats, and outer garments are hung to dry out during the night. A red hot fire is kept going there all night long, so the clothes are warm, stiff, and dry in the morning.

Heat Is Their Only Luxury.

The only luxury the poor devils can enjoy is the heat at night, and they sure revel in it after a long day outside, freezing in the cold, piercing wind from the tundra.

Toilet arrangements and personal hygiene are extremely rudimentary. In one room occupied by sixteen young people of both sexes I counted nine tooth brushes, six combs, two hair brushes, and four razors.

"We lend each other things, if one hasn't got what he or she needs," one girl explained to me. "I always have my own tooth brush, but I lend my comb to the boys."

Ragged Clothing for Mattresses.

Another sleeping room contained eighteen elderly, grizzled men with long, unkempt hair and beards. Ragged clothing was used as mattresses by these men, who looked suspiciously like kulaks to my practiced eye.

"Yes, I live in the village down by the river. That's my house there and see my cow," one old man said proudly when we awoke him to question him.

Some peasants were delousing themselves while others were sewing torn garments. One man was actually washing a pair of socks. This was the first time I had seen that done.

"The reason is," it was explained, "that most of them don't wear socks. They just wrap rags around their legs because socks cost too much money and felt boots chew the socks to pieces in no time."

Older Men Lack Soap.

While all the young people seemed to have soap there is a woeful lack of it among older ones, and a sickening smell of sweat and dirt in the foul atmosphere of the room made the air almost unbreathable to me.

On the walls of all rooms are hung red banners, photographs of Lenin, Stalin and Krilenko, posters of red tractors, tanks, dirigibles, airplanes and charts showing the progress of the five year plan.

"The workers of the world are united," read a crimson placard in English in the mess hall, where we dined on barley soup with chunks of meat in it, hamburger steak without onions, potatoes, stewed fruit, black bread, butter, served specially, and weak coffee, milk and sugar.

Fish soup made of salted herring with a little milk and sipped up with bread is another favorite dish.

They purchase butter at the cooperative store, also cheese, tobacco, cigarets, clothing and even face powder and perfume.

Dance to Accordion Music.

I attended a dance in one camp where accordions provided the music as Russians don't like jazz or modern orchestras for old peasant dances. The girls came first, sitting together silently along one side of the room. Then the young bloods drove in.

The music started with "Russian Lancers" and after the youths had chosen their partners, the wall flower girls grabbed each other and started dancing together, gravely going through complicated steps of an intricate dance interminably.

Everybody joined in singing "Stenkarazin," the Volga boat song and other old favorites and then yelled for more dance music.

"Rose Marie" played in Archangel a couple of years ago, so a concertina broke into the favorite tunes of that operetta and the girls and bucks furtively tried Charleston steps, which the soviet authorities frown upon.

Then came peasant dancing with enough stamping to knock down a building and everybody politely saying "Excuse me" every time he stamped on somebody else's foot.

Soon 60 to 70 people were crowded into the room, and with a roaring stove the atmosphere was beginning to take on a typical Russian flavor, so I decided it was bedtime.

A member of the floor committee gratified me by stating that certain young women wanted to dance with the "Americanski," but I am too much of a novice to attempt any hoofing with big felt boots on.

No Drinking at This Party.

None of the girls or boys smoked. Only lads more than 18 years old were puffing cigarets, although there was no one present to enforce the rule. There was no sign of liquor. As a matter of fact when our aerosled pilot produced a bottle of vodka and offered any one a shot there were no takers.

We had skimmed across the country as far as Pinega, hoping to find reindeer and to inspect various other cutting camps when the motor broke down and stalled completely. Walking twelve miles to the nearest village we produced an order for post horses and, after copious glasses of tea and hunks of bread and butter, we started northward in a wide cutter sled. Only one horse was used, as the trails are too narrow for teams, but the girl driver kept the Siberian pony trotting along at seven miles an hour.

Every two hours we changed horses at another post station, with lots more tea and plenty of questions about the "Amerikanski."

Some of the people saw Yankees during the intervention twelve years ago, when American troops as part of the interallied corps were holding Archangel, but none have been here since.

MR. BROOKHART SNUBS BANQUET; LIQUOR IS REASON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, March 27.—The party wasn't exactly "dry," and Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa did not attend. Former Congressman E. E. Denison of Marion, Ill., in whose honor the banquet was held, was there, however, and a good time was had by all.

It all began when the metal trades council invited the senator and former congressman to a banquet for Mr. Denison in appreciation of his efforts in favor of a canal employés' retirement bill. Mr. Denison just two weeks ago was acquitted in the Supreme court at Washington, D. C., of having violated the prohibition act when a trunk alleged to have been his leaked. Both declined when they learned liquor would be served. Later Mr. Denison consented to attend because he "understood drinks would not be served." Mr. Brookhart is billed to address the Balboa Union church Sunday on the subject of prohibition.

ATTACK VALIDITY OF TRANSIT PLAN; ASK INJUNCTION

Taxpayers' Suit Seeks to Halt Expenditures.

A taxpayers' suit attacking the validity of the new street car franchise ordinance and the enabling legislation under which it was enacted was filed yesterday in Superior court. The bill asks for an injunction against the expenditure of any part of the transit fund as provided in the ordinance or as appropriated in the city's 1931 budget.

The attack is made on the ground that much of the enabling legislation is unconstitutional and in conflict with long established public policy in the state. The bill further alleges that the ordinance itself also violates numerous provisions of the Illinois and federal constitutions.

Two Named as Complainants.

The complainants named in the bill are Mrs. Elizabeth M. Bass, 7715 South Shore drive, and Augustus E. Olson, 6455 Kimbark avenue. Both are holders of securities of the Chicago Railways company which, under the ordinance, would be merged with other street railways and the elevated lines into the Chicago Local Transportation company.

Others besides these named are interested in the suit, according to Attorney Stephen A. Foster of the law firm of Butler, Lamb, Foster & Pope, which filed the bill.

The bill alleges that the terminable permit act is unconstitutional because instead of authorizing a terminable franchise it authorizes the granting of indeterminate and perpetual permits. It attacks the subway act, under which the consolidated company would use the city owned subways in that it amounts to a donation or lending of the city's credit to a private corporation.

Other Points in Attack.

Under attack also is the act creating a transit commission to be appointed by the mayor of Chicago and to have jurisdiction over the transportation system for a distance extending thirty miles from the city's limits. This is unconstitutional, the bill alleges, as amending the charters of Chicago and all municipalities lying within the metropolitan district and extending the power of Chicago authorities over the outlying territories without the vote or consent of the people who are residents of the suburban towns.

The bill further alleges that there is no constitutional warrant under which the new transportation company could be organized, and therefore that it does not exist as a corporation and cannot be named as grantee in a franchise or issue any securities. The proposed transfer of elevated railroad properties is termed a violation of public policy, which has established a distinction between railroads and street railways.

The provision of the ordinance obligating the city to build with a ten year period subways costing $100,000,000 makes the city exceed its constitutional debt incurring limitations, the bill states.

$60,000 FIRE LOSS AT GARAGE.

Fire, attributed to a spark from crossed wires dropping into oily waste, spread through the Ideal Garage, 4338 North Crawford avenue, early yesterday, exploded a gasoline tank, and demolished the building with eighteen cars stored therein. Firemen estimated the loss at $60,000.

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & CO

MRS. T. M. B., 4502 N. SACRAMENTO AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.—"My husband died last summer and left my daughter and myself in poor circumstances. My daughter was attending college and had one more year. I was afraid she could not finish. I put an ad in the Tribune, and through this ad I got a position. Through my work I met a woman who made it possible for my daughter to continue her school work, besides providing a home for her. I am very thankful to the Tribune, as it is through its pages I have been helped out of what seemed almost hopeless difficulties."

R. V. W., ROUTE NO. 3, HARTFORD, MICH.—"Eight weeks ago my physician ordered me to stop work entirely, as my heart was in such a condition that any exertion might finish me. The following week I had an ad in the Tribune to sell my business. This was a four line ad in the Sunday Tribune. I had been in business for the past sixteen years and did not think it would be an easy matter to dispose of it, due to conditions. I had forty-three responses from that ad and sold the business to the third party that called on Monday morning. There were thirty-seven personal responses and six letters of inquiry from three different states. I am now living up in Michigan and know that if I ever have anything to sell that a Tribune Want Ad will do the trick in a hurry."

L. E. P., 3626 N. AVERS AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.—"A personal inserted in the Chicago Tribune enabled my grandfather to locate a son whose signature was needed on a deed. Although the time was limited, my uncle was found and the deed signed. A happy family reunion followed."

HARRY E. MUSCH, 1207 WASHINGTON ST., BEARDSTOWN ILL.—"We desired to spend the summer in Chicago and wished to rent a furnished flat. We packed our baggage in the car and arrived in Chicago about 4 p. m., looked through the Tribune ads, read of a flat on West Race Avenue, drove out to look at it, interviewed the owner, a teacher in your public schools, made arrangements to take possession immediately, and were comfortably settled in our new summer quarters before dusk. Wasn't this a remarkable experience, due to the service of a Tribune Want Ad?"

* * *

MRS. CHARLES LEARY, 11143 PARNELL AVE., CHICAGO—"I had been watching the want ads, as I was anxious to get a Boston Terrier at a limited price. My daughter was becoming discouraged, but I told her that some day some one would have to part with the kind of a dog we wanted. A few weeks later I answered Mrs. B——'s ad. She was moving to a hotel and wanted to find a good home for her dog. We bought her dog at the price we wanted to pay. Mrs. B—— was pleased because she got her dog the kind of a home she wanted him to have."

THE SIMPLE RULES:

1. Each day for the 29 days starting Sunday, March 22, 1931, the Chicago Tribune will publish five (5) True Want Ad Experiences. Letters must relate to experiences which took place prior to March 15, 1931. You are invited to send in a True Want Ad Experience and try for one of the cash awards which the Tribune will pay.
2. $5.00 will be paid to each person who submits a True Want Ad Experience which is published. IN ADDITION, from all the letters submitted the following grand prizes will be paid to the persons whose letters are adjudged the best of all: First Grand Prize, $100.00; Second Grand Prize, $50.00; Third Grand Prize, $25.00; next ten Grand Prizes, $10.00 each. Total in prizes, $1,000.00.
3. Letters will be selected which, in the opinion of the judges, relate experiences in which Tribune Want Ads have performed the most helpful service, as judged from all the circumstances given in the letter. In making their decisions the judges will be governed by the facts given in the letters. Neatness, but NOT grammar and literary skill, will be considered.
4. This offer is open to all, except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just send in a brief letter.
5. Letters must not exceed 300 words in length.
6. You need not leave the Chicago Tribune. The Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at public libraries free of charge.
7. All letters must be received in the Tribune office before 6:00 p. m. on Monday, April 20, 1931. No letters will be returned.
8. Address all letters to "TRUE WANT AD EXPERIENCES," the Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill. Please state your name and address, and whether or not your name may be published. If not, only initials will be used.
9. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be made to each tying contestant.

SEE NEW HOOVER POLICY TO LIMIT U.S. POSSESSIONS

America Enters New Phase of Colonial History.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD U. S. S. ARIZONA, March 27.—On this homeward journey, which might be described as the reflective half as contrasted with the first, or investigative half, of President Hoover's trip to Porto Rico and the Virgin islands, this impression is crystallizing that as seen through the eyes of the administration, the United States is entering on a new phase of colonial policy.

President Hoover's statement yesterday, in which he emphasized the hopeless outlook of the Virgin islands, added to his policy of withdrawing the marines from Haiti and Nicaragua, makes it appear that in the mind of the Hoover administration the United States has come to realize the futility of burdening itself with unprofitable colonies.

Problem Still Unsolved.

After more than three decades, this country is still without a workable solution for its colonial problem. Due to the constant fight of the anti-imperialists, American interests have been modified and sometimes entirely extinguished in favor of the interests of the little brown brothers.

At present indications point truly, our empire of the future will not be one of possession of subject territories, but of commerce with foreign states. The United States will limit its colonial holdings to a minimum and to such possessions as are necessary as outposts for its system of national defense.

Even in the category of defense, military theories held as late as the world war, and which were founded on the desirability for many far flung naval bases, have undergone modification. With the range of warships extended and striking power augmented by aircraft, many navy men think the bases once so essential have become liabilities, requiring detachments for their defense and thus weakening the all important function of the fleet to seek out and strike at the enemy.

Question Virgin Islands' Value.

The case of the Virgin islands is one in point. In face of the vital necessity of protecting the Panama canal, there is a school of thought growing up under this administration which questions the former axiom that the Virgin islands are one of the keys to the Caribbean. This movement has not yet gone so far as to advise abandoning the Virgin islands, but the criticism is here.

The U. S. S. Arizona, with President Hoover on board, is steaming out of the tropics into a choppy sea stirred by the crisp winds from the north. The President has returned to his program of rest and relaxation, which was broken by a three days' strenuous visit to Porto Rico and the Virgin islands. He is due back in Washington Sunday evening, and he was an interested watcher this morning when the ship's company went through several routine drills, responding first to a fire alarm, then to a collision alarm, which was followed by an order to abandon ship, and ending in gun drill with the destroyer Dupont. The destroyer was put in the rôle of a target. The exercises concluded this evening with the Dupont simulating an attack on the Arizona, which was theoretically torpedoed.

TAMMANY JAILS AN EX-EMPLOYE AS BRIBE TAKER

Acts to Steal March on Legislative Quiz.

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—The first volley of the counter barrage with which Tammany hopes to silence the guns of the city-wide investigation was fired in the Tombs police court today.

Rollin C. Bastress, former chief inspector of buildings under Superintendent Charles Brady, appeared in the court as a prisoner on charge of accepting a $1,500 bribe from Walter G. Jones, a small building contractor.

Bastress was arrested about midnight on the order of Assistant District Attorney Harold W. Hastings, chief of the indictment bureau, who will move on Monday to obtain an indictment for bribery. Hastings said Bastress confessed. Bail was fixed at $5,000.

Mayor Orders Investigation.

Information supplied by Commissioner of Accounts James A. Higgins, who has been investigating city departments for Mayor James J. Walker Mr. Hastings said, led to Bastress' arrest.

Thus, within a few hours, was made good the prediction that Tammany's zeal for cleaning up before the legislative commission acts would extend to prosecution. Bastress and Brady both resigned in the week after Mr. Higgins had investigated their bureau.

There was a well defined suspicion that Tammany's ouster of Bastress will not cut deeply into Tammany solidarity, because Bastress may be a Republican and Jones, the alleged giver of the bribe, is one. Jones is a Republican alderman.

2 More Taken for Ride.

The racketeering brotherhood wrote another red chapter in their mounting saga today.

Two men were killed. One, unidentified, was hauled out of the North river, his head beaten in. Police considered him another casualty in the longshoremen's racket warfare.

The other was Joseph Madonia, a baker of Brooklyn. He had been taken for a ride.

Swarms of Locusts Invade South Africa; Ruin Crops

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, March 27.—A message from Nairobi, Kenya colony, states that swarms of locusts which have invaded the districts on the border of Kenya and Uganda have devastated thousands of acres of corn. Hundreds of natives, under the direction of whites, are engaged in the destruction of these pests by spraying and beating them, but as fast as they are destroyed others appear.

U. S. TRAVELERS URGED TO SAIL ON U. S. VESSELS

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—Assistant Postmaster General Glover was thoroughly peeved today.

He had just learned that two congressmen, whom he described as "great friends of the American merchant marine on the floors of congress" had sailed off for summer vacations on a foreign ship.

Furthermore, a group of several hundred postmasters and their wives, he found, had made plans for a holiday in Europe via foreign ship.

And to cap it all, the organizers of a patriotic children's pilgrimage also had booked reservations for their charges aboard a foreign vessel.

A large part of Mr. Glover's job is to stimulate the upbuilding of the American merchant marine.

The congressmen, whom he wouldn't name, had already gone and he could do nothing about that.

But he got hold of the postmasters and persuaded them to travel under the Stars and Stripes.

PLAN FOR G. O. P. TO GET IN STRIDE FOR 1932 RACE

Hoover Anxious to Settle Chairmanship.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Important political developments looking to aggressive plans for the 1932 primaries were foreseen by Republican senators today who have been active during the President's absence on his vacation in perfecting a program to reorganize the Republican national committee.

President Hoover is represented by these senators as planning reorganization of the Republican national committee within another month. He communicated his views to these leaders, who have been preparing the procedure for the reorganization and have sounded sentiment as to the political strength of Vice President Curtis in 1932.

The first move planned is the selection of a chairman of the national committee to succeed Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, who last year accepted that post as a stop-gap, when Claudius H. Huston resigned. Senator Fess had intended to relinquish the chairmanship before congress met last December, but was prevailed on to remain until a successor could be elected who would carry on through the primaries.

Fess Awaits Hoover's Decision.

Senator Fess desired to resign early his year, but after he had declared that the Republican party in 1932 would have a dry plank, he said that if he retired immediately the drys would claim that he had been forced out by the wets.

Since congress has adjourned, he is not any too eager to resign, but will do so if the President wishes to displace him.

The known desire of the President for an aggressive chairman of the national committee has brought into the field two members of the cabinet, Postmaster General Walter F. Brown of Ohio and Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley of Oklahoma.

Senator Watson, Republican leader of the senate, is actively advancing Postmaster General Brown's claims. He and several other senators had a long conference with Mr. Brown at the capitol today and it was decided to urge his selection upon the President next week.

Gossip of 1932 Running Mate.

The gossip that President Hoover favors a new running mate in 1932 has given Vice President Curtis and his friends some concern. Gov. Roosevelt of Porto Rico and others are reported under consideration. Secretary Hurley has been mentioned, but his friends say he is for the renomination of Curtis, if the Vice President wants it.

If the President prefers another running mate, Vice President Curtis has determined to run for the senate in Kansas next year to succeed Senator McGill, Democrat.

MANN RAISES FLAG OF INSURGENCY IN DIXIE G. O. P. RANKS

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—Horace Mann, the leading southern organizer in the Republican campaign in 1928, served notice on party leaders today that Dixie would send a solid bloc of 232 delegates to the next national convention demanding "a new order of politics."

HORACE MANN.

He said national headquarters would be opened here in December to organize the party in opposition to the national committee.

Mann declined to say whether the southern delegates would attend the convention pledged to oppose the renomination of President Hoover and committed to former President Coolidge. His friends said, however, that this was the purpose of the movement.

C. Bascom Slemp, former secretary to President Coolidge and Republican national committeeman for Virginia, discounted Mann's claims.

"Mann will not have ten votes from the entire south," Slemp said.

Keg of Liquor Explodes; Cleveland Girl Is Killed

Cleveland, O., March 27.—(AP)—An explosion of what police said was a keg of liquor caused the death today of 20 year old Marie di Capo. The girl's mother, Mrs. Cecelia di Capo, 41, was expected to die and five others were in hospitals.

SPAIN MAY USE TANKS TO FIGHT STREET RIOTERS

MADRID, March 27.—(AP)—If there are repetitions of recent student disorders the government may use tanks to restore order in the streets, Minister of the Interior Hoyos announced today.

"Tanks are good things to preserve law and order," he said. "We intend to maintain peace and we have been thinking about tanks."

Police Break Up Demonstration.

BARCELONA, Spain, March 27.—(AP)—Police charged and broke up a demonstration of several hundred students demanding amnesty for political prisoners in front of the closed university today. Several students were bruised and another was arrested carrying two small bombs in his pockets.

IRISH FREE STATE WINS POINT ON ROAD TO FREEDOM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, March 27.—Important changes in constitutional procedure were revealed in an statement issued at the government building today.

In the future, the statement said, the Irish Free State will advise the king of England direct on matters of internal administration, and the Free State will have its own great seal, which the king will affix to all documents which have hitherto been sealed by the great seal of the realm.

"The arrangement now made is that the government of the Irish Free State will advise his majesty direct and that the channel of communications heretofore used, namely, the secretary of state for dominions, will no longer be used."

GANDHI'S PARTY INSTRUCTS HIM TO "GET FREEDOM"

Demands Probe of British Actions in India.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KARACHI, India, March 27.—With its leaders squatting and spinning away like children playing with toys, one of the weirdest bodies ever seen got down to business today to see what they could do about winning independence.

S. C. BOSE.

Surely no other revolutionists, past or present, resembled the all-India national congress, whose forty-fifth annual session began here today. 350 swarthy sitting in a semicircle at the feet of the skinny and emaciated little holy man. The saint, for Mahatma Gandhi is a saint to most of them, is naked, except for a shabby loin cloth. Many of the delegates are naked. Others are in smart European clothes.

The picture was this:

Gandhi Leads Spinning.

Most of them talk with Oxford accents, but practically all are spinning while they talk. Gandhi is up on a platform leading the spinning like an orchestra leader. They do not use a regular spinning wheel at a meeting like this. They twirl a long needle in one hand and feed rough cotton to it with the other. Gandhi can spin 100 yards of yarn an hour this way.

There are no fiery speeches among these strange revolutionists, most of whom have just been released from jail.

Gandhi addresses them in tones of a church deacon. Vallabhai Patel, president of the congress, keeps order good naturedly like the small town lawyer he is.

One Discordant Note.

The only discordant note was struck by Subash Chandra Bose, the youthful mayor of Calcutta, who wants a workers' and peasants' government. But these rebels are strictly bourgeois. They laugh at such radical talk. They prefer to go about their spinning.

Three resolutions were passed today by the subjects committee, which is the real congress organization, consisting of 350 members, chosen from the 6,000 delegates present.

In the first of these resolutions the congress, while disassociating itself from violence, records that it was a "brave sacrifice on the part of Baghat Singh and his two comrades" and accuses the British government of flouting the nation's will by hanging these men.

Demands Release of Prisoners.

In the second resolution the congress calls for the release of the thousands of political prisoners who, because of technicalities, were not discharged under the terms of the truce recently concluded by Gandhi with Viceroy Lord Irwin.

The third resolution, the most important of all, has been held over for discussion until tomorrow, but it is considered to be approved. It reiterates the congress' demand for complete independence, and instructs its delegates to the proposed round table conference that this means "Indian control over the army, external affairs, finance, fiscal and economic policy."

It furthermore asks for a "scrutiny by an impartial tribunal of the financial transactions of the British government in India and examination of the obligations of the British government in India, and the right of either party to end the partnership at will."

Would Allow India to Secede.

This last point, if achieved at the round table conference, would allow India to secede from the British empire at will.

Subject to these restrictions, Gandhi was authorized to represent the congress at the round table conference.

The growing influence of the bolsheviks on young India is making itself felt at the congress for the first time in history. A hundred young red shirts, wearing the soviet emblem of hammer and sickle, called on Gandhi today and informed him that they wanted a free republic for the workers and peasants. Later one of the delegates presented a resolution to Gandhi asking for a reservation of at least half of the seats in the future legislature for workers and peasants.

BUSINESS BOARD INDORSES STATE PAVING IN CITIES

A. of C. Considers Highway Bills.

BY HAL FOUST.

The executive committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday indorsed the Hunter bills, authorizing the state to build extensions of state highways into and through municipalities regardless of population. The bills have passed second reading in the house and will be called for passage next Tuesday.

The committee disapproved house bill No. 407, which would redistribute revenue from the gasoline tax, 1 cent to the state, 1 cent to the counties, and 1 cent to municipalities. The state now gets 2 cents and the remaining cent goes to the counties.

Stress Major Improvements.

The press was barred from the committee session, but it was reported that the members based their decision on the theory that the state, in doing municipal construction, will concentrate on major improvements, while municipal governments, if they were to receive 1 cent from the gasoline tax, would be inclined to use the fund on minor improvements advocated by neighborhoods.

The Association of Commerce also gave its endorsement to a proposed change of policy by the state in acquiring right of way. The executive committee voted that the state should acquire its own right of way for improvements of existing pavements, such as for widening or for the construction of grade separations. The state now requires local authorities to furnish right of way and the association holds that this policy should be continued only where the land is to be used for the construction of a new road.

Approve Survey Project.

The committee also gave its support to a proposed state traffic survey.

Five bills pending in the senate were also approved at the committee session. No. 154 would allot the counties' share of the gasoline tax semi-annually instead of annually. Under the present law the year's collections for the counties, over $9,000,000, lie idle in the state treasury until the end of the year.

Senate bill 155 appropriates $2,500,000 as refunds to counties for construction of state aid roads. No. 160 continues these refunds as funds become available. The state owes approximately $30,000,000 to the counties for such work, $13,000,000 being due Cook county.

DRUGGIST FOUND STRANGLED; CALL DEATH SUICIDE

Orazio Strano, 56 years old, a druggist for 25 years at 1001 Larrabee street, was found strangled with heavy twine last night in his store. Chicago avenue police were unable to determine whether his death was a murder or a suicide, but inclined to the latter theory.

Strano's wife, May, and his 25 year old daughter, Helen, a University of Illinois graduate, denied that he had been morose. The police said they learned, however, that his rent was unpaid for four months and that he suffered from a stomach ailment. The family home is at 1125 Oakdale avenue.

The body was discovered by a group of boys, who, observing the bolted front door toward evening, went to the rear, found that door open, and saw the feet of a prostrate man inside.

Probable traces of poison were found in Strano's stomach, and Coroner's Physician S. A. Levinson said he would make a chemical analysis of the vital organs today.

CUBA HIGH COURT RULES CURB ON PRESS IS ILLEGAL

HAVANA, March 27.—(AP)—Dr. German Walter Del Rio, director of the newspaper El Mundo, tonight was notified that the Cuban Supreme court had ruled unanimously that President Machado's action of Jan. 9 suspending publication of the newspaper on charges of conducting an anti-government campaign, was unconstitutional. The decision sets the approval of the country's highest legal authority on the article of the Cuban constitution guaranteeing absolute freedom of the press.

The decision, signed by thirteen justices sitting in plenary session, declared President Machado acted unconstitutionally because the sixth article of the law of public order of April 23, 1870, is contrary to article 25 of the constitution, by which every person has the right to express freely his thought through the medium of speech or print. The order of 1870 was instituted while Cuba was under military rule. It was later voided by the Spaniards, those protesting the president's action claimed.

While sanitation officials and police were making a joint "inspection" of Havana homes today, bombers continued to operate in the city. Bombs went off in the rear of the city hall and in the Hotel San Luis. A policeman stamped out the fuse of another bomb which was believed intended for the Cuban Electricity company building.

1 SLAIN, 4 SHOT IN COURTHOUSE; 3 ARE ARRESTED

Shooting Delays Hearing of Holdup Case.

Pineville, Ky., March 27.—(AP)—In a blaze of gunfire that wounded four spectators, Walter Parsons was shot to death in the Bell county courthouse here today as an aftermath of his slaying his cousin in preventing a holdup last Saturday night.

Hubert and O'Dell Collett, brothers of Creed Collett, whom Parsons shot to death, and their brother-in-law, James Black Howard, were arrested charged with today's shooting and rushed to the Middlesboro jail to prevent the possibility of Parsons' friends seeking vengeance on them. Parsons claimed Creed Collett was one of the masked men who attempted to hold up and rob his gasoline filling station at Blackmont.

Score of Shots Fired.

The shooting occurred in the corridor just before the examining trial was to have been called. Spectators and witnesses scurried to safety, but four were wounded as some 20 shots were fired.

Mendill Parsons, 42, another brother of the man killed, was wounded in the leg and body, but was expected to recover.

Charles Bailey, 55, a former deputy sheriff, was struck in the leg, and Millard Blanton, 25, and Hubert Reader, 19, were shot in the hip. Reader was to have been a witness.

Offered to Surrender.

Walter Parsons, who was 30 years old, came here and offered to surrender after shooting his cousin last Saturday night, but no charges had been filed against him. The other men charged with Creed Collett of participation in the attempted holdup who were to have been examined by County Judge George Van Dever today are Ed Philpot, Steve Golden and Ed Brock.

MOTHER LOVE MAY BE JUST MANGANESE, THIS SCIENTIST SAYS

Baltimore, Md., March 27.—[Special.]—Maternal love may be due to the presence of a tiny fraction of manganese in the mother's food and may be completely destroyed in mothers from whose diet manganese has been eliminated. The annual clinic of the American College of Physicians today heard Dr. Elmer V. McCollum, professor of chemical hygiene at Johns Hopkins university, put forth this theory.

So far, Dr. McCollum told his colleagues, experiments have been conducted solely with rats, in an attempt to establish the functions of the various metallic elements present in food. After much difficulty a diet completely free from manganese was obtained. This was fed to a colony of male and female rats.

"At first," Dr. McCollum said, "no results were visible and we began thinking all our trouble had been for nothing.

"After a hundred days, however, we observed sharp differences. The mother rats fed on a manganese-free diet showed no maternal solicitude for their young. They paid no attention to them and let them die.

"After a certain lapse of time no more offspring were born. We found the diet had also affected the males. On substituting these with normally fed mates the females again produced young, but abandoned them all again as soon as they gave birth to them."

300,000 Out of Work Now in Canada, Commons Told

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., March 27.—Canada's unemployment was estimated at 300,000 during debate on the throne address today by oppositionists, who called the Bennett administration of economic relief a failure. Mr. Bennett advised that there was no legal power to stop a reported six hundred and ninety million dollar merger of Canadian paper plants, which Peter Heenan, former Labor minister, feared would increase unemployment.

Winship Driven to Suicide by Sight of Wife with Chauffeur

San Francisco, Cal., March 27.—(AP)—Crazed by jealousy over his wife's actions, a coroner's jury decided today, Lieut. Com. Emory Winship, U. S. N., retired, followed the time-worn code of honor of fighting men and killed himself rather than face disgrace.

His story of how he found his attractive young wife in the bedroom of her chauffeur on Friday, March 13, after a party in which drinks were freely served was told by three witnesses today.

For a week he brooded silently over impending disgrace, during which he was beset by "mad impulses to take two or more lives." Then he shot himself last Saturday as "the only way out."

Both the widow and her chauffeur, Ray McGunigle, denied improper relations existed between them, explaining Mrs. Dorothy Winship had gone to call her chauffeur at 4 o'clock in the morning and they were standing in the doorway to his room when the former naval officer saw them.

Quarreled Over Drinking.

Mrs. Winship said she called the chauffeur then because she could "no longer stand his [Winship's] continual drinking" and had decided to leave. She left a few hours later and was to have returned for the last of her things about the time Winship ended his life.

Three witnesses testified Winship had told them he felt like killing his wife and her handsome chauffeur. These were Joseph W. Preston Jr., a friend; William Myrick, Negro valet, and Mrs. Margaret Thompson, housekeeper.

"The night before he killed himself," the valet said, "Mr. Winship called me in and said, 'William, there are two people I want to kill.'

"'Who's that?' I asked.

"And he said Ray McGunigle and Mrs. Winship. 'Last Friday, about 4 o'clock, I went into Ray McGunigle's room, and there was Ray lying on the bed and Mrs. Winship sitting on the bed in her nightgown,' he said."

Housekeeper's Story.

The housekeeper quoted Winship as saying, "I just want to kill both of them. I know it would be disgraceful, but I just can't get it out of my head. It all could have been avoided if she had told me she cared for somebody else, but this way—"

"I could see he wanted to do away with himself," she added.

Mrs. Winship admitted her husband might have said what the two witnesses had testified, "but he was drunk, he wasn't in his right mind. He didn't know what he was saying."

Both she and her chauffeur testified she did not and never had entered his bedroom.

Questioned whether the demands of Miss Helen Thompson, former motion picture actress and former intimate of Winship, might have contributed to the suicide, Preston Jr. testified the former naval officer was not particularly worried over her attitude.

"He considered her demands blackmail," he said.

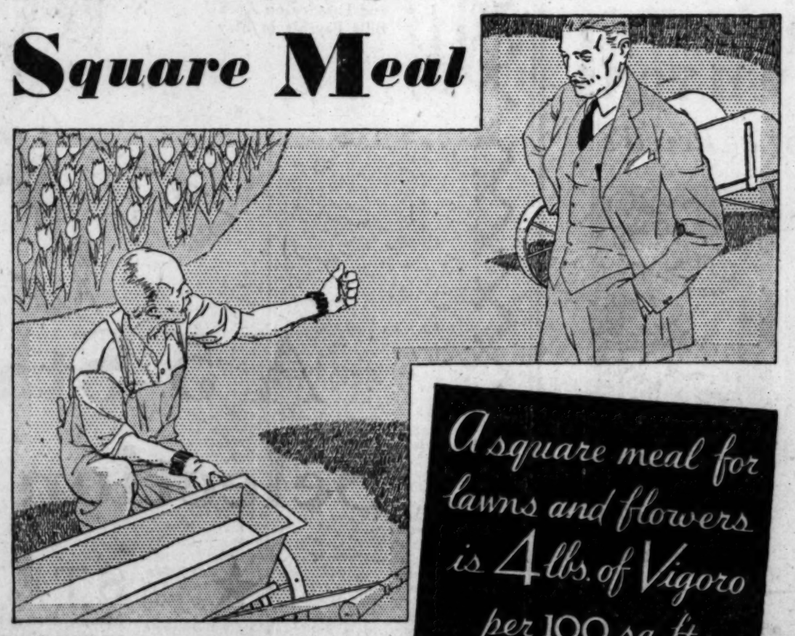
Do you expect that LAWN to GROW

If you don't give it a Square Meal



A square meal for lawns and flowers is 4 lbs. of Vigoro per 100 sq. ft.

YOU want to see that lawn develop into a velvety smooth carpet of beautiful green, don't you?

Then you must add enough plant food to the soil.

Plants, like human beings, need the right food, and enough of it. Most soils are deficient in plant food because we fail to replenish what plants take out year after year.

Give your lawn the square meal for plants! Four pounds of Vigoro per 100 square feet. Whether you are making a new lawn or have an old lawn it must be fed, and fed enough.

Vigoro, the complete, balanced plant food, is clean, odorless, easy to use. Read directions, spread evenly, wet down or rake.

Inexpensive, too! The average cost of Vigoro feeding is less than 20 cents per 100 square feet.

Already 3,000,000 home gardeners have used Vigoro on lawns, flowers, shrubs, trees and vegetables with amazing results.

Your garden supply dealer can tell you how much Vigoro you need. Ask to see the Vigoro Spreader, too. It saves time and effort in applying both Vigoro and grass seed.

Your dealer has Vigoro in 100, 50, 25 lb. bags, 5 lb. and 12 oz. packages. Order today. Or specify Vigoro when you talk things over with your landscape gardener, or nurseryman. Be sure to buy Vigoro only in the original package.

Follow These Simple Rules:

1. Each evening for 42 consecutive evenings (not including Saturday) W-G-N will broadcast 3 songs of yesterday—"Tune Tangles." On each day following the broadcast the Chicago Tribune will print a "Tune Tangle" Crossword Puzzle. Each puzzle will contain the title of one of the songs broadcast the preceding evening. You are invited to listen to the broadcast, solve the Tune Tangle Crossword in the next day's Tribune and name the song.

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved and neatest complete sets of answers in accordance with these rules. NOTE: This means that you do not necessarily have to solve each of the 42 Tune Tangles completely to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.

3. The prizes are as follows:

1st Prize		$1,000.00
2nd Prize		500.00

Next 310 Prizes,	5.00 each	1,550.00
430 Prizes, Totaling		$5,000.00

4. This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls—except employees of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

5. Tune Tangle Crosswords are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 42. Then send them to "Tune Tangles," Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1718, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight, 15 days after Puzzle No. 42 has been printed.

6. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Postoffice Department. Contestants may submit as many sets of puzzles as they wish, but no contestant will be entitled to more than one prize.

7. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

8. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties, a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

THE NEXT TUNE TANGLE WILL APPEAR IN MONDAY'S TRIBUNE

RIVAL BLOSSOM QUEENS CHOOSE ROYAL FINERY

It's Feverish Time for Dressmakers.

Benton Harbor, Mich., March 27.—[Special.]—Royal robes are beckoning to the thirty-four misses chosen by their home cities in central and southwestern Michigan as candidates for queen of the blossoms fête held here and in St. Joseph May 4 to 10. Just at present, however, it is their court costumes over which the beauties are stewing and fretting, in preparation for the finals here next Wednesday.

Nearly all of the girls named last night, comprising at least half of the total, decended today upon the fashion shop in St. Joseph which has been charged with outfitting them for the critical occasion.

Modistes Are Busy.

Realization of the importance of the tout ensemble in making or marring their changes to wear the crown and wield the scepter precipitated many a spirited discussion in the fitting rooms as to which color complements a certain complexion and which material brings out best a particular shade of hair.

Further excitement was occasioned by announcement of the jury of five out of town judges who will pass upon the merits of the girls in the Liberty theater Wednesday night. Acceptances have been received, it was made known by Elwyn Simons, general festival chairman, from Rufus Dawes, president of the Chicago World's Fair; Frank Caridco, Notre Dame football star; Ben Bernie, bandmaster; Mildred Jaklon, society editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and Marie Callahan, editor of Modern Beauty Shop magazine.

Some More Winners.

Contests held last night and the winners in each instance, as received at headquarters here, were:

ADRIAN — Winifred McKie, 18, blonde, high school graduate, now holding a position with the state department of agriculture.

GRAND RAPIDS.—Josephine Puhaley, 20, blue eyed brunette, stenographer.

TRAVERSE CITY.—Elsa Larsen, 18 years old; blond and blue eyed; born in Aalborg, Denmark; high school graduate.

GRAND HAVEN, Mich.—Miss Margaret McCue, 18, blue eyed, brunette, 5 feet 2 inches tall, weighs 115 pounds, a senior at the Grand Haven High school.

MISS GRAND RAPIDS

VENUE CHANGE GRANTED ONE OF KIRKLAND'S PALS

Valparaiso, Ind., March 27.—[Special.]—Judge Grant Crumpacker, before when Virgil Kirkland was convicted of the murder of Arlene Draves, today granted a change of venue in the case of one of Kirkland's four codefendants, Leon Stanford. The case was sent to his nephew, Judge Harry Crumpacker of the La Porter County Superior court at Michigan City.

By agreement between Deputy Prosecutor John Underwood and Stanford's lawyers, Robert H. Moore and Harry Long of Gary, the younger Judge Crumpacker probably will hear the Stanford case in his uncle's court, where Kirkland was convicted of murder by assault carrying a life penalty.

A change of venue, demanded by Attorney Moore, was part of a strategy to compel the state to try Stanford before David Thompson, another defendant, whom Mr. Underwood desires to try first. It is Mr. Moore's belief that the prosecution has an extremely weak case against Stanford.

Chinese Lose Fight to Escape Murder Trial

Two Chinese charged with tong war murders in Newark, N. J., yesterday lost their fight against extradition. Judge Ross C. Hall in the Criminal court remanded the men to the custody of the sheriff to be taken back to Newark to face the charges. The defendants, Gong Seid Nom and Gong Fat, sought to be released on habeas corpus proceedings. They are wanted for an ax murder in Newark on June 5, 1930.

Voelpel, Holder of Glider Record, Sued for Divorce

Lyman Voelpel, Chicago aviator and holder of a record for looping the loop in a glider, was sued for divorce yesterday by Mrs. Florence Voepel, now appearing in a musical comedy at a loop theater. Mrs. Voelpel's bill, filed in the Circuit court, alleges that her husband deserted her on Feb. 6, 1929, after five years of married life. She asks alimony and the restoration of her maiden name, Florence Paton.

CITIZENS, POLICE HUNT ATTACKERS OF TWO WOMEN

Pair Raid Homes; Bind Men and Children.

Posses of citizens joined city, county, and suburban police last night in the search for two Negroes who attacked two white women in robbing four homes on Thursday night and were frightened into flight when they tried to assault a young girl in a fifth home. Nine suspects were arrested during the day, but all were released after the victims failed to identify them.

The Negroes first broke into the home of John Miller, 131 West 157th street, Harvey. They shot his police dog to death and robbed him of a watch, $4, and a revolver. They fled in his automobile after binding him. At 15407 South Wood street the bandits wounded a police dog guarding a filling station.

Bind Husband; Wife Attacked.

The car crashed into a bridge outside of Blue Island. The robbers walked to the home of Edward Feldkamp, 13865 Thornton road, and entered through the rear door. They bound and gagged Feldkamp and his four year old son. As one of the Negroes ransacked the home the other attacked Mrs. Alma Feldkamp.

Noble Westfall, living in the flat above, came down to investigate. He was bound and the bandits went upstairs, where they bound three children and took $30 in cash. They did not attack Mrs. Westfall, who recently returned home from a hospital after an illness.

After cutting telephone wires in the home the bandits went to the neighboring home of Theodore Thomas, 13889 Thornton road, where both attacked his wife, Bonnie, 21 years old, who was alone. They fled after taking a revolver and small change.

The heads of these three homes all are employés of the Public Service company.

Frightens Robbers Away.

The robbers next appeared at the home of Joseph Calo, 208 West 138th street, Riverdale. Calo was locked in his barn and the bandits entered the house, where they threatened Calo's stepchildren, Frank Rafchiek, 21 years old, and Ethel, 14 years old, and Mrs. Emily Davis and her two small children. As the pair were pushing Ethel into a bedroom after having taken a diamond ring from her, Frank leaped at them and the invaders fled.

The victims described one of the bandits as being tall, heavy, pock marked and about 28 years old and the other as medium in height, slim, and about 30 years old. Search was begun for the bandits at 9 o'clock Thursday night, when Calo gave the alarm three hours after the bandits entered the Miller home. Employés of the Public Service company joined in the hunt at the end of their day's work.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Tony Zalewski and Louis Paupil, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in Pontiac reformatory; Roman Komer, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Joseph Burke.

Joseph Davis and Edward Goodman, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; Cyrenan Noeth, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Peter Schwaba.

Three Bank Robbers Seized Here Sentenced to Prison

Glenn Nichols, Austin J. Corray and Harmon Corray, downstate bank robbers who were captured in a Chicago hideout a few months ago, were sentenced yesterday at Danville, Ill., to serve from two to ten years imprisonment on their plea of guilty in the holdup of the State Bank of Allerton in Vermilion county last October. Gladys Crawford, Nichols' sweetheart, who had expected to win her liberty as a result of the guilty pleas, was immediately rearrested as an accomplice in the robbery of the State Bank of Wenona, to which the trio had also confessed.

HOLD FATHER IN KILLING DESPITE VERDICT OF JURY

Tells of Slaying to Avenge Daughter.

Thomas Calabres, 45 years old, 5426 West Congress street, was charged with murder by the police last night after a coroner's jury had exonerated him for the slaying of James Hill, 47 years old, 5424 West Congress street. Calabres shot his neighbor in the street Thursday afternoon after he learned that his daughter, Rose, 17 years old, had been mis treated by Hill.

Before a coroner's jury of three unmarried women, two single men and the father of a small boy, Calabres pleaded self-defense. He testified that he shot Hill as the latter reached for his hip pocket as it to draw a revolver. The inquest was conducted by Coroner Herman N. Bundesen.

Daughter Tells Her Story.

The daughter told of her relations with Hill, beginning a year ago when he forced his attentions upon her in her home while her parents were out for the evening. She described meetings with Hill, the father of four children, in the basement of her home during the last four months. Calabres interrupted her testimony by leaping to his feet and pointing at Hill's widow as he shouted, "I would rather be in your husband's shoes today than be in my daughter's."

Calabres, the father of six children, gripped his chair nervously as he told his story. He said he came home from his employment as an investigator for Attorney Myles J. Devine and found his wife in tears because their daughter had disclosed her relationship with Hill. He described watching for Hill, a street car conductor, to leave his home.

Meets Neighbor on Street.

"I stopped him on Lotus avenue and accused him," he testified. "He asked me what I was going to do about it, and turned, reaching for his hip. I thought he had a gun and fired at him. I thought that my life as well as my daughter's honor was at stake. If you can't trust your neighbors who can you trust?"

When the verdict was returned Calabres kissed his wife and daughter and placed himself in the custody of the police. Capt. Michael Collins of the Fillmore street police station said that he will bring Calabres into court, as he wished to run no risk in releasing his prisoner on the verdict.

Gets 2 to 15 Yrs. for Theft of Charity Milk Tickets

PORTO RICO.

Neither more nor less of the baffling reality called "America" will be added to our insular possessions in the Caribbean by President Hoover's visit. They will remain the scented, rain swept bits of earth that they have always been. The trades will blow across them, bringing rain in dark bundles and the pouring sun between; the palms will bend over them; the cane and coffee will grow in their plantations; and the people, alien, dark, tropical, moving in a rhythm different from the brusque regularities of our northern plains, will live on as usual in their age old customs. The President's visit will bring little new to this; it may bring to northern America, however, a new interest in these regions.

To Porto Rico the United States has brought new markets and great business, but the habits of the people have remained about the same. The workers move from the hills where coffee grows down to the fields of cane with each returning season. The farmers plant their crops of plantains, corn, sweet potatoes, and beans on the steep slopes. On two acres of abrupt hill land the farmer and his family will find their living much as before. Holes will be dug to hold the water and the wash of soil, and coffee trees and other plants set in them. The Porto Rican farmer holds his land against the ravages and wash of water as northern farmers have not learned to do.

He will have goats—cows eat too much for that unpastured land—there will be cheese and goats' flesh on rare days to go with rice and beans, bananas, yams. And he will have babies, more than his farm and work can feed. In the decade following 1910 the Porto Rican population increased by one-sixth or more.

Americans have come with mass production methods. The smoke of sugar mills and of money from Wall street lies over the lowlands and the coasts. From 50,000 tons in 1901, sugar production in twenty years had increased to 400,000 tons or more a year. Tobacco has increased ninefold or more. The export trade in twenty years has increased twelve times, but the people live about as they did before. Only there are more of them.

More Porto Ricans rather than higher standards of living are the main outcome of American rule so far as Porto Rico is concerned. Labor is still largely by hand. The native still lives on his little land, two or three acres in extent, close to the bush and of it. And there are now, says J. Russell Smith in his "North America," 800,000 or more landless Porto Ricans, too, more than half the population. The island is one of the densely populated regions of the earth. More than 400 live there to the square mile, ten times the density of Iowa. With collapse of sugar prices, hurricanes, drought, disaster, Porto Rico has come near to chronic starvation.

American policy there should lead towards higher standards and a stationary or declining population. It should lead towards greater consumption in proportion to production. It should teach Porto Rico what northern United States has learned only in part: The stimulation of production must be associated with a corresponding increase in buying power, in consumption, in standards of living. Socially Porto Rico has remained Spanish, native, insular, while productively she became American. Her balance has been broken. Disaster threatens.

We have imposed on Porto Rico by means of law and economic opportunity some of the things we call American. Both good and bad, such as quarantine and prohibition, and big business, they have come, while, in other ways, the old slow cycling tropic land remains. The old habits hold, though we have brought medicine and education, roads and modern traffic. In 1929 more than 200,000 pupils were enrolled there in schools, but the hope of Porto Rico lies not alone in schoolroom education. A lower birth rate, a higher standard of living, new wants so strong that they will keep down numbers in the family without the waste and misery of disease and death—these are needed most in Porto Rico. America can hope, as Gov. Roosevelt evidently desires, that more education, more roads, more modern wants and ways of living will in time break down the old customs and inertias and work salvation on the island. Without those newer attitudes the new business of the island will perpetuate the lack of social balance and remain a curse. Porto Rico now should be made American in both consumption and production. Though the remaining problem both for the United States and the little island is somehow to go all the way, the old customs will be hard to change.

ON APPLES.

The Voice of the People has been running over lately with letters about the Golden Russet apple. Dozens of readers remember it with affection. Most of them are agreed that the russet has all but disappeared from the markets because it is not red. The tree is hardy and the apples keep well and ship well, but city people somewhere acquired the curious notion that the goodness of an apple is indicated by the redness of its skin. Therefore the russet has had to give way on many counters to mealy and flavorless things which are far pleasanter to look at than to bite into. Not that all red apples are inferior; but when redness is the first consideration it is inevitable that standards of palatability will be neglected.

This is supposed to be a sophisticated generation, by which is meant, among other things, a generation which can distinguish between appearances and realities. In the matter of apples we can't, or at any rate we don't. In our apple thinking we are as simple and gullible as children.

MR. FESS AS THE WHITE KNIGHT.

Senator Simeon Fess of Ohio has returned from Florida, presumably full of orange juice, ozone, ultra violet, or violent, rays; chockful of the world's best climate, bubbling with sunburnt mirth, and thoroughly reinvigorated. He said that when he did come back he intended to throw himself into high gear and put the Republican party and Mr. Hoover's administration on a paying basis. The event has been waited with the interest it deserves.

Mr. Fess is the White Knight and his associates among the elder statesmen hope he can stay on his horse. (The Deems Taylor music is ready if he falls off.) If Mr. Fess is the man of the hour everything is ready for him. He will find all the component elements of all parties milling around in a fog, and any one who can find a way out through a break in the mists and a gap in the hills will be astonished to find what he has at his heels. Mr. Fess may have Mr. Raskob, Mr. Moses, Mr. Norris, Mr. Borah, Mr. Dewey, Mr. Watson, Mr. La Follette, Mr. Bingham, Mr. Owen Young, Mr. Smith Wildman Brookhart, and possibly even Mr. Norman Thomas in the front rank of the rabble which has come out with him.

Nearly all these various party gentlemen seem in common agreement that they do not know where they are, where they are going, or why. If Mr. Fess in high gear as the White Knight has a vision and follows it he should be prepared for surprises when he gets into the sunlight on the hills.

IMMUNITIES IN THE VOLSTEAD ERA.

At the University of Michigan they padlocked some fraternity houses where liquor was found, and at the University of Minnesota they expelled two students, suspended a few more, and imposed minor punishments on the others concerned in one way or another in the farm school bootlegging operations. None of the student lawbreakers was sentenced to prison, though in Michigan a life sentence has been given for a pint of gin and Minnesota is where Volstead came from.

Of course, no one in his senses would recommend imprisonment in these campus cases. To the extent that disciplinary action was called for, the college authorities could and did take adequate steps to punish the guilty and perhaps to prevent a repetition of the incidents as well. Nothing more was required and nothing more is expected.

However, the fact that none of the students was indicted or tried is significant. Had they been day laborers, their fate might well have been different. They might now be doing time in the county jail if not in Leavenworth. Here is a nice illustration of the fact that prohibition is class legislation. The educated, the wealthy, the influential, need have no fear of the consequences of their lawbreaking. The law was not intended to inhibit them. Its punishments are for the poor and obscure.

THE HIGHER CHIVALRY IN INDIANA.

The student affairs committee of the University of Indiana has considerately made public the names of a number of young women who recently were requested to leave the campus. The university appears to be in the throes of a prohibition cleanup. The publication of the names is no doubt regarded as a highly creditable and perhaps even essential part of the process. In Indiana it is a felony to moisten the lips of a dying man with brandy. That is the higher humanitarianism. The higher chivalry, following the same line, commands the pillory for young women.

PRISON MANAGEMENT.

[Peoria Transcript.]

"A properly built and equipped penitentiary with proper management and with not more than 2,400 prisoners would be as easy to run as a boys' boarding school if theorists, so-called penologists, and welfare societies would keep their hands off," is the conclusion of Col. John C. Groome, formerly warden of the Pennsylvania Eastern penitentiary, who made that institution successful after several years of self-government by convicts had almost ruined it.

Col. Groome is qualified to write on prison management. As acting provost marshal general during the war, he was in charge of 35,000 German prisoners captured by the A. E. F. He organized and trained the Pennsylvania state police, and declared when he took over the wardenship of the prison that he would "introduce military discipline" into the institution so that convicts would obey as readily as state troopers. He did almost that.

For five years he was head of the institution. He says he went in with open mind. When he came out he believed these things:

"A convict uniform with distinctive stripes . . . sufficient, well disciplined, physically fit guards with good records who can shoot straight when necessary. . . . I do not regard the criminal as a sick man who would have been a minister if his adenoids had been removed in childhood. . . . I regard him as an undisciplined human being who needs to be taught that deliberately violating the rights of other people is likely to prove an uncomfortable career."

These, and other eminently sane conclusions, are worth noting because of what has happened at Joliet. Col. Groome lists three causes of prison riots: idleness, overcrowding, and defects in management. The first two are known to have contributed to the Joliet situation and can only be remedied by legislation. How much of the Joliet disturbance was due to bad management remains to be seen.

Theoretical penologists are fond of referring to society's obligation toward its wards and of insisting that the first duty of prison executives is to reform the prisoners. We think not. The first duty is to keep them securely controlled, to protect society from them, and to give them work and fair treatment. Prison executives are not anti-social. Their obligation runs to society first, the criminal second.

That is why it is better, if necessary, to kill an escaping prisoner than to let him flee and become a danger to society.

This should be borne in mind at Joliet.

WINTER SUNSHINE.

DRS. TISDALE AND BROWN have shown that in Toronto, at least, winter sunshine is not worth much. There is not much of it and the quality is on even a lower plane. Somewhere about March first a change comes. The quality of the article is good and the possible dose is no longer homeopathic in proportions. Sun-hungry people can roll out into the open and let their bared skin soak up sunshine as dry ground absorbs the rain.

What is true of Toronto is true of most of the country along the Atlantic and Pacific and in and around every great industrial center. Drs. Stein and Lewis say it is not true of Denver and vicinity. Their experiments and observations show that Colorado sunshine is good both winter and summer. The quality remains the same in the several seasons of the year. About the only difference in quantity is that due to the difference in the length of the day in June as compared with December.

The poor quality of winter sunshine elsewhere they attribute to an atmospheric moisture, dust, and dirt. Fogs, clouds, rains, and snows are factors. Around Denver the air is fairly free from dust, smoke, and moisture, and there are not many days of heavy clouds. Denver sits up nearer the sunshine factory. They are on the mourner's bench at this show. The ultra-violet rays drip right on those who sit on the Denver bench. These physicians find very little rickets among the Colorado children. Those whose bones show evidence of this disorder are speedily benefited by exposure to Colorado sunshine.

There is every reason to think the clean, dry air of the arid regions farther away is of the same high quality as that of Denver and vicinity. The writer has long advocated Colorado as a winter resort. He thinks it should be the Alps of America or the Adirondacks of the west. Its advantages as a winter playground excel those of its summer season. He has had in mind Colorado as a resort for vigorous adults who wish to keep up their resistance during the long, dark winter and into the late spring.

These reports help out because they show that John should take along Mary and the babies.

CAUSE OF BAD BREATH.

Mrs. C. W. S. writes:

1. Will you explain some of the causes of bad breath?
2. Would an indication of such be the constant coating of the tongue?
3. What is the usual meaning of a coated tongue?
4. Will the eating of yeast cure it?
5. Will a silver knife take down the swelling in an injured finger?

REPLY.

1. Among the several causes of bad breath are certain decompositions occurring in the digestive tract. If this is the cause the method of prevention suggests itself.
2. It might be but usually it is not.
3. Among the causes is reversed peristalsis. Among the causes of reverse peristalsis are constipation, gall bladder trouble of some sort, adhesions. Another cause of coated tongue is sleeping with the mouth open.
4. Sometimes it contributes to a cure.
5. I don't think so.

RAYNAUD'S DISEASE.

Anonymous writes: You seem ignorant about Raynaud's disease. I know a woman who was cured by operation two years ago. Immediately after operation her hands became warm. She was the seventh person operated on.

REPLY.

I have written about the operative treatment of Raynaud's disease rather frequently—some say too frequently.

The operation has a place and is justified in certain cases.

ABOUT REAL ESTATE BONDS.

Decatur, Mich., March 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Real estate bonds on Chicago apartment buildings I hold have defaulted on semi-annual payments and interest under a trust deed. The bond house asks me to send them to a committee for the protection of bondholders. 1. Would you advise doing so? 2. If I hold them, would the owner have to pay me in full before he could give a clear title to the property in case of sale? R. F.

1. The decision on such questions depends upon the value of the pledged assets, the financial responsibility of the maker whose name is signed to the bonds, the reputation of the members of the committee, and the proposal which the committee makes. We are not in a position to investigate the facts for you. If you are skeptical as to the offered plan we would suggest that you join with other bondholders in employing an attorney to investigate the facts and determine on a course of action.
2. Yes, but a clear title could be conveyed under foreclosure proceedings.

UNLICENSED BROKER.

Chicago, March 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In 1928 I made a $500 deposit on a piece of property and on account of the people not being able to give title quick enough I decided not to go through with the deal and have since discovered that the man who acted as a broker was not licensed to do so. 1. Do you think that I could get the earnest money back on these grounds? 2. Would the fact of this claim, now over two years old, have any bearing on the case? E. F. G.

1. Yes. 2. No.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

UNLUCKY SIXTH.

Chicago, March 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A widower and father of a family of six, being of sound mind, made a will just prior to his death, leaving estate to five of his children and only $1 to sixth child, thereby changing previous wills. The sixth child is planning to contest will.

1. Can sixth child receive any benefits from the estate other than the $1?
2. What steps should be taken by the remaining five children to safeguard their interests?
3. Will it be necessary for them to employ an attorney in event sixth child contests will? X. Y. Z.

1. If he can prove undue influence or lack of testamentary capacity and set aside the will on this ground he would then share equally with the other children.
2 and 3. Employ an attorney.

HERE COMES THE KING!

The king of Siam and his queen will be in Chicago next month. He's only going to stay four hours, but, just the same, it will give us a little chance of brushing up on how to treat a king and will help prepare us to receive royalty when it comes to the World's Fair in 1933.

His name is Prajadhipok, but don't call him Praj, or colonel; he doesn't like it. Just slap him on the back and call him "King, old boy," after the Chicago fashion. He's read about us and he'll probably expect it.

He won't be in town long enough for a banquet, so he won't have to endure the agony of hearing the toastmaster say: "We have with us tonight the king of Siam. Many of you, no doubt, know where Siam is, so I won't go into that. The king is one of the liveliest little kings that there is in the king business today and a natural go-getter. But before I introduce him I want to tell a funny story about a coupla kings that were out hunting with an Irish guide. . . ."

If somebody entertains the king at an afternoon tea don't call him "Mr. King" in introducing him to the other guests. And don't try to study up on Siamese so that you can speak to him in his own language. He graduated at Oxford and he probably thinks he speaks English as well as we do. (And if he hears the radio announcers he'll be sure of it.)

Tell the bootleggers to lay off the king while he is here. He has special privileges coming through the customs, just as a congressman or millionaire has, and will probably carry his own stuff.

Bandits ought to leave the king alone while he is in Chicago. He is going to New York for a long stay, and heaven knows what they'll do to him down there, but he'll need every cent he's got. Besides, he won't wear his crown while he's in Chicago, and the royal scepter is probably back at the hotel strapped up with his golf sticks, so he won't be as rich picking as might be imagined.

It's all right to give him three rousing cheers now and then and ask him if Siam is going to go Democratic in 1932. But don't telephone him, and when he answers say, "Guess who this is!" That always makes a king mad.

TRINKET.

I give you my love, dearest dear,
A trinket to keep in your pocket;
My love is a small souvenir,
A keepsake to put in your locket.

My love is a feather to wear
Quite jauntily stuck in your hat,
A gay little spring boutonniere;
My love is no more than just that.

Oh, some love is precious as gold
And costly as diamonds and such,
But diamonds, dear heart, are so cold—
My love is a trinket to touch.

IT IS REPORTED that Mary Pickford has received a cablegram from Husband Doug Fairbanks, now hunting in India, that he had shot a tiger while riding on an elephant. We do not believe it; it would be more like Doug to shoot an elephant while riding on a tiger's back. And standing on his head as he fired at the elephant.

THE VIRGIN ISLANDS, according to the President's party, after they gave the darned things the once over, are a washout. Denmark charged us twenty-five millions for 'em to begin with, and now they cost five hundred grand a year to keep up. Smart little Denmark seems to have stuck good old Uncle Sam almost as well as the allies did after the late guerre. And then they talk about us getting into the League of Nations. Gosh! If those highbinders over there ever got Uncle Sam in the game they'd take his roll and his suitcase and his shirt.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN chatted twenty-five minutes the other day with King Albert of Belgium. And it was mighty nice of Charlie to give Albert so much of his time.

BEING IN GREAT DEMAND isn't such a desirable thing after all. Take the case of Mr. Fred H. Burke, recently routed out of his bed by a sheriff's posse in a little town down in Missouri. No sooner had the discovery of Mr. Burke been noted than eleven states shrieked aloud that they wanted him badly, and state's attorneys, chiefs of police, common or garden police, and everybody started a mad race for Missouri to see who would have the proud pleasure of taking Mr. Burke back with them. More states have now swung into line and it is expected that Madagascar, New Zealand, and Cochin-China will soon be shrieking for Mr. Burke. He seems to be wanted for everying, from killing match girls to general massacres, and it wouldn't surprise us a bit if he's guilty of 'em all. Popularity! Bah! Likewise pish tush!

THE GALLANT RETINUE.

I shall gather my dreams to me when I seek out
The Farthest Country, my dreams that were substance of life;
They shall be my retinue as I go forth
In the still, white hour of dawn, when the plangent strife
Of yesterday is hushed and tomorrow waits
On tiptoe where the sky turns pearl and gleams.
I shall ride like a queen of old before my dreams
That thronged at the summons of my last, mortal breath;
Proudly at sunrise shall we enter the land,
A golden company to dazzle death!

REGAINING CONSCIOUSNESS, ONE BY ONE

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 28, 1915.

LONDON. — The Russians again have smashed through the Carpathian mountains and are advancing down the slopes leading to the plains of Hungary. One column of the great Muscovite army has penetrated the Dukla pass and is advancing on Bartfa, the northern terminus of the railroad leading to Budapest. The Austrians are falling back, Petrograd dispatches say, and in their retreat are devastating the surrounding country and burning villages to prevent supplies from falling into the hands of the invaders. Among the villages set afire was Zbore.

PARIS.—After a tenacious struggle lasting for several days, French troops have captured the principal height at Hartmanns-Weilerkopf in Alsace. Under terrific fire from German machine guns and artillery the French rushed the hillsides time and again. It is admitted that their losses were heavy.

WASHINGTON. — The battleship Alabama of the reserve fleet was ordered to Hampton roads from the Philadelphia navy yard on "neutrality duty." Secretary Daniels said it was intended to place one large vessel on guard to support submarines and destroyers which have been on duty since the German commerce destroyer Prinz Eitel Friedrich reached Newport News. It is reported that the German vessel is preparing to make a dash to the open sea. It is the general opinion that it will be interned by order of the government within a few days.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 28, 1901.

MANILA.—Aguinaldo is a prisoner. He was brought to Manila this morning by Gen. Frederick Funston, by whom he was captured in Isabella province, about six days' march inland from the east coast of Luzon, north of Baler. Aguinaldo was captured on March 23 with all the members of his staff. Funston started on the expedition which resulted in the capture three weeks ago. He had with him a company of natives and was assisted by Capt. John Newton of the 34th Volunteer Infantry, Lieut. Admire of the 22d Infantry, Lieut. Mitchell of the 40th Volunteers, and Surgeon Major Harris. The rebel chieftain's hiding place was revealed by a Filipino officer who turned over to Governor General MacArthur a letter from Aguinaldo. Funston's plan of operations was unique. After being landed on the east coast he and his four American companions were to play the rôle of prisoners in the hands of natives who were to represent themselves to Aguinaldo as loyal Filipinos. When brought before Aguinaldo the latter was to be seized by Funston's native troops. The adventure was a desperate one, but Funston's native soldiers proved worthy of the trust imposed in them and Aguinaldo fell into the trap.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 28, 1881.

ST. PETERSBURG.—The remains of the assassinated czar, Alexander II., were deposited in their final resting place in the imperial vault in the Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul amid salvos of artillery. The catafalque was strewn with flowers and wreaths and the church was densely crowded.

CHICAGO.—Three interesting sermons by eminent Chicago divines are presented to our readers this morning—those of the Rev. Dr. Thomas on "Reconciliations of Society"; of Prof. Swing on "A Threefold Religion," and of the Rev. Brooke Herford, advocating the introduction in Chicago of the English system of a weekly half holiday for the laboring man.

CHICAGO.—Thomas M. Halpin, an old and much respected citizen, whose life was interwoven with the history of two continents, is dead at the age of 58. He was active in the fight for Irish freedom until the failure of the 1848 movement, after which he came to this country. He was the first to publish a Chicago directory. He served in the legislature from 1872 to 1876 and at one time was city assessor.

MADISON, Wis.—"Old Abe," the historic eagle carried throughout the entire war of the rebellion by the Eighth Wisconsin Volunteer infantry, is dead. Because of the bird, the Eighth was known as the "Eagle regiment."

WORDS.

New York, March 24.—As a reader of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE allow me to thank you for your editorial on "Words" and to point out to you that the statement: "To an Englishman 'bloody' is a wicked word . . . 'bug' is objectionable . . . and 'stomach' indelicate," is nothing but poppycock. Such might have been the case and, in fact, was the case when Queen Victoria reigned over the English people, but today an Englishman has "guts" and does not hesitate to refer to them, and that word is a good deal more indelicate to the average person than "stomach." "Bloody" has become common food, and an eminent English editor acknowledged not so very many weeks ago that if he knew of a young friend who was about to make a false step he would not hesitate to warn him with the expression: "Don't be a 'bloody' fool." These may sound rough words, but they were the words of a Quaker, and generally Quakers do not mince matters.

As for your comment upon the letter "r," Henry James felt that it was overworked in the States. I can remember the time in England when we were urged in class to give that letter its full sound, rough and snarling though it might be, and who does not remember the sentence, "Around the ragged rock the ragged rascal ran a rural race"?

May I trespass upon your erudition to the extent of asking you to favor me with the titles of Jesperson and Craigie's contributions to the anatomy of words, by which I presume you refer to some work from their pens on English etymology—the one rock in English linguistry on which theorizing devotees have wrecked their reputations? FRANK T. VIZETELLY, Editor, the New Standard Dictionary.

MORE IN TOMORROW'S TRIBUNE.

Chicago, March 23.—We children of the Fourth Grade Library club send you thanks for the beautiful bird pictures. We mounted them on blue cardboard and now have pretty books of eight pages. We are looking for the birds that are coming back to us this spring and hope to find their pictures in our books. We hope to see more pictures soon. ELLA ROBERTSON,

BONUS LOANS.

Chicago, March 24.—How many checks have really been sent to veterans on bonus loans, and why have the local papers stopped printing items of information regarding the activity, or lack of activity, of the veterans' bureau on this matter?

When one knows that so far no action has been taken on applications which were filed within the first three days after the law went into effect, it is rather hard to understand to what use the extra clerks and equipment have been put in the veterans' bureau.

COL. REEVES EXPLAINS DOUGHBOY.

Chicago, March 24.—With all due respect to Col. Fox's letter of the 21st, my information is that the word doughboy was given to infantrymen by cavalrymen and other mounted troops because they splash along in the mud and make dough of it. An infantryman is also sometimes called a "mud splasher."

I entered the army as an enlisted man the year of the World's Fair, and the word doughboy was in common use then as applied to infantrymen. I recall the very first time I ever heard the word. When I was a rookie I asked an old timer named McBride, who had then served 35 years, what the word meant, and he gave me the explanation given above, and said that the word was in common use when he entered the service (that is, 73 years ago).

IRA L. REEVES.

TIMOROUS FISH.

Chicago, March 23.—While visiting Lincoln park last Friday I walked through the aquarium to see the fish. In one of the glass apartments were a number of fish all crowded together in a corner like sardines, scared almost to death by a big fellow playing the part of a bully. I must have spent the better part of an hour watching them. As soon as one of them made a move he would chase them back. He had them so nervous and scared it is a wonder they did not die. I was there Monday again and the same thing was going on.

Why does the management allow that bully in there? It certainly is a hard life for the other fish. Why not let them live in peace and remove him where some fish will give him a fight for their life? J. D. F.

BOOING AND HISSING.

Chicago, March 24.—I attended a meeting of candidates at the Chicago Woman's club last evening and note in THE TRIBUNE this morning a report of the meeting which gives an inexcusably incorrect impression of what occurred. There was no real hissing or booing of Mr. Ettelson. At his first stab at Cermak there was one single hiss, apparently from one single person. There was no booing. There was an evidence of unrest among a portion of the audience, and much good natured laughter from auditors present, such as myself, who had no sense of responsibility for the meeting.

Let me say that I am one of those who feel that Thompson must be beaten if Chicago is to regain its good name. Hence my letter is not prompted by a Thompson bias.

FRANCIS E. BROOKELL.

CRIMINALS AND GRAFTERS.

Chicago, March 24.—Mr. Cermak promises to rid Chicago of the criminals and grafters, but Mr. Cermak has always stoutly maintained that you cannot legislate and force morals and human conduct. I wonder by what magic trick he expects to get the desired results.

RUSSIA REFUSES TO SLOW UP ITS OUTPUT OF GRAIN

Says Wheat Crisis Affects Other Nations Only.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 27.—Commissar Leon Kritzman of Russia today informed the delegates of 48 nations at today's session of the international wheat conference:

"We know you are all in a mess over your grain problems, but we have no problem and are sitting pretty. We will listen to what other nations propose, but without any commitments to accept these proposals."

The tenor of Kritzman's address was that soviet Russia would do about what she pleased in exporting as much grain as was required to pay for the implements and machinery she needed from manufacturing countries.

Commissar Kritzman allowed that there was a good reason for calling this conference. The world, exclusive of Russia, he said, appeared to be in a bad way through the wheat surplus, which had caused prices to fall. The surplus, he declared, was caused by underfeeding and a lower standard of living, and the misery of the masses was occasioned by the economic crisis. This problem, he continued, does not affect Russia at all. There is no crisis in Russia, Kritzman said.

Farming Booming, He Says.

"On the contrary, our growing industries are stimulating agriculture, and there is a growing demand for agricultural products, which we are trying to meet by special methods," he continued. "By monopoly and scientific cultivation, we have been able to cut production costs, and besides our peasants have no rents and no mortgages to pay off. All our workers are contented and there is no forced labor and no unemployment.

"However, since we have to import machinery and agricultural implements, we came to this conference because we are paying for our machinery in our own products, chief among which is wheat."

Kritzman added that his delegation was against any system of preferential tariffs to protect the eastern European grain growers.

Europe Asks Free Trade.

This morning the delegates from the eastern European countries had renewed their complaints regarding their special difficulties as compared to the United States, Canada, Argentina, and Australia, and renewed their pleas to the importing countries to give them preferential tariff arrangements, or better still to knock down the bars and have free trade until eastern Europe could recuperate.

Ambassador Peres of Argentina registered an emphatic protest.

"Some European countries seem to think that non-European countries ought to be glad and willing to make sacrifices in order to add to the joys of European life," he said. "If such is the case, this ought to be called the international charity conference and not a grain conference."

He suggested that the best way out of the present difficulties would be to let economic laws have free play and not try to set aside international treaties. Warning Europe against what he said was taking a regional view of the world crisis, Señor Peres accused France of discriminating against American wheat through advising the French millers to buy from eastern Europe by preference.

Accuses European Nations.

It, argued Peres, non-European countries have increased their wheat production, the reason is that Europe had increased its demand for wheat, and if that demand has now diminished non-European exporters are not to blame. The trouble, said Peres, is that Europe has done everything it could to clog up both production and distribution through high tariff walls.

Ambassador Peres declared that the soviets were not putting their wheat on the European market at uneconomic dumping prices, but that they were actually making large profits through cheaper production methods, which made both production and distribution a government monopoly, cutting out all intermediaries.

He warned Europe that in continuing to buy soviet wheat it was only accentuating its own price depressions and grain troubles. He declared that Argentina would never accept any proposal that France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Switzerland or European importing countries should even as a temporary measure extend preferential tariff facilities to eastern European producing countries. Such a system would be a direct violation of the favored nation clauses in existing trade treaties, he said.

Wreckage Reveals Crash of British Plane; 2 Men Lost

MARGATE, England, March 27.—(P)—A royal air force plane from Manston was believed to have crashed into the sea near here with the pilot, Flying Officer C. R. F. BOOST IN TAXES CAN BE AVERTED, REED DECLARES

His Plan for Congress to Say "No."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] today asserted that a tax increase will be unnecessary this winter "if congress will develop the courage to say no in the face of demands for appropriations by special groups."

SENATOR DAVID A. REED.

Responsibility for the current deficit, which is expected to exceed 700 millions at the end of the fiscal year, was placed by the Pennsylvania senator upon the failure of congress to stand up against the demands for bonus and farm board stabilization appropriations.

"If we had restricted our aid to the farmers to those in need of seed loans because of the drought, every one would have approved," he said. "If we had limited our loans to soldiers in distress, every one would have approved. We've been too cowardly to stand up against the demands of either the farm bloc or the soldier bloc and now we are going to pay for our cowardice. During the next six months I expect to see most politicians engaged in the edifying job of passing the buck.

Farm Board Assailed.

"I see no need of increasing rates of taxation if the coming congress will oppose similar demands. Our deficit this year will be about 750 million dollars. Practically all of this comes from the money lost through the farm board and the money loans to veterans not in distress. The present tax rates will yield enough for all ordinary expenses of government. If congress will develop the courage to say no, it will not need to increase taxes."

The collapse of the farm board's wheat stabilization operations was characterized by Senator Reed as proof that the government cannot artificially manufacture prosperity.

"There's no use crying over spilled milk," he continued, "but we cannot manufacture prosperity for a given section of the country without eventually breaking the back of the rest of the nation. Our experience has exactly paralleled the experience of every other country that has tried to fix the prices for some of its products.

"Errors" Pointed Out.

"Cuba had the same experience in sugar, Brazil had it in coffee, Chile had it in nitrates, England had it in rubber and so it has gone all over the world. The expenditure is worthwhile if we have at last learned our lesson. I cannot see that the farm board has helped the farmer and I see no reason for its further existence."

Senator Reed advocated sale of the wheat held by the farm board, representing an estimated investment of 200 million dollars, for what it will bring.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, arrived here today on the Berengaria about three jumps behind reports from London that he was en route on a secret mission looking toward the establishment of an international bank to finance trade with new markets—particularly soviet Russia—through long term credits.

MONTAGU NORMAN.

Undoubtedly, an international trade bank, which is one of Mr. Norman's hobbies, will be discussed at length with American bankers. The gold situation will come in for its share of attention and there will be informal debate on international banking questions during the British banker's two weeks' visit here and in Washington.

He's Suave and Silent.

But of all these things Mr. Norman had nothing to say when his black hat and beard bobbed out of a stateroom door. He was his usual silent self. Somebody handed him a written list of questions concerning the "trade bank" reports. Mr. Norman took one fleeting look and retired into his cabin.

"Sorry, I wish you better luck next time," he smiled as the door slammed.

Dr. O. M. W. Sprague of Harvard, Mr. Norman's financial adviser, who accompanied him, was located in the dining room preparing to spear a grapefruit perched dangerously on a berg of cracked ice. Dr. Sprague may be able to advise London financiers sagely, but he does not know how to handle grapefruit and reporters at the same time.

He Eats and Talks.

"Mr. Norman has been coming to this country on visits since 1920 and this is another of his periodical visits," said Dr. Sprague. "Of course it is natural to assume that when the heads of two central banks get together there will be an informal discussion of international banking questions. I do not think there is any basis for the report concerning an international bank to finance trade with Russia."

Whereupon Dr. Sprague dismissed both the reporters and the grapefruit. George L. Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, whom Mr. Norman is to visit, appeared on the scene. He went directly to the Norman cabin and presently the banker from the United States, representing 42 per cent of the world's gold, was wringing the hand of the banker from Great Britain, who represents only 7 per cent of the world's gold.

Mr. Harrison was using his left hand, as his right was in a sling, caused, he said, "by driving a buggy alone with both hands."

Despite Mr. Norman's silence and Dr. Sprague's denial of the reported Norman banking plan, speculation about it continued in banking circles.

It was reported several weeks ago that Mr. Norman had put the plan before the Bank of International Settlements at Basle. At the present, Basle is able to aid business only with short term loans. It was said bankers of the creditor nations, the United States being the chief one, would be asked to supply most of the capitalization.

Britain, Germany and Russia are reported to favor the proposed plan, but the French have shied from it on several grounds, some financiers asking if it would not be possible for the proposed bank to provide money for arms for the German Fascists, or to build cruisers for the Italian navy.

BOGUS MESSENGERS TAKE ACTRESS' GEMS VALUED AT $24,200

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—Pretending they were messengers with packages to deliver, two holdup men gained admittance to the apartment of Miss Gertrude Williams, a former Follies show girl, East 67th street, today, held her up, bound her wrists, and fled with six pieces of jewelry worth $24,200.

The packages, which the holdup men left behind, were found to contain two bottles each labeled "Gordon Gin," the police said. They were filled with water.

The neighborhood is one of expensive apartments and residences. Miss Williams has a two room, bath and kitchenette apartment. Her maid had not yet arrived and when her doorbell rang Miss Williams, clad in her pajamas, answered it. Through the door she asked what was wanted, and a man's voice spoke of "packages to deliver."

She opened the door. Two men, each with a package under his arm, stepped in. Both drew guns and warned Miss Williams against making an outcry. One of the men drew a short rope from his pocket and bound Miss Williams' wrists.

Then, while one stood guard, warning her against a call for help, the other ransacked a bureau drawer until he found the six pieces of jewelry.

They consisted of a diamond and platinum bracelet valued at $3,000; a diamond, emerald and platinum bracelet, $5,000; a diamond ring, emerald cut, $2,000; a diamond and platinum wrist watch, $4,200; a diamond ring, star shaped, $500, and a diamond pin, $500. All were insured.

After telling Miss Williams not to make an outcry, the two holdup men left her and went down in the elevator. The operator, Joseph Remer, was able to add to the description Miss Williams gave to the police.

WIFE SLAPS HIS FACE, SO MAJOR SEEKS DIVORCE

Cambridge, Mass., March 27.—[Special.]—Maj. Paul M. Ellis, military instructor at Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y., seeking divorce on the grounds of cruelty, said today in the Middlesex Probate court in East Cambridge that his wife slapped his face and caused him so much worry that he lost 17 pounds.

Maj. Ellis said they were married Sept. 3, 1921, at Annapolis and that shortly after his transfer to Fort McKinley, Me., he found several letters which he believed were writen by his wife to another man.

The case was taken under advisement.

HYDE INSISTS U. S. WHEAT BUYING IS AID TO FARMER

'An Emergency Measure,' Teague Declares.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Recent attacks on the administration's wheat stabilization operations elicited replies from two members of the President's official family today. Both Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and C. C. Teague, vice chairman of the federal farm board, defended the purchase of wheat on the market by the board's stabilization corporation as an emergency measure which had been helpful to the farmer.

While stating that the development of coöperative marketing and collective action by the farmers in handling their crops constituted the big task of the farm board, Mr. Teague said the board had rendered important service to agriculture during the last year through its action in artificially holding up wheat prices.

Mr. Teague declared, however, that stabilization operations "are considered by the board to be purely of an emergency character."

That Exportable Surplus.

"To prevent as far as possible a disastrous depression in wheat and cotton," Mr. Teague said, "the board undertook emergency stabilization operations in both of these commodities. This was undertaken with the full realization that it was dealing with commodities with large exportable surpluses on which prices were largely fixed by world supply and demand conditions.

"The board realized that large sums of money would be required, involving withholding from the market large volumes of both wheat and cotton, the object being to support the market and cotton during this depression and as far as possible to prevent disastrously low price on these two important commodities which exert such an important influence on a large percentage of the economic and social life of our country.

"The price of both wheat and cotton for the crops of 1929 and 1930 has been maintained considerably above the price that would have obtained had it not been for these stabilization operations."

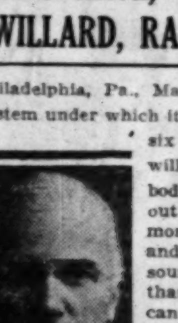
Praises Coöperatives.

Mr. Teague asserted that most of the difficulties of the farmer today are due to either surplus production or lack of control of marketing and distribution. He expressed the belief that there has been more progress made in coöperative marketing during the last twenty months than had been made in any prior ten year period in our history.

That the board has had a favorable influence on American agriculture was held by Mr. Hyde as obvious. He said that, apart from its wheat stabilization operations, the board has had "a tremendous psychological effect on wheat prices." On the basis of figures compiled by the department, Mr. Hyde said that without the existence of the board, and independent of its stabilization activities, domestic wheat prices at the end of February would have been at the Buenos Aires level, or about 50 cents a bushel.

'I WOULD STEAL ERE I'D STARVE,' ADMITS WILLARD, RAIL CHIEF

Philadelphia, Pa., March 27.—(AP)—A system under which it is possible for six millions of willing and able-bodied men to be out of work for months at a time and with no other source of income than their toil can be said to have failed in at least one very important detail, Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, said today.



DANIEL WILLARD.

"I can think of nothing more deplorable than the condition of a man, able and anxious to work, but unable to secure work with no resources but his labor and perhaps, with others even more helpless, dependent upon him," Mr. Willard said.

"Unless he is willing to starve and see those who justly look to him for support also starve, his only alternative is to seek charity and, failing in that, to steal. While I do not like to say so, I would be less than candid if I did not say that in such circumstances I would steal before I would starve."

Mr. Willard spoke at the observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce as a part of the University of Pennsylvania. He urged the students to help find the solutions to the problems of unemployment and the distribution of resources that bring into question, he said, the very foundations of the capitalistic system the founder of the Wharton school believed in and desired to perpetuate.

Mr. Willard said that with all its defects, "and doubtless there are many," the capitalistic system affords in his opinion "a better and fairer basis upon which to build an economic structure than any other system so far devised and tested by man."

Society and Gangs Mingle in This Novel

"Our Very Best People" Its Fetching Title.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

I couldn't imagine anything more alluring than a week-end ahead of me with Clifford Raymond's "Our Very Best People" as companions.

CLIFFORD RAYMOND.

What a house party those gentry of the upper and under world would be! They are all of the very best of their kind, whether they are social leaders, important civic figures, gunmen, stenographers, husbands who prefer blondes, daughters who go society, old gals who try every diet that Dr. Evans suggests for whatever condition of the human frame, or who just look life square in the eye. They are as amusing a bookful of people as I can remember meeting.

Mr. Raymond has done a cross section of our town—all a little gayly—like a cartoon rather than a photograph. The result is so amusing that, unlike most funny books, you don't want to skip anything because you're afraid you'll miss something. Every incident is incredible, funny and real at the same time. So are everybody's comments on every incident.

The book opens with a casual incident of the wife of a pillar of the city's structure and a traffic cop. She and he had different ideas about where she was going to turn east off Michigan avenue. She refused to turn at one block. When the diligent cop offered to present her with a ticket for her lack of respect for the law, and clutched himself against the side of her car, she gave him a ride the intention of which was to brush him off against a truck, snap him off with a quick turn, or just hurl him against the stream of traffic. He, naturally, was slightly annoyed at her. She, being Mrs. Alexander Cobb née Georgiana Howeling, felt that the policeman was being very misguided when he called the wagon and gave HER a ride, any one driving a Rolls-Royce roadster!

By a series of satirical events the Howelings, in their various branches, became involved with a gentleman whose name was Pasquale Amore, "Con Amore" to the world at large through the intervention of the newspapers, and who had, previous to the opening of the book, killed both Moran and Al Capone.

This Amore was a muscler-in in a big way and he decided that the business of one Hubert Howeling needed his support. Hubert's business as a lawyer didn't attract him, but Hubert's business as a director of practically all of the uplift and relief committees of the city, the state, and the nation did look to him like a good fallow field that had not yet been plowed by any one with a brain.

Amore proposed to reform the reform business; to put it on a really paying foundation. And when Con Amore proposed, he also disposed. What happened when that genial gentleman disposed is the rest of the story. That story has got all of the "it" any book needs to keep you amused. You never will have to go outside the home looking for distraction if you invite "Our Very Best People" in!

Mr. Raymond is an editorial writer on THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. He's also a charming, shy person that we've always wished we knew better. But these guarded words of half-praise (!) aren't being bestowed on him because we have both, man and boy, watched THE TRIBUNE go into every English reading household in zone seven. We would be compelled, however, reluctantly, to bestow just as many if "Our Very Best People" were written by the man half way down the block who once "heard Caruso plain" and who has been bellowing ever since that loathsome ditty about "O Sole Mio," and who is, as we figure, probably the one we hate the most in the world.

If even that singer, the grand high mogul of this world's pests, had written "Our Very Best People," we would sigh to ourselves, "How little, after all, we really know of our fellow men. Here in that ordinary head—and O, how ordinary we have always thought it, in imagination only, a compassionate God never having given us a sight of it—there actually exists something other than a larynx. There also is a brain!"

What we mean is, that "Our Very Best People" is our idea of a swell light novel and we wish we had the equipment to do one just like it!

SHE'S TWO AUTHORS; BOTH OF THEM ARE MAKING GOOD PROFITS

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—A long time ago I reported here that Miss Marjorie Bowen was also "George Preedy," and the secret now is officially revealed. This will be a relief to a number of people who have for many months engaged in the pastime of noting similarities between the styles of two able and successful authors.

MARJORIE BOWEN. [Also 'George Preedy']

Miss Bowen deserves much credit, in that she has made and maintained two separate reputations as an historical novelist; but now that she admits to being George Preedy I do not know what is to happen to that gentleman. The occasion of the announcement was the almost simultaneous production of dramatic versions of "General Crack" [at Oxford] and "The Rocklitz" [in London]. It is quite a long time since, as a little girl, Miss Bowen sprang into fame as the author of "The Viper of Milan." She has written many books since then, and has kept the flag of the historical novel flying bravely; but "George Preedy," following in the footsteps of Feuchtwanger, had a reclamé which would have been impossible to an established writer; so that the use of such a pseudonym was assuredly justified.

A later effort, with another pseudonym was short lived. I suppose that we shall now have a novel from Miss Bowen in the spring, and a novel from "George Preedy" in the fall. Miss Bowen must be one of the most prolific authors now alive—second only, in England, to Edgar Wallace.

Mr. Wallace, by the way, recently took a holiday in Switzerland. He explained that it was impossible to work at Vaux, owing to the lazy life he led there. All he could manage was a couple of stories in a fortnight—an average of about 5,000 words a day. He is now back at work.

A book about which all literary London is talking is "After Leaving Mr. Mackenzie," by Jean Rhys. This is a terrible and ruthless picture of an unmoral woman, written with tremendous skill and finish. The author was born in the West Indies, has been an actress, and has traveled much. She is the wife of a Dutch poet, has seen all aspects of life in every European capital, and is a born writer.

Authors' Teas, Other Gossip of New York

"American Caravan" Is Much Discussed.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—One of the largest parties of the season was given by the editors of the "American Caravan" and their publishers, the Macaulay company, on Sunday afternoon at the new offices of the firm, 381 4th avenue. The affair began at 3:30; an hour later there were at least 200 guests assembled, and it went on until dinnertime, with dancing.

LEWIS MUMFORD.

Only two of the three editors were present, Lewis Mumford and Paul Rosenfeld; the third, Alfred Kreymborg, did not get back from Europe in time. E. J. Furman and Lee Furman, members of the firm of Macaulay, welcomed the guests.

The guest list was not restricted to literary lights, but of these there were Laurence Stallings, newly returned to the ranks of reviewers; Herschel and Norma Brickell, Dawn Powell, Djuna Barnes, Matthew Josephson, Kenneth Burke, Isaac Don Lhevine, Maurice Hanlein, Michael Gold, Harold Loeb, Countee Cullen, Anna Bontemps, Pierre Loving, Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Grattan, Jack Niles, Emily Clark, and many others.

The international note was struck by Mr. and Mrs. Wong (Mr. Wong is assistant curator of the Chinese department at the Metropolitan museum) and Fortunat Strowski, who holds the chair of philosophy at the Sorbonne. He is an authority on Pascal, whose complete works he has edited. M. Strowski was especially interested in meeting Mae West, who was among the guests, as he is studying the American drama, its modern types and tendencies.

Peggy Joyce is writing her "Secrets of S. A.," to be published in one of the tabloids under the general title: "How to Attract, Hold, and Manage Men." She is also rehearsing for a vaudeville tour. It is said that her objective is the purchase of a yacht.

Meetings and Lectures

On Monday evening at Orchestra hall John Galsworthy will lecture on "Literature and Life."

The New Books

FICTION.

Luxury Unlimited, by Arthur Applin [Duffield], is about a beautiful dancing girl who ruled the demi-monde.

The Vice Squad, by Joseph Van Raalte [Vanguard], is an exciting picture of the New York underworld.

Sympathetic to Bare Feet, by Jonathan Leonard [Viking], is a reckless tale of a girl's experiments in love.

The Forge, by T. S. Stribling [Doubleday Doran], is a vivid chapter of American social history by the author of "Teeftallow."

The Good Hope, by Henry Sydnor Harrison [Houghton Mifflin], concerns the stock market crash of 1929. It is a posthumous novel by the author of "Queed."

Pigboats on the Bottom, by Commander Edward Ellsberg [Dodd Mead], is a thriller about a crippled and helpless submarine.

City of White Night, by Nikolai Gubsky [Norton], is in English, but an impressive Russian novel written in the tradition of the great novels of his country.

MYSTERY.

Murder from Beyond, by R. Francis Foster [Macaulay], is about three mysterious deaths in England.

The Jade Green Cats, by Eleanor A. Blake [McBride], tells of crime, murder, love, and racketeering in Chicago. The author was a Chicago newspaper woman.

The Hymn Tune Mystery, by George A. Birmingham [Bobbs Merrill], is about the murder of an organist in the organ loft.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Schopenhauer, by V. J. McGill [Brentano's], is a biography of a great modern philosopher.

The Rain Girl, by Edward Doherty [Macrae Smith], tells of the glamorous life of Jeanne Eagels.

A Bibliography of the Writings of George Sterling, compiled by Cecil Johnson [Windsor Press], is a complete literary record of a well known American poet.

Cadillac, by Agnes C. Laut [Bobbs Merrill], is the first biography of the Knight Errant of the Wilderness, founder of Detroit and governor of Louisiana from the great lakes to the gulf.

ABOUT PLACES.

Silver Seas and Golden Cities, by Frances Parkinson Keyes [Liveright], is the record of a journey through Latin lands.

Atlantic Circle, by Leonard Outhwaite [Scribner's], tells of an adventurous voyage in a small schooner across the Atlantic ocean and back again.

The Road to the Grey Pamir, by Anna Louise Strong [Little Brown], is the record of an American woman's trip through Asiatic Soviet Russia on horseback.

NONFICTION.

What This Country Needs, by Jan Franklin [Covici-Friede], contends that this country needs a new constitution.

The Flight from Reason, by Arnold Lunn [Dial], shows how in the twentieth century science has outgrown the Victorian heresy.

William Shakespeare Adapts a Hanging, by Thomas Whitfield Baldwin [Princeton], reconstructs from records the living characters who were forced into parts in his plays.

The X Y Z of Communism, by Ethan T. Colton [MacMillan], tells the results of thirteen years of the soviet experiment.

American Humor, by Constance Rourke [Harcourt Brace], is a history of humor since the revolution and a study of the American character.

Easier Motherhood, by Constance L. Todd [Day], tells how childbirth has been made less difficult.

Herbert Hoover Hero for Boys in Biography

Another Tells of Last of Stuart Rebellions.

BY AGATHA L. SHEA.

[Director of children's work for branches of the Chicago Public library.]

"Boy's Life of Herbert Hoover," by Mitchell V. Charnley [Harpers].

"The Gleam in the North," by O. K. Broster [Coward-McCann].

"Tinka, Minka, and Luka," by May McNeer [Knopf].

Among the new books for young people just making their appearance in the bookstores are two which the adventure lovers in the 12 to 14 year group will find very good reading.

Both are stories of surpassing adventure, of achievement and of unwavering loyalty to faith and duty, and both are true stories of men who were not afraid of what life brought them. The first is Mitchell V. Charnley's "Boy's Life of Herbert Hoover" [Harpers], and a more inspiring story of accomplishment to put into the hands of youth would be very difficult indeed to find.

Beginning with the boyhood of President Hoover, it tells of his struggles for an education, of his mining days, and, lastly, of the service to distraught peoples which brought him world renown. His life as President is barely touched upon.

The second book, "The Gleam in the North" [Coward-McCann], by D. K. Broster, although fictional in form, is based also upon the life story of a man who, in a different way, fought the good fight and did not fail. It is a story of the days of Bonnie Prince Charlie and of the nobility and loyalty of Dr. Archibald Cameron, who, having given his allegiance to the cause of his prince, remained faithful to the end.

Lest the little ones think we have entirely forgotten them, we should mention a gayly colored new picture book called "Tinka, Minka, and Linka," by May McNeer, with illustrations by Charlotte Lederer [Knopf]. It is a story for children who like easy reading and tells how little Hungarian children celebrate the Easter holidays. It would be a particularly appropriate gift for the Easter bunny to bring to his little friends.

HENRY I. COBB, WIDELY KNOWN ARCHITECT, DIES

Designed Buildings Here; Won Fame in Steel.

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—Henry Ives Cobb, an architect widely known as a pioneer in the use of steel for building construction, died today at his home at 103 East 84th street. Mr. Cobb, who was 71 years old, had been an invalid for several years.

Mr. Cobb was born in Brookline, Mass., on Aug. 19, 1859, the son of Albert A. Cobb and Mary Russell Candler Cobb. He attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and in 1881 was graduated from Harvard with a B. S. degree.

Wins Fame in Chicago.

Within a few years after his graduation he went to Chicago, where he first attracted wide attention as an expert on steel construction. In 1889 he designed the Owings building in Chicago, one of the first buildings of its kind constructed in this country. He lived in Chicago for seven years and leaves a number of monuments there.

Chief among the buildings he designed there were the Federal building, the Chicago Athletic club, the Newberry library, and the Church of the Atonement. He also was the designer of the Hull gateway at the University of Chicago.

Mr. Cobb moved to New York in 1902 after several years' residence in Washington. New York had been his home since that time, and here he designed the Sinclair Oil building, the Harriman Bank building, the building at 42 Broadway, and many other structures.

He was a designer of the World's Fair held in Chicago in 1893, and also designed the American university at Washington, as well as many Christian Science churches and private residences in various parts of the country.

Expert on Arbitration.

Mr. Cobb was for a number of years an active student of the problems of arbitration and was a member of the first board of managers of the Arbitration Society of America. At his death he was a director of the American Arbitration association, which was founded only five years ago. He was for many years an active member of the Merchants association of New York City, and from 1924 to 1928 was it vice president. He resigned because of ill health.

Mr. Cobb is survived by his widow, the former Miss Emma Martin Smith of New York, whom he married in 1882, and by seven children. The children are Henry Ives Cobb Jr., Cleveland Cobb, Candler Cobb, Elliot Cobb, and Boughton Cobb, all of New York; Russell Cobb of Tulsa, Okla., and Mrs. Leonore Cobb Amory of Boston.

INDICT CICERO POLICEMEN WHO DISARMED DRY

Two Cicero policemen, Baldwin Koch and Chris Presmeyer, were indicted with Jack Karron, doorman at Ralph Capone's Cotton club, by the federal grand jury yesterday on charges of interfering with a federal officer in the performance of his duties.

Karron is alleged to have disarmed Roy M. Budd, a federal dry agent, and Policeman Dan Coakley, attached to the dry bureau, when they called at the Cotton club several weeks ago in search of dry violations against a temporary injunction.

The government charges that an unidentified gunman who escaped assisted the 24 year old doorman to disarm the drys. Karron, it is charged, called the Cicero police, who allegedly arrested Budd and Coakley.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Square-Shooter

PRIEST KILLED WHEN AUTO HITS SAFETY ISLAND

Eight Deaths in Motor Accidents.

The Rev. Anthony Sacha, 30 years old, assistant pastor of St. Barbara's Roman Catholic church, 2859 Throop street, was instantly killed early this morning when the automobile in which he was driving north in the outer drive crashed into a safety island at 55th street. It is supposed that he was blinded by the heavy rain.

When the machine struck the island Father Sacha was hurled forward against the windshield, and his neck was broken.

A. L. Wilkie, 35 years old, 835 Diversey parkway, was killed yesterday when his truck skidded into the path of a Chicago and North Western train at the Lincoln avenue crossing in Niles Center. Wilkie applied the brakes as his truck neared the crossing, but it slid on the wet pavement and onto the tracks.

These deaths and six others raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 280. The other victims:

Edward Gretz, 49 years old, 1522 North Central Park avenue. Died last night at his home of injuries suffered when he was run down by the truck of Carl Nelson, 2944 North Troy street.

August Scheiwiller, 6 years old, 2849 Southport avenue. Fatally injured when he was struck by a bakery truck while crossing Southport avenue at George street. Lester Williams, 1014 Beacon street, was the driver.

Ludwig Tyrakowski, 75 years old, 5326 North Natoma avenue. Killed when he was struck by the automobile of Thomas Lowry, 1738 West 35th street, at Fullerton and Milwaukee avenues.

Raymond Stapleton, 30 years old, colored, 4615 Indiana avenue. Killed when his automobile crashed into another driven by B. E. Reich, superintendent of Lyons township police, at South parkway and 38th street.

Louis Cassel, 50 years old, 4730 North St. Louis avenue. Died at the American hospital of injuries received March 12 when his auto collided with a street car in front of 3946 North Clark street.

David Barnett, 55 years old, 3717 Lexington street. Died at the Rogers Park Community hospital of injuries received Wednesday when he was struck by a car while crossing Van Buren at La Salle streets. The driver was Alex Bavcevich, 2704 South Wells street.

Prisoner Jumps Through Window of Moving Train

Carl McCoy, 30 years old, Davenport, Ia., who was being taken to the Leavenworth federal prison for violation of the Dyer act, escaped from a deputy marshal by jumping out of a window of a moving Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy train, near Hinsdale, last night.

PLANE CARRIER LEXINGTON IS 'SUNK' BY 'FOE'

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—Disclosure that the giant aircraft carrier Lexington, representing one-half the fleet's air carrier strength, had been theoretically destroyed during the Caribbean maneuvers this week, was made at the navy department today by David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary for air. The vessel was "lost" during an engagement between two aircraft groups, each composed of a big carrier and six cruisers.

According to the Ingalls announcement a scout cruiser contacted the Lexington group without being seen, thus permitting the seventy planes of the Saratoga to be launched against the Lexington without the knowledge of the latter's crew. The Saratoga bombing planes dived in mock attack, theoretically destroying "the Lexington and an entire squadron of fighting planes and all the carrier's heavy bombing planes."

"For scouting purposes, the navy must have additional smaller ships carrying planes," said Mr. Ingalls. "The large carriers that we now have, the Lexington and Saratoga, each affords us one of the greatest striking forces known in modern warfare, but, on the other hand, when opposed to a like enemy—as one another—they are vulnerable.

"We cannot have all our eggs in one basket. We must be able to spread our aerial navy about, so that an enemy by one lucky chance cannot effect a disastrous blow."

Estate of W. F. Juergens, Jeweler, Set at $51,000

William F. Juergens Sr., wholesale jeweler, who shot himself to death on Feb. 6 at the Belden-Stratford hotel, left an estate valued at $51,000, it was revealed yesterday when his will was filed with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. After making a bequest of $5,000 to the Grant hospital, the will divides the remainder of the estate among his widow and three children, Louise, H. Paul, and William J. Juergens Jr. Until a reorganization of the concern three months ago, Mr. Juergens had been president of Juergens & Andersen, one of the oldest wholesale jewelry houses in the middle west.

Mary C. Wiley, 71, Native Chicagoan, Taken by Death

Mrs. Mary C. Wiley, 71 years old, a native Chicagoan, died yesterday at her home, 4815 Monroe street. She belonged to a number of clubs and for many years had been chief ranger of Court No. 181 of the Catholic Order of Foresters. Surviving are two sons, Dr. Charles R. Wiley and Attorney Joseph Frank Wiley; two daughters, Mrs. Dennis C. McGloon and Mrs. Anna Moran; three grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren.

File Charles Purcell Will; Estate Set at $700,000

The will of Charles A. Purcell of River Forest, who died on March 21, was filed yesterday with Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner. The estate is valued at $700,000, of which $50,000 is left to the Chicago Nursery and Half Orphan asylum. The remainder is left in trust for his son, William G. Purcell. Mr. Purcell was a retired grain merchant and former member of the Board of Trade.

PRESS WIRELESS SAYS SEA RADIO IS HANDICAPPED

Petition Seeks Change in Channels.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.] — Development of transoceanic radio communication in the United States is virtually at a standstill because of a "strained and unjustified" interpretation of a court order by lawyers of the federal radio commission, Joseph Pierson, president of the Press Wireless, Inc., and former cable editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, charged in a petition filed today with the commission. Mr. Pierson asserted that "foreign nations are permitted to appropriate radio facilities at will at the expense of American companies."

Asking an informal hearing on pending applications of Press Wireless for an exchange of certain international channels, Pierson alleges that his company is seriously handicapped because of the existing conditions, and that, in fact, American transoceanic communications are imperiled by the arbitrary stand of the commission's legal division. Allocation of these transoceanic channels to American interests, he charges, has been "frozen" as compared to their "energetic exploitation abroad."

Awarded Forty Channels.

Press Wireless, which THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE was instrumental in establishing, was awarded 20 transoceanic and 20 domestic short wave channels with which to create a globe encircling news gathering and distributing agency for the benefit of the entire American press.

Difficulties have been encountered in the use of certain of the transoceanic facilities, and Pierson proposed to the commission that about one-half of them be exchanged for other wave lengths which would make possible continuous 24 hour service of the type necessary to meet the needs of the press interests.

The commission, however, has ignored these applications on the ground that the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia prevents it from changing existing allocations in a stay order, issued in the general continental short wave litigation. Both the commission's engineering and legal divisions have held that no action can be taken, but Mr. Pierson contends that they are "relying on an erroneous interpretation" of the court's order, as well as on an "excessively rigid construction of what the engineering division of the commission claims to be the moral obligations of the United States under certain resolutions adopted at the first meeting of the international technical consulting committee, held at The Hague in the fall of 1929."

Sees Development Retarded.

"In brief," Mr. Pierson said in a letter accompanying the petition for a hearing, "we contend that the development of the new active companies of the United States is being held down to the speed of the bankruptcies now clogging the radio telegraph program of the country and foreign companies are allowed to possess themselves of the frequencies which are the subject of prolonged debate here."

Pneumonia Fatal to Dr. Ralph W. Parker

Dr. Ralph W. Parker, dentist, whose home is at 5343 Cornell avenue, died last night at Wesley Memorial hospital. Pneumonia was the cause of death.

Dr. Parker was a graduate of Northwestern university, class of 1899, and a member of the Chicago Athletic association, South Shore Country club, and the Beach View club.

He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Pearl Tilden Parker, his mother, and three brothers, Dr. Fred W. Parker, E. R. Parker, both of Chicago, and Gerald Parker of Kansas City.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Doctor, Treating Patient, Dies of a Heart Attack

While bandaging the injured foot of a patient yesterday, Dr. John Weilander, 59 years old, collapsed of a heart attack in his office at 1737 South Wabash avenue. The patient, John Eckles, 2614 South Michigan avenue, carried him to a chair and summoned Dr. George Dante, a dentist of the building, who pronounced him dead. Dr. Weilander, a bachelor, lived in quarters adjoining his office.

Boy, 8, Killed by Fall Off Third Floor Porch

William Steitz, 8 years old, was fatally injured yesterday when he tumbled from the third floor rear porch of his home at 1704 Maypole avenue. The boy was found unconscious on the sidewalk by Louis Swanson, 1708 Maypole avenue. Swanson took William to a hospital, but the boy died on the way. The young victim's twin brother, Frank Jr., was downtown with his parents at the time.

J. SCHNERING DEAD; VETERAN OF CIVIL WAR

Julius Schnering, retired Chicago jeweler and civil war drummer boy, died yesterday after a brief illness at his home, 930 Michigan avenue, Evanston. He was 79 years old.

Born in Eberfeltd, Germany, he was brought to the United States in infancy by his parents and, when the war was on, drummed Company C of the 131st Pennsylvania regiment to battle. At the age of 13 years, he was mustered out and came to Chicago, thereafter forming a partnership with Otto Young in the wholesale jewelry firm of Otto Young & Co., which continued 35 years.

Surviving are the widow, Helen Curtiss Schnering; a daughter, Mrs. Stanton Hood Speer; a son, Otto Young Schnering, president of the Curtiss Candy company; a sister, Julia Vivian Curtiss, and four grandchildren. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Monday at the residence.

SEEK TO VACATE JUDGE'S ORDER TYING UP TAXES

A motion to vacate the court order issued on Thursday, which temporarily ties up the collection of taxes for 1929, will be made this morning before Superior Judge Marcus Kavanagh. This was announced yesterday after a conference of attorneys representing the various taxing officials.

The basis for the motion will be made on the point that restraining orders may be issued only by a judge hearing chancery cases, whereas Judge Kavanagh, who made the order, is sitting in the common law division. Judge Kavanagh had ordered County Clerk Sweitzer and County Treasurer McDonough to stop work on the 1929 taxes pending his decision on mandamus proceedings to compel the board of review to reopen their hearings on complaints against the 1929 assessments.

Attorney Hayden Bell, representing Sweitzer, and Attorney Thomas D. Nash, for McDonough, said that if the order is not set aside they will advise that the work be resumed on the tax collection.

Policeman Ends His Life With Bullet in Temple

William D. Hart, 31 years old, a policeman attached to the Canalport station, early this morning shot and killed himself in his home, 2053 West 66th street. With his wife, May, he had been a guest at a party at the home of Sergt. Simon Holmes, Lafayette avenue and 83d street. When the couple returned home Mrs. Hart retired, leaving her husband preparing himself a lunch. A few minutes later she heard a pistol shot and rushed out to find Hart sitting in a chair, pistol in hand, and dying, with a bullet wound in his right temple. The policeman was reinstated about a week ago after having been suspended for some time for being absent without leave.

GASOLINE ALLEY—THE VERY IDEA

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town, meets Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter, Judith, born of a cafe singer, while he was a soldier. His wife, John says, had magnanimously adopted the child. Hilary suspects such magnanimity. John's sister Gertrude became Judith's legal guardian when his wife died.

Hilary had taken her war-invalided brother Hugh away from home ten years ago, to give her younger sister Christine and brother Stephen a better chance. Now that Hugh was dead Hilary was returning home. Her stepfather is the only sympathetic member of her family.

Shortly after their return, John and Hilary become engaged.

Judith leads a lonely life in her aunt's home. Her cousin Prue is her only friend. She has a private teacher, Miss Mead, while her cousins are away at school. Her father she knows as Uncle John. She senses she is different in some way from other children. When Aunt Gertrude hears of her brother's engagement she sends Judith to the country. John is uneasy about Judith not being in school. He thinks it unfair to drag Hilary emotionally into the question of the child and Hilary feels that he has had enough disappointment in caring for Judith. John writes Gertrude for the truth. She replies that she cannot, as a decent citizen, send a waif of dubious parentage among other children.

Judith, at the farm of her former nurse Tracy's brother, is badly treated by the old servant. She meets Clive Harpenden, the little master of the home where she delivers cream for Tracy. Judy, receiving no mail, writes secretly to Prue.

Prue meets Hilary for tea and tries to enlist her for Judith. Hilary's vow not to interfere makes her rebuff Prue. They run into Tim de Morreville, whom Hilary and John met on the boat home. Tim drives home and makes an engagement to drive her next day to visit Judith.

Falconer receives an unexpected visit from his sister, when he is busy preparing to leave town on a business trip. Her attitude infuriates him and he sends her out abruptly.

INSTALLMENT XXX.

A MODERN CINDERELLA.

Falconer was filled with self-contempt for his own weakness in ever having permitted the situation, Sylvia and her magnanimity notwithstanding. For the first time he saw his love for her as something ignoble which had enslaved him, and admitted to his own heart the ignominious misery of those last years with her.

"All my own damn fault," he thought. "She couldn't help it, poor child."

He was determined to be done with evasions and cheap subterfuges once and for all. Directly this job was settled and he returned to London, something must be done to remove Judith from Gertrude's hands and send her to school. He would talk the matter over with Hilary, she was so sane.

When at nine o'clock Hilary met him for dinner, he said:

"This is heaven after hell . . . . You don't know what it means to have even an hour or two together. There's something about you, Hilary, that makes all the world seem right to me."

"Thank you, darling, what a pity the sentiment is not universal."

"Nothing of the kind. I insist on being a monopolist."

She laughed.

"Well, if it is any consolation to you, I am afraid you are in this instance.

"This is heaven after hell."

Nobody else seems to regard me as a ray of sunshine. By the way, Prudence met me for tea this afternoon as arranged."

"Little horror!" exclaimed John. "I shall have apoplexy if we begin talking about that family. Let us be selfish tonight and talk about ourselves."

"Talk away then. What of this expedition, is it going to keep you long?"

It was useless, she saw, to add to his worries by telling him of Judy's letter now, since he could do nothing in the matter until he returned to town.

Hilary, as he talked of the work ahead and the possibility of getting it over in a few days, thought how young he looked at rare moments, like a tired boy. She wanted to take him home and look after him and make him play a little, and then wondered with dismay if this were a symptom of the hated managing instinct of her sex. The thought of Greenwood at least brought magic before her eyes, and by and by when silence fell, she reminded him that the decorators were to begin work there on the morrow.

"That is the devil of it," he said regretfully. "I ought to be at hand."

"Am I so useless that I can't cope with the creatures?" she asked with pretended indignation. "If it will ease your mind I will go out every day and dog their footsteps, and then come home and send you a detailed report. You shall know to the last inch how much paint your house has put on its cheeks and how every rooms looks in its new frock."

Their eyes met happily across the dinner table, the world forgotten.

"I have an idea for a summerhouse beyond the tennis court where that dreadful pagoda was we told Rogers to sell," said John, sketching busily on the back of the menu card.

"Lovely! I was rather worried by the gap the ex-pagoda made," said Hilary. "I know a gorgeous greenish shade for the bathroom curtains . . . . makes your bath water look like the sea . . . and a deep green squashy bathmat to match."

"You are sure that white-walled guest room we thought of leaving won't look too cold?"

"Not with a plain rose carpet and eiderdown and the sun coming in, as it does there. It is going to be one of the jolliest rooms, you'll see. Italian color prints in Florentine frames, that Della Robbia blue, you know, a glimpse of sky between old spires, or a little stretch of Mediterranean coast, and perhaps an Andrea del Sarto Madonna. She looks so wise."

Room by room their home grew until it was time for John's train.

Fifty miles off Judith lay tossing restlessly from side to side, saying over anxiously all the French verbs she could remember. The night was still and very hot, so hot she could not bear the curtains drawn across her open window; but now the bright twilight filling the room drove sleep away and she could see everything, the dressing-table with its frilled petticoat, the three-cornered washstand, which always shook when you touched it as if it were afraid, the floor was so uneven there, the hanging cupboard with its purple cover, and even the two sad green dogs upon the mantelpiece.

Of the five bedrooms which had seen Judy dreaming or lying wakeful in her thirteen years, this was the most distressful. She tried to shut her eyes but they seemed propped open, and if she buried them in the pillow the heat was more than she could bear. The fabric gloves on her swollen hands were sticky where the cream had melted, and she said the fourth conjugation over very quickly lest her resolution should fail and she should have to tear them off.

Every night now Judy did lessons in her head, for a new thought had come to trouble her. She would be forgetting everything she had ever learned, and when her father came home and took her to school she would know nothing and disgrace him. This was terrible, it could not be contemplated, but the trouble was that, without any books to prompt her, how was she to be sure she was remembering properly? If only Miss Mead had slipped just one book into her trunk!

Even if she had a stamp and could ask Miss Mead to send her books, Tracy might take them from the postman and hide them away. Every morning now Judy contrived to be downstairs when the postman might appear, but she had not again nearly seen a letter for her in his hands.

For a little while, as she went through one distasteful task after another, she had made up a game of her own, trying to put everything she saw into French. This game led to others which were quite a comfort. Washing at the kitchen sink, a disgusting business, because Tracy was not a good housekeeper, had been less dreadful because Judy was busy spelling every word she could think of beginning with S. When Tracy said anything more than usually unpleasant to her, she parsed it hastily and then it became merely an unreal sentence out of a grammar book.

Nevertheless, it was terrible to discover how many quite easy things you could forget. One of the six wives of Henry VIII., for instance, had completely vanished, and was giving poor Judy no end of trouble. She could close her eyes and see just where the book stood on the schoolroom shelves; she could see the very page, but it was no good; the unfortunate victim of the royal Bluebeard would not come back. Judy was afraid she would be forced to ask Clive at last, but she had not yet brought herself to do that, and besides, there were so many other things to think of when Clive was there.

Every morning now instead of going slowly through the wood, she ran as fast as her legs could carry her, the jar of cream clasped firmly to her chest. In this way she saved nearly fifteen minutes, and she knew almost to a second how long she could stay out without arousing Tracy's anger. Not that her anger mattered but suppose she grew suspicious and came to look? Always as she and Clive stalked big game or fled from revolutionaries, Judy's eyes watched instinctively the slope of bracken for the brown flutter of Tracy's skirts.

Good morning!

When a movie causes you ardently to champion the cause of its heroine; be enthusiastic about the hero; get cactus-y with dislike for the villain; laugh joyously over the didoes of the comedian, and, in general, have a good time, why I hold it's quite a movie.

All of the above comes true as you witness "Honor Among Lovers." The story of a lady, a gentleman, and a cad unrolls in fascinatingly sophisticated fashion, and your interest is held as long as the picture lasts.

A glance at the names heading the column will assure you that the film could not have been more happily cast. While the narrative proper is no great shakes as to originality, acting, direction, staging, and line delivery have made "Honor Among Lovers" a honey of an entertainer.

See you tomorrow!

CHEVALIER CHAPLIN, LEGION OF HONOR, ENJOYS PARIS MORE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 27.—Charlie Chaplin, screen comedian, stood before Philippe Berthelot, secretary general of the ministry of foreign affairs, this afternoon at a ceremony at the Quai d'Orsay and heard Berthelot say:

"In the name of the president of the republic, I name you chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

Gripping Chaplin's shoulders, Secretary Berthelot then bent down and kissed him on both cheeks. The comedian stammered his acknowledgment. The only persons present were Bec de Forquieres and Guy Croswell Smith, Paris representative of the United Artists.

The decoration recalls another occasion when he received a less important decoration from the ministry of education. After that Cecile Sorel, France's most famous actress, called on the minister of education and demanded how he dared give so great an artist anything less than the Legion of Honor. Chaplin, however, with tears in his eyes, had accepted the previous decoration.

Following today's ceremony, Charlie visited the tomb of his favorite hero—Napoleon.

Amidst this week's visit of royalty, including King Albert of Belgium, Queen Marie of Rumania, and King Gustave of Sweden, the movie star has kept a firm grip on the front pages.

Letter, 100 Years Old, Sent to Skeezix by the Air Mail

One hundred years and two days after it was first sent through the United States mails, an old letter was remailed this week from Portland, Ore., to Frank King, creator of the Gasoline Alley comic strip, for the collection recently started by Skeezix. Robert Reusswig, its owner, points out that the postmark antedates the use of stamps in this country by about twelve years, and that the paper itself makes the envelope. Its first mailing was by way of stage or horseback, but its second, a century later, was by air mail.

This relic is only one of a number of curious postmarks and stamps received by Skeezix from his friends in many parts of the world. In the collection, which will be mounted and placed on exhibition later, are postmarks from Sao Paulo, Brazil; Berlin, Germany; Bern, Switzerland; Dharamtala, Calcutta, India; Alexandria, Egypt; Aruba, Dutch West Indies; Buenos Aires, Argentina; Chaparmukh, India; Hua Hin, China; Gauhati, India; Bergen-Nesttun, Norway; Uddevalla, Sweden; Australia, Cuba, Honolulu, Central America, and other points.

Ruth McCormick, 51, Spends Part of Day in El Paso, Texas

El Paso, Tex., March 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, former congresswoman from Illinois, good-humoredly commented when she arrived here today from Albuquerque, N. M., that "if newspaper reporters had their way" she and Albert Simms of Albuquerque, former New Mexico congressman, already would be launched on the sea of matrimony.

"It's screamingly funny," said Mrs. McCormick. "Both myself and Mr. Simms are getting a great kick out of it.

"Due to the fact that I might be considered the only congressional widow and Mr. Simms the only congressional widower I daresay reporters thought the eligibility of such a match about perfect."

Mrs. McCormick came here to spend a part of her birthday in El Paso on her way to Mexico. She was 51 today.

"Getting to the 50 mark was a horrible nightmare," she declared, "but leaving it is not half so bad."

Accompanied by her 14 year old son, John Medill McCormick, she planned to spend a week in Mexico and three days in San Antonio before returning to Colorado Springs for the Easter holidays.

Over the breakfast table she talked of braving the maelstrom of Illinois politics at the next primary election.

"But not as a candidate," she told a reporter. "I shall go into the next campaign as a worker."

She hopes to see her son an archeologist. She plans to spend a part of a six months' vacation on an archeological expedition into New Mexico.

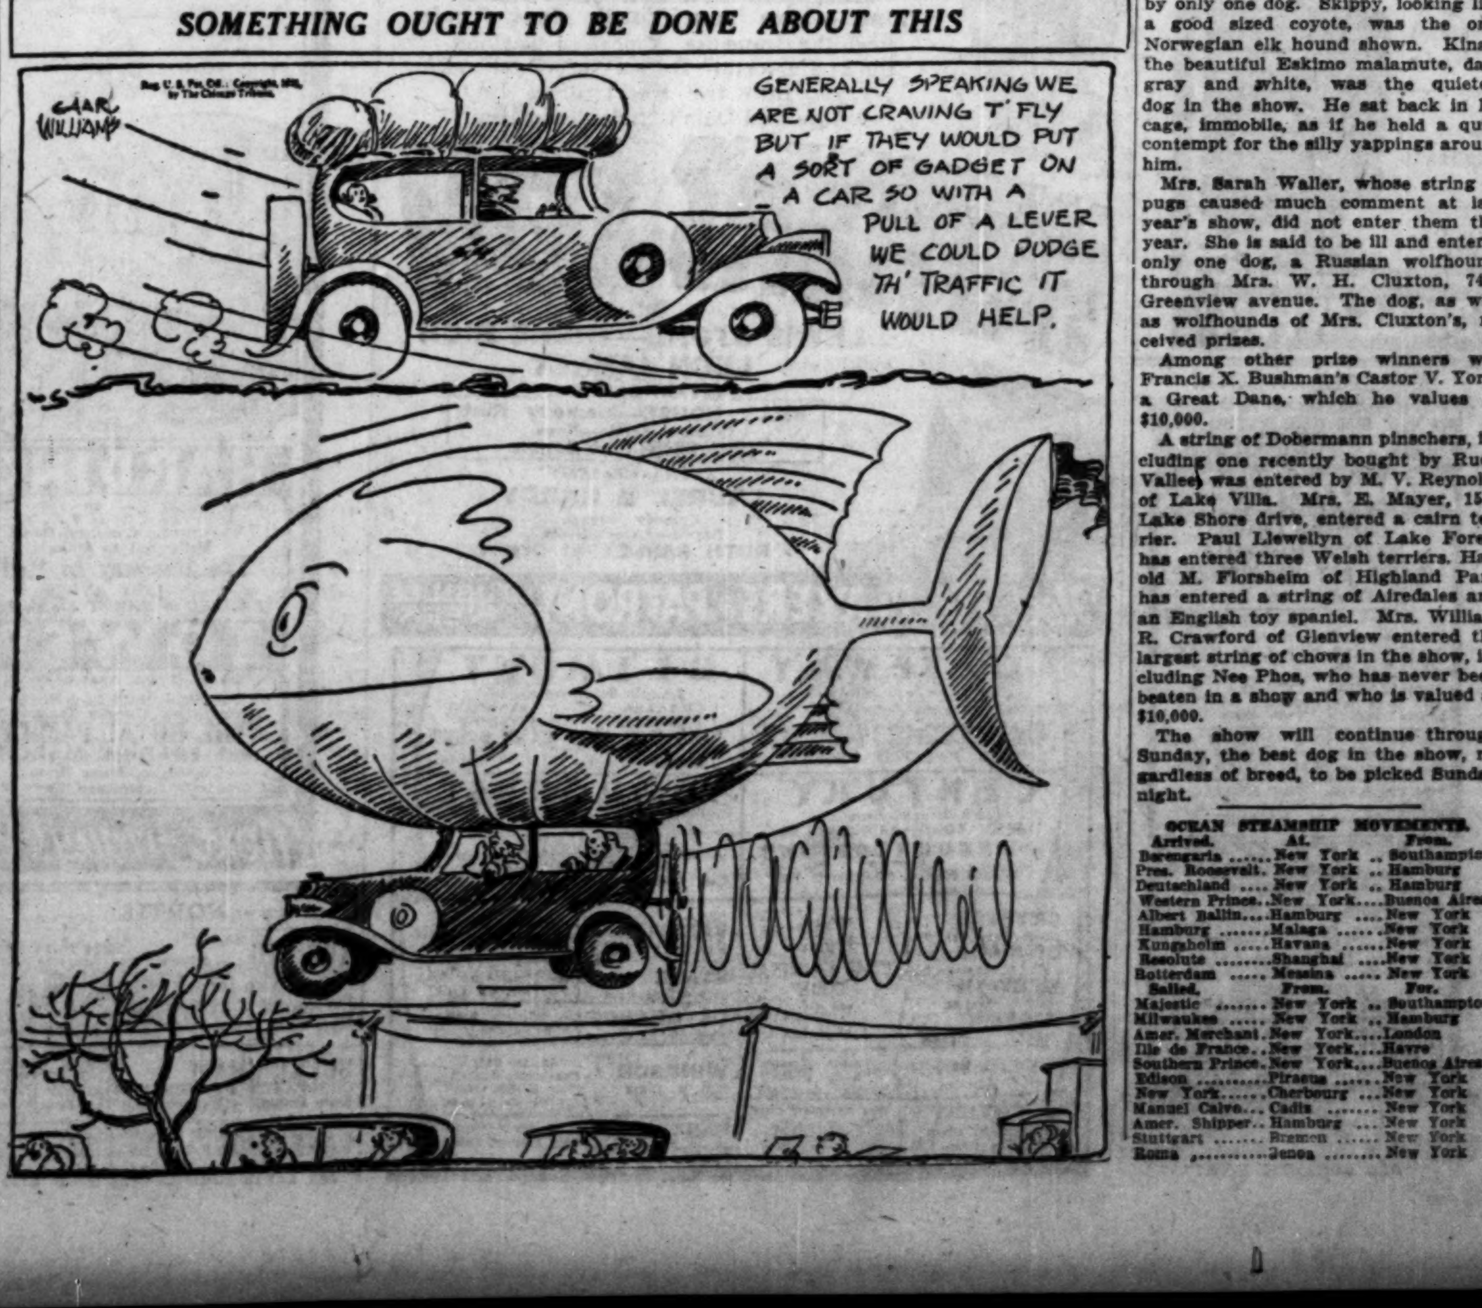
SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THIS



Manlier Dogs Have Their Day as Show Opens

Toy Varieties Proving Less Popular.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Judging from the thirtieth annual dog show of the Chicago Kennel club, which opened yesterday at the 131st infantry armory, the sight of a tiny lap dog running ahead of a doting master or mistress will be more rare in Chicago during the next year. Lap dogs are going out of fashion and sturdy masculine dogs have become the vogue.

More wire haired fox terriers were entered in the show this year than dogs of any other breed. The fox terrier is indisputably the dog of fashion. More than 75 were entered. Dobermann pinschers also appeared to be coming into favor. More than 45 of them were entered, the largest number of Dobermann pinschers shown in years, it was said.

As one proud owner of a wire haired fox terrier said:

"Men never did like tiny lap dogs. And the very fact that most of us live in apartments makes the men long even more for the wide open spaces, and good he-man dogs. I've known couples who almost got a divorce because they couldn't agree on the sort of dog they wanted to own. But women, a great many of them, have decided to let men have the say, for once."

Cocker spaniels are becoming popular, the number entered indicated. They are sleepy looking little animals, with long silky ears, but owners were heard boasting about their prowess as hunters. When their masters hunt birds near a lake the spaniels swim after the game, returning with it.

Irish setters are increasingly fashionable likewise, and praise for their hunting abilities was heard on all sides, despite their meek appearance and their melting, tragic eyes.

One lone poodle dog, its eyes hidden behind fuzzy white hair, was witness to the decline of that once popular lap dog. Its name is Betty, and it came from Saskatoon, Sask., for the show. A few German shepherds, a few years ago the most numerous dogs in the shows, barked as if in criticism of the fashionable world which in the last three years has turned to other breeds.

Of the 52 breeds shown, ranging from the tiny black and tans weighing not more than two pounds, to the gentle St. Bernards weighing 200 and over, several breeds were represented by only one dog. Skippy, looking like a good sized coyote, was the only Norwegian elk hound shown. Kinak, the beautiful Eskimo malamute, dark gray and white, was the quietest dog in the show. He sat back in his cage, immobile, as if he held a quiet contempt for the silly yappings around him.

Mrs. Sarah Waller, whose string of pugs caused much comment at last year's show, did not enter them this year. She is said to be ill and entered only one dog, a Russian wolfhound, through Mrs. W. H. Cluxton, 7464 Greenview avenue. The dog, as well as wolfhounds of Mrs. Cluxton's, received prizes.

Among other prize winners was Francis X. Bushman's Castor V. York, a Great Dane, which he values at $10,000.

A string of Dobermann pinschers, including one recently bought by Rudy Vallee, was entered by M. V. Reynolds of Lake Villa. Mrs. E. Mayer, 1540 Lake Shore drive, entered a cairn terrier. Paul Llewellyn of Lake Forest has entered three Welsh terriers. Harold M. Florsheim of Highland Park has entered a string of Airedales and an English toy spaniel. Mrs. William R. Crawford of Glenview entered the largest string of chows in the show, including Nee Phoa, who has never been beaten in a show and who is valued at $10,000.

The show will continue through Sunday, the best dog in the show, regardless of breed, to be picked Sunday night.

SOCIETY GIRLS HELP CAVALRY, ARTILLERY AT CAPITAL CIRCUS

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—The kind of circus the mounted services put on with the help of hard riding debutantes today entertained Washington society and officialdom.

Cabinet members, ambassadors and highest army officials were box holders at four performances of the Fort Myer society circus, a charity benefit.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover had reserved a box for the afternoon show, but a trip to Asheville, later than she had originally planned, prevented her appearance.

That left Vice President Curtis the ranking guest. Tomorrow he will occupy a box in the dual rôle of patron and proud grandfather. His daughter's children, Curtis and Ann George, are among the young equestrian performers.

With them galloped Jacqueline Goodhue, grandniece of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge; Countess Sylvia Szechenyi, daughter of the Hungarian ambassador; Suzanne Boone, whose father is White House physician; Peggy Schall, who has a senator for a father, and Ellen Gudger, granddaughter of Senator Walsh of Montana.

In the circus troopers carrying lances galloped down the riding hall; society girls, riding like a cavalry platoon of 16, jumped fences; troopers rode Cossack fashion standing in crossed stirrups, and Greco-Roman fashion, one man riding two or three horses; clowns burlesqued everything.

The most spectacular event was the illuminated gray horse battery, horses, guns and caissons outlined, in a darkened hall, by 50 small electric lights.

Strawn Lauds Japan; Raps Trade Policy of Russians' Soviets

Commendation of Japan as a world power and condemnation of Russia for its five year plan were expressed yesterday by Silas H. Strawn. He spoke before the Japan-American society at the Palmer house. The gathering was a farewell luncheon for Atsushi Kimura, for three years Japanese consul in Chicago, now being transferred to the Philippines. He will be succeeded here by Yoshio Muto, now consul in London.

"The development of Japan and the progress of the Japanese during the last three-quarters of a century have astonished the world," Mr. Strawn said. "This is attributable to their tireless energy, their unfaltering determination to become one of the world's great nations. The Japanese achieved this despite handicaps that seemed almost insuperable. They had the handicap of isolation—5,000 miles of trackless sea separated them from the western world. This they have overcome by a persistent campaign of education and the adoption of western ways more satisfactorily than any other oriental nation.

"The percentage of illiteracy in Japan is less than that of any other oriental country and will compare favorably with that of any country in the world. As you know, 98 per cent of Japanese people can read and write.

"Perhaps the most uncertain element in the existing world depression is the policy of the Russian soviets. As you know, they are engaged in what they call a five year industrialization plan. The economic policy of the soviets being diametrically opposed to that of all the other nations, the soviets as a government have no national credit.

"Therefore they are compelled to meet the expense of their industrialization by forcing upon the world markets, as and when their necessities require, large amounts of agricultural products, raw materials, and self-manufactured goods which they are willing to sell at the best price obtainable.

"This disorganizes the commerce of the world, and I dare say is keenly felt by Japan by reason of her contiguity to Russia."

BEG YOUR PARDON

Walter Stuhr, Andover academy student and a son of Dr. Walter A. Stuhr, 2244 Lincoln Park West, was not shot in a mock rifle duel with another student of his school, as stated in THE TRIBUNE last Thursday. At the hospital where he is recovering from his wound he said he and two pals went shooting with a rifle in the Andover woods last week and one of them fired a shot which hit a rock and ricocheted into his thigh. Young Stuhr says it was an accident and it is therefore unfair to call it a mock duel. The academy authorities too realize that it was merely an accident and it is a closed incident so far as they are concerned. The story was originally carried by the Associated Press.

Gaston Alciatore, owner of the Louisiane restaurant, states that L'Aiglon restaurant is operated by persons formerly employed by him and not by a member of his family, as stated in a recent food section.

Pick World's Fair Building for Conventions

Business Men Agree with Park Board.

Assurance that Chicago's need for a large convention and exhibition hall shortly will be fulfilled, without the expenditure of public funds, was given by the south park commissioners at their meeting yesterday.

The commissioners acted favorably on the proposal of the Chicago Association of Commerce that the huge Travel and Transport building now under construction on the lake front for the World's Fair be converted into a convention hall at the close of the 1933 Century of Progress exposition.

The board instructed its superintendent and attorney to draw up a tentative contract with the Association of Commerce, including the principal features outlined by Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the association, in his presentation of the proposal to the board yesterday.

Col. Randolph suggested that the association, through a committee of business men, take over the building for convention purposes for a period of fifteen years. According to his program the building would remain the property of the park board, the renting and operation of the structure to be supervised by a special group.

The expense of preparing the building for permanent use would be borne by the association, whose experts estimate that this expense would approximate $262,500. Although neither the commissioners nor the commerce group expect any profits to accrue from rental, it was suggested that such profits be turned over to the park board.

The quarter of a million dollars necessary to carry out the project will be raised by solicitation among business firms, Col. Randolph said, explaining that they would profit indirectly through the patronage of thousands of persons who will stimulate business for hotels, stores, restaurants, theaters, and local transportation systems during big conventions.

"The Travel and Transport building is just such an exhibition hall as Chicago needs to house big commercial shows," said Col. Randolph. "The total square footage offered by the giant dome, the main floor, and the mezzanine level combined is 343,500 square feet, making it the largest exhibition structure in the country."

The structure represents a radical departure in architecture. Its lines are modernistic, with angular structural supports built on the outside, giving an unobstructed sweep to the high dome and to the ceiling of the remaining structure. The main section is rectangular, with severe lines. It is 1,000 feet long and 150 feet wide."

Lent Day by Day

OUT FROM GETHSEMANE.

Dr. Albert Buckner Coe,
Pastor First Congregational church, Oak Park.

[From noonday Lenten sermon, Chicago temple.]

When Christ prayed in the garden of Gethsemane he came closer to most of us than at any time in his ministry. Overcome by disappointment and loneliness, he cried, "My soul is sorrowful even unto death."

Many are using those words today. Some are disappointed, some are fighting an inner conflict, some have lost friends or loved ones, some are burdened with a sense of mediocrity.

How may we overcome spiritual depression? Here are three suggestions:

First, tell your plight to some one. Whether we believe in the confessional or not, we should tell some trusted friend. There is a therapeutic value in getting our worries out into the open.

Second, by use of the will to turn the mind to something else. There are tasks all about us crying to be done—problem children to be made normal, problem parents who need to be brought to themselves. The universe is full of power waiting for somebody to release it. Find somebody or some group that needs your help. Concentrate your life there.

Third, throw yourself on God, Jesus did. On the cross he said, "Into thy hands I commend my spirit." Let the business man before every transaction, the lawyer before every trial, the surgeon before every operation; let each of us every day say those words.

Society Woman Fosters Book on Morocco

BY THALIA ——.

If you go in for first editions you'd better put "Behind Moroccan Walls" on your spring book buying list. It is a collection of short stories adapted and translated by Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris from the French books of Henriette Celarie, and it probably will be a best seller, because it sounds tremendously interesting.

The book is illustrated with drawings made by Boris Artzybasheff, a young Russian artist whom Mrs. Morris requested to go to Morocco for the purpose of depicting Moroccan life. The Chicago Woman's club is to have an exhibition of the drawings, with an opening tea on Tuesday next, and they will be on display until April 4.

Mrs. Morris became interested in the phases of life in Morocco about which Mme. Celarie, who lived there for many years, had written, and devoted much time to first hand study of the subject. She found her research so intensely interesting that she thought others might also like to learn about the customs of "our Mussulman sisters," as she calls them. The book is to be published in May.

Antiquarians Open Guelph Treasure Show Tuesday.

The Antiquarians will not have the customary tea to open the Guelph treasure exhibit at the Art institute on Tuesday, but will "receive" and dispense refreshments from one of their beautifully decorated tables on the afternoon of April 10 instead. The president, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, will not be here for the opening, as she is leaving on Sunday night with Mr. McCormick and their two sons for a visit in New York with Mr. McCormick's sister, Mrs. F. Louis Slade. The four pieces of Guelph treasure purchased by the McCormicks will be loaned to the institute to be displayed with the fifteenth century cross purchased for the institute by the Antiquarian society.

One of the screamingly funny stunts that added to the gayety of the Walter S. Brewsters' costume party last night was a tumbling act by Peggy Hamblin, Dorothy Schmidt, Mrs. Graham Aldis, Walter Frazier, Edward Platt, and Arthur Meeker, with the performers garbed in the sort of tights worn by acrobatic troupes.

Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed Sails Today on Mauretania.

Bits in brief . . . Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed is sailing from England today on the Mauretania, and as Mrs. John G. Shedd, her mother, and her sister, Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, are at Virginia Hot Springs, having arrived there from Belleair, Fla., it is to be presumed that they will meet her in New York City, and come to Chicago together. . . . Miss Katharine Kales, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Davis Kales, is to arrive in Chicago on Tuesday, having spent the winter with her aunt, Mrs. J. Dorr Bradley in southern France and Paris. . . . Mrs. Fletcher Durbin and Mrs. Townsend McKeever are among those who will have dinner parties on Tuesday evening before the opening of "The Sacred Flame" at the Goodman, the final production of the current season. . . . Miss Betty Warren is to give a supper and backgammon party for Miss Betty Knode, who is home from Wellesley at the 900 restaurant tomorrow evening—there will be 2 dozen guests. . . . The Lighthouse Volunteer Aids are to hold their annual luncheon and meeting on Monday, April 6 at the Drake hotel . . . the Kenwood Social Service club is to hold a luncheon and fashion show at the residence of Mrs. Lyle Harper of 5116 Blackstone avenue on April 7.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Pirie II. of Hubbard Woods are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter on Tuesday at the Evanston hospital. Mrs. Pirie was Miss Alice Bannard Quarles before her marriage.

These Suggestions May Improve the Amateur Shampoo

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I want to give you, who do your own hair shampooing, a tip that I think especially good in connection with the shampoo.

Before washing the hair, take an ordinary comb and go over the scalp, scratching free any dandruff that you find. Don't scratch or scrape hard with the comb. The idea is to get the dandruff loose so that it will come off in the course of shampooing. Many women haven't the energy to scour the scalp strongly with the finger tips during the shampoo. The combing will help do the needed work for them, although if they can add the scouring of the scalp with the finger tips, so much the better.

Then, after the combing and before the shampoo, use the hair brush for not less than five minutes by the clock. Here's your chance to get at the scalp with the brush, which you were discouraged, perhaps, at other moments. Brush like everything! You won't damage your scalp with the most vigorous brushing. That stirring up the circulation is going to be of lasting benefit and, of course, for the shampoo proper it is going to insure a cleaner job.

In one of the most expert hair treatment places I have ever known, this is the procedure. There you pay more than one odd dollar for just this treatment and goodness knows you can do it yourself, almost as well.

After this preliminary work—then your shampoo. You know, of course, the advantage of making a liquid of your soap or shampoo flakes for better shampoo results, or perhaps you use a liquid product which is good, too. But be generous with the liquid application and scour your head for all you are worth. Then turn your head over the bath tub and let warm water flow copiously from a bath spray, or if you haven't a spray, turn pitcher after pitcher or saucepan after saucepan, or dipper after dipper over the sudsy locks, until every vestige of suds is gone.

Then, if you can possibly stand it, let some cold—anyway coldish—water run over the scape for a moment. Your shampoo is a success only when you feel life in the scalp—tingling, invigorating life.

South Shore Club "Follies" to Be Repeated

BY MILDRED JAKLON.

The annual Follies, given last night in the South Shore Country club ballroom, and to be repeated this evening, is as colorful, sprightly, and zestful as ever. The recent establishment of tap dancing classes at the club resulted in more than the usual quota of stepping numbers in this year's revue. Besides there are spectacular ensembles, skits, and clever solo numbers.

Performers in previous Follies who take part include Fred Herendeen, Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Bates Jr., who were, respectively, general chairman of the committee and chairman of the women's committee, Ruth Norwood, Henry Paulman Jr., and Jay Trude Kern.

Other stars included Lois Holsman, who soloed in the opening number, "The Human Clock" and "I Got Rhythm;" Wallie Hayne, Wally Walholm, Charles Thomas, Jean Dodge, Beatrice Byford, who sang a beguiling "torch song" in an elaborate Cafe Rouge number, wherein were featured Parasol girls in ruffled pink organdy; Tiller girls and Tappers; Marie Hisgen, who sang and danced; Willard Orr and Paul Jones, who was Hot Dog Jones in the grand finale, a rousing wild west spectacle.

The audience laughed most at the "Twitville Choral Society," in which Willard Orr as choir master, Jean Dodge as the organist, and a large chorus garbed in gay nineties costumes burlesqued a choral society meeting; at "The Trial of Mary Google," and at Hot Dog Jones and his adventures with Mexican Mike (Fred Herendeen). "Star of Night," with Charles Thomas singing the song and Harriet Henneberry revealed as the lady in the moon when the curtain went up was effective, as were also "The Sweethearts of All Ages" and "Jungle Drums."

Insull Purchases 600 Baldridge Drawings of Recent African Trip

A collection of 600 drawings and water colors by Cyrus Le Roy Baldridge, an artist, formerly of Chicago, depicting life in Africa, has been purchased by Samuel Insull. This was learned yesterday. The collection will be presented by Mrs. Insull to Fisk university, Nashville, Tenn., a school for Negroes.

The sketches illustrated a book by Mr. Baldridge and his wife, Caroline Singer, who toured Africa, he drawing and painting, she doing the writing for "White Africans and Black." Mr. Insull said he regarded the sketches as especially fine, having caught amazingly the spirit of African life.

Mr. Baldridge, who now lives in New York, was graduated from the University of Chicago several years ago. He was a corporal of the First Illinois cavalry, going to the Mexican border in 1916, where he drew cartoons for the First Illinois cavalryman. He later was with the French army, and made drawings and water colors for Leslie's Weekly, which hailed him as "the best portrayer of soldier types since Frederick Remington."

With the establishment of the Stars and Stripes, official newspaper of the A. E. F., Baldridge became the cartoonist of that paper. His work in France resulted in a book of drawings and water colors portraying the Yanks, French, British, the men of Senegal, the Algerians. He later went to China and a book of drawings followed that trip. Before going to Africa, he wrote to a Chicago friend about the proposed journey, saying that might result in a book. It did.

Stock Orchestra Plays Bits of New 'Wozzeck'

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Following closely on the heels of Leopold Stokowski, who conducted "Wozzeck" in Philadelphia the other night, Dr. Stock gave a concert performance of three "fragments" from that much discussed opera at the Chicago Symphony orchestra concert yesterday afternoon. Coming, as they did, from the first, second, and third acts, they added a little something to the limited acquaintance with it made by a few moments of radio broadcast from the Philadelphia performance.

The music has something, at least enough to cause considerable discussion and doubtful wagging of wise heads. Alban Berg, its composer, is a pupil of Arnold Schoenberg, and one of the first things one notices is that he steps out with certainty along the trail where even Schoenberg went tentatively. There is no question that he believes in what he is doing. There is sincerity in every note he writes, though you may at times wish that he had become a little more politely uncandid. But that is not his way.

But here for once it atonality serving to set out some rather striking music. Singing has been almost abolished, even to the singing of the orchestral instruments that took the part of the voices in Dr. Stock's version. In fact human voices become orchestral instruments to Berg, only a part of the orchestration, but carried out logically to all their tones in range and out of it, and including speaking, moaning and crying.

At that, every once in a while it breaks out into sustained melody of an interesting, if somewhat demonic kind. You can hardly call it beautiful. But then, if you look at the story of "Wozzeck," you will find considerable trouble in writing much pretty music for it.

Jascha Heifetz, the violinist, was the soloist in the Beethoven Concerto, and a fine performance he made of it. Outlines were clear, tone was lovely and limpid, and there was unusual insight and imagination in the presentation as a whole. Heifetz is an extraordinary artist, a magnificent performer, person of infinite painstaking who yet manages to keep his own personality almost wholly aloof from what he is playing. In that respect he is the great soloistic paradox.

If Dr. Stock puzzled his audience with "Wozzeck," he more than made up for it with other numbers on his program. Handel's Second Concerto for string orchestra was an entrancing set of oldtime melody. Scriabin's Symphony, "The Divine Poem," was a blaze of color and emotion, and coming immediately after the "Wozzeck" excerpts, it sounded about as easy to understand as a few arias from "Il Trovatore."

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, March 27.—[Special.]—Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt and the marquess and marchioness of Milford Haven, who have been visiting Mrs. Vanderbilt at her apartment in the Sherry-Netherland, sailed for Europe on the Majestic.

Mrs. Dorothy L. Norris left today for Washington, D. C. There she will visit Mr. and Mrs. Francis S. Whitten for a few days.

Miss Peggy Gould, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Gould, will sail early in June with Miss Parthenia Burke Ross to spend the summer in Europe.

Mrs. Charles Henry Coster and her daughter, Countess Otto Salm-Hoogstraeten, who has been visiting her since January, sailed for Europe today on the Ile de France.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S DRESS.

The details of this smart frock are designed to give the mature figure slim lines, for instance, the cross over bodice with its cross over vestee, and the vertical side front closing are most helpful features to conceal breadth. The skirt is slightly circular and is joined to the bodice, while the removable belt may be placed at the point most becoming to the wearer.

The pattern, 3026, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Bright Sayings of the Children

In a school where mid-year promotions are the rule a class was enrolled in a new room. Evidently there was some speculation concerning what liberties might be enjoyed.

Richard, determined to settle one important point, raised his hand and asked, "Is your nose as good as Miss White's?"

Somewhat puzzled, the teacher replied, "I'm sure I don't know. What sort of a nose has Miss White?"

Richard's answer came back, "She can smell peanuts." L. S.

There's a Right and Wrong Way to Receive a Child's Confidence

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

How do you act when your little boy tells you something that startles you?

How do you take it when your little girl tells you something that shocks you?

What do you do with your face and voice and manner, when you feel disapproving or unhappy or astonished or horrified at some revelation your son or daughter may make? Do you let your face and voice reflect your reaction to the confidences?

If you do, you'll almost surely shut them off. Expressing whatever you feel in the face of things the children tell you has the effect of a short circuit. Communication is almost sure to be cut off.

Events, the actions of other children, and their own acts haven't the same color to us that they have to our children. Children rarely feel the moral or conventional reactions we do. You know how it is with your own confidences. So it is with the children's. You want them to be able to tell you everything freely—to be sure of your understanding, above all else. It is their help and protection as well as yours when they are able to reveal to you those things that concern themselves and the children and grownups with whom they come in contact.

How, then, can you make it easy for them? How can you keep the line of communication open? By being everydayish, calm, even casual but attentive, of course, no matter what you hear. O, naturally, I'm not talking about the pleasant, the jolly, the happily surprising things. Those you're spontaneous about at the moment, of course. It is the others—the startling things, the confessions of childish misbehavior, the talk of adults, of children and events, the intimate thoughts, the glimpses into feelings beautiful or rare, into wonderings that seems of another earth—that we need to receive with an easy, friendly attention.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Rode Home in Silence.

My most embarrassing moment occurred one evening when I was leaving a party and my mother had promised to send my brother for me and we were to escort some girls home. When we were ready and anxiously waiting for the big brothers who should come along but my father and in our 9 year old car. Naturally I was full of excuses which only made matters worse.

The girls were very nice and we rode home in silence. But never again, for the car was junked the next day. B. C.

Religious Art by Chicagoans Show Feature

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Renaissance society of the University of Chicago has undertaken to restore a sense of the religious to Chicago by bringing out the pictorial and the musical qualities of great religions. Starting last Tuesday it is sponsoring a "Festival of Religious Art" to continue to April 20. The concerts are in various places, but the paintings and sculpture have been gathered together in a room on the fourth floor of 333 North Michigan boulevard and make a truly impressive showing.

Back of the idea for this exhibit is the sincere hope that the churches and religious organizations of Chicago will turn to Chicago artists for the decorations of their churches and not continue the far more customary practice of sending to Europe for copies of the old masters whenever a painting, carving, mosaic, or window is needed. Chicago has artists of all denominations and races, and the present exhibit shows that when their minds are put upon this subject they, too, can evolve creditable, beautiful, and inspiring work.

The exhibit is unique in its many ramifications. There are drawings here by little school children and paintings by well established artists such as J. Wellington Reynolds, Gerald Frank, and Frederic M. Grant. There are architects' designs and wood carvings by Tud Kemp and Enrico Glicenstein. There are etchings and block prints and many lovely figures in metal, of which perhaps the most lovely is the chased pewter "Madonna and Child," by Russell Daniels.

Frederic Clay Bartlett covers the most of one wall with his modernist conception of the crucifixion, a cross between a Roman drama, an ocean wave, and an Egyptian secret. To carry weight a more desperate use of the tragic motif would be in order in the background and a keener expression of tragedy on the faces of the women. Some of the contributions which yield a more immediate harvest are "Sketch for Fresco," by Hazel Hannell; the "Good Shepherd," by Enrico Glicenstein; "The Virgin," by Constantine Pougialis; "Adoration," by Margaret Gardner; "Madonna," by Edith Jane Bacon; "Daniel in the Den of Lions," by Eugenie Glamens; the "Pieta," by J. Wellington Reynolds, and "Flight," by Frederic M. Grant.

The exhibit continues to April 15.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 27.—[Special.]—The British ambassador and Lady Lindsay gave a luncheon today in the embassy. Lady Lindsay has recently returned after months of illness in a sanitarium on Long island. Among their guests today were the Irish minister, Michael MacWhite; the South African minister, Eric Louw; the chargé d'affaires of Canada and Mrs. Hume Wrong; Col. and Mrs. Louis Little, Frederick E. Brooke, and Mr. and Mrs. Forsyth, guests at the embassy.

Waistcoats Are Worn with Spring Suits

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Prophecies of a big suit season are confirmed by the first spring and summer showings. It looks as though suits would be worn again from morn till midnight. But the new suits are brim full of variety, likely as not to have a skirt of one color and fabric, a jacket of another, a blouse of a third, and a waistcoat of a fourth.

The waistcoat is getting more and more important with the return of tailored fashions. Short sleeved waistcoats worn with or without blouses lend chic to the new costumes shown by O'Rossen, Lyolène, and Philippe et Gaston.

The Lelong ensemble sketched today is a good example of the new type of tailored suit. It has a skirt of dark blue and white mixed flannel, which is one of the most interesting fabrics revealed so far. It's box plaited all 'round with the plaits stitched far down, giving it a low flare. The simple cutaway jacket is of plain blue flannel, shaped much like a college boy's blazer, but without buttons.

The long sleeved white crêpe blouse is softly draped and tied on the left shoulder in a small bow replacing a buttonhole bouquet.

The sleeveless, double breasted, bloused gilet worn inside the skirt is unusual. It's of aquamarine blue, suède surfaced twill. The tailored belt is of blue and white flannel like the skirt.

Food Talk.

Miss M. J. writes that she is never able to plan her work so that her foods finish cooking at the same time. Her vegetables too often get done and as a result are not so good. Then too she has so many things to do right at the last that she finds herself completely overwhelmed with work that the experienced cook never seems to have. "What can you do to help me make this business of cooking a meal less nerve racking?"

To get a meal with ease the inexperienced cook must make definite plans. Of course, the experienced cook plans but not so obviously. We assume that this young woman has some knowledge of the different methods of cooking but that she does not have a definite idea of the time required to cook the different foods. Some foods must be cooked a long time before they are good to eat. Others require only a short cooking. It stands to reason that the former ones must be put to cook first. Foods that require two hours of cooking should be started two hours before the meal is served. Vegetables that require only 15 minutes need to go on the fire 15 minutes before the meal. And so on through the whole list of foods appearing on the menu.

Foods that are served cold may be prepared a few hours ahead and be out of the way. One must consider, however, the effect of standing on the quality of the particular food. It is quite all right for a gelatin mixture to stand in the refrigerator for several hours, but not so good for a pie. Pie is usually eaten cold but after it stands two or three hours it begins to lose some of its original attractiveness. Mince pie is one exception. Almost all vegetables may be prepared at least an hour before the cooking of the meal actually begins. Salad dressing can be made days in advance. Vegetables can be cleaned, crisped and chilled a few hours before they are used to make salads. And the table, too, can be set before the busiest time of the meal approaches. If the foregoing suggestions are considered and the following time table of cooking is studied, we believe that many of Miss M. J.'s troubles will clear away.

With meats—Roast beef takes 18 to 23 minutes to the pound; roast mutton, 18 to 23 minutes; roast veal, 20 to 22 minutes; roast lamb, 20 to 25 minutes; roast pork, 25 to 30 minutes; broiled steak, two inches thick, 20 minutes well done; sautéed pork chops, 20 to 25 minutes; pork chops for spaghetti, 1 to 1½ hours; broiled lamb chops, 10 to 15 minutes; roast young chicken, 1½ hours, and fried chicken, ½ hour.

In cooking vegetables—boiled potatoes require 20 to 25 minutes; mashed potatoes, 20 to 25 minutes; baked potatoes, 45 to 60 minutes; escalloped potatoes, 1 hour; baked sweet potatos, 30 minutes; cabbage, 8 to 12 minues; spinach, 6 to 8 minutes; cauliflower, 7 to 12 mintes; carrots, 15 to 20 minutes, and asparagus, 15 to 20 minutes.

When baking bread and pastry, fruit pies need 1 hour [approximately]; other pies, ½ hour [about]; layer cake, 30 to 35 minutes; loaf cake, 1 to 1½ hours; steamed puddings, 1 to 1½ hours; biscuit, 10 to 15 minutes, and muffins, 20 to 25 minutes.

Take Husband's Ex-Flame Lightly, with Good Nature

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Mrs. I. H. tells that an old flame of her husband's is giving her no end of mental worry. From the tale, one judges that the old flame has done no more, to date, than precipitate herself in the social group of which Mrs. I. H. and her husband art part.

"But she's just waiting her chance," hints the worrying frau. "I know her kind. They don't care whether a man is married or not," etc., etc.

Now, why do wives insist upon giving substance to these fair shadows that crossed a husband's path in his pre-marriage days? Some wives not only endow said shadows with substance, but they give them a good shove into the arms of their mates by their jealously, their petty insinuations, if not their open accusations.

If there is one good way not to have to cope with a former sweetheart of one's legal husband, that way is to ignore her as an important interest in the man's past. If not to ignore her—then to treat her good naturedly and lightly.

It's pretty proprietary to reach back into a man's life before you've become an active part of it and try to make him feel your authority there. What if he had a sweetheart? What if she was a knockout? The more compliment to you women who win out on the marriage contract. What if he still has a soft spot in his heart for the girl? It's only human to cherish memories of a past friendship. And if, after the man is married, the girl happens to cross his social path, why expect him to be unfriendly to her?

What wives should never, never do is to create a "hard boiled vamp" out of a girl who once mattered in a husband's life. If you do, the vengeance is on your head and you take the consequences. The injustice of it might just prompt a girl to act the appointed rôle, or it might drive the mate on to such a form of defending her that old emotions might be stirred up again.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

LOUGHRAN DEALS GRIFFITH BEATING IN 10 ROUNDS

LEFT JABS TO DECISION; CROWD CHEERS LOSER

Supporting Bouts Outshine Windup.

Tommy Loughran, a boxer, defeated Tuffy Griffith, a fighter, in ten rounds last night at the Chicago Stadium. It was another chapter of an old story.

A boxer seldom is popular, and last night's crowd of 12,000 applauded Griffith when he left the ring. That was the young Chicago heavyweight's only solace, except perhaps the knowledge that he would be a better fighter in a street brawl than Loughran.

Loughran kept an impenetrable left hand barrier between his face and his charging opponent. Few of his punches carries a sting, but his jabbing tormented Tuffy. At least it was irritating, for Griffith twice showed a sincere desire to disregard the bell which concluded the rounds.

Griffith Bores In.

Loughran was quicker of eye and possessed an advantage in reach. But that did not prevent Griffith from boring in. This offense, the only one he had, with Loughran commanding other advantages, got him into trouble in the ninth and tenth rounds when the Philadelphian did a bit of fighting himself. Uppercuts halted Tuffy's advance abruptly as Loughran, with the true instinct of a showman, concluded a rather uninteresting performance with a flash of speed.

Tommy isn't as spry—at least he wasn't last night—as he once was, although the comeback of the former light heavyweight champion has progressed most satisfactorily so far in the heavyweight ranks. In the fifth and sixth rounds, Griffith's high tide of attack, Loughran's left hand defense failed to function perfectly. He caught three looping rights in the fifth which bounced from his chin and thumped against his chest with loud reports.

Sixth Griffith's Best Round.

And in the sixth, Griffith's best round, Loughran was penned in a neutral corner, held by a rain of wildly flung blows. But once more Loughran withstood the assault, although the swelling veins of his temples indicated stress and repeated glances at the round clock gave impression he wanted rest immediately.

Loughran went through the seventh in reverse, again giving a false impression he might succumb to Tuffy's persistence. Then the boos of the crowd may have supplied an incentive. More likely he decided he should step up the pace, else be held to a draw or even lose the verdict. Loughran came back to clearly outpoint the west side boy and insure victory.

The cheers for Griffith at the end of the bout probably were no criticism of the judges and referee. If anything, they were a blanket indictment of a boxer opposing a fighter. Even if the highly paid stars—they received 45 per cent of the receipts—did not please all, the preliminary matches provided thrills sufficient for one professional show.

Ross and Dazzo Lose.

Two former Golden Gloves boys lost in the preliminaries, but in losing they had the crowd on its feet. Barney Ross was whipped in eight rounds by Roger Barnard of Detroit, but both fought themselves almost completely out. Barnard pounded Barney's ribs and stomach with a terrific attack which it seemed no boxer could stand. But Barney rallied at the end of the seventh round, when the match might have been stopped and awarded to the Detroit lightweight, and returned for the last three minutes with a fury which carried the round.

Paul Dazzo, known to Golden Gloves as Paul Leberto, also met a better opponent. Hymie Wiseman, a Des Moines, Ia., featherweight, with a wallop in each first, won a six round decision. Wiseman, like Loughran, fought best in retreat and in countering blows. But Dazzo carried the battle to him notwithstanding a knockdown for a count of five seconds in the second round.

Halako Wins by K. O.

Paul Cavalier lost to Larry Johnson, Chicago colored heavyweight, in the eight round bout, the finale of the night. In the first round Larry might have knocked out Cavalier had he been more aggressive, but Cavalier, who had not fought for four months, swung into better form.

Frank Cawley won the opening bout in six rounds from Joe Doktor. It was a slugging match.

Steve Halisko knocked out Carmen Gek in less than a minute of the first round of their fight. Cook went down and out from an almost invisible punch to the stomach.

The official attendance was 13,134. The receipts were $36,155.37.

BAYLOR BEATS N. U. NINE, 7-3, IN FIRST GAME

Waco, Tex., March 27.—[Special.]—The Northwestern university baseball team opened its training schedule this afternoon by taking a 7 to 3 licking from Baylor. Another game is on the card for tomorrow and then the team journeys to Austin for a two game series Monday and Tuesday with University of Texas.

La Barba Gets Decision Over Kid Francis

New York, March 27.—(AP)—Fidel La Barba, who seems certain to rule the featherweights eventually as he has the flyweights in days gone by, manhandled Kid Francis, a bundle of punching dynamite from Italy, just enough to win the decision in a ten round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

La Barba had to box his best, think his fastest, and give up entirely the body socking style he has made a specialty in order to turn Francis back. For ten rounds he kept his left popping in the Italian's face, ripped a few punches home as they came to clinches, and then held the Kid in grips of steel.

The crowd booed him for holding, but Referee Patsy Haley and two judges voted him the decision unanimously.

Francis, who decisively whipped Eddie Shea here a few weeks ago and holds a decision over La Barba gained in Paris, never stopped trying to get at Fidel's mid section. He bobbed within arm's length, set himself and ripped savagely at La Barba's body. But for all except the opening rounds Fidel popped his face with lefts as the charging Kid halted to get a toe hold, stepped in quickly with a rataplan of punches to the head and body, and then tied the struggling Francis into a helpless tangle of arms and fists in constant clinches.

The crowd of 7,800 booed La Barba's tactics and hooted the decision. But the dark skinned Californian stuck to his line of battle. Once the half way mark was reached Francis lost his fire at close quarters and missed more punches than he landed in the liter hours. La Barba cut loose in the last three rounds, punched Francis all over the premises, and made sure of the verdict.

Campolo Sails for U. S. to Resume Title Campaign

BUENOS AIRES, March 27.—(AP)—Victorio Campolo, Argentina's heavyweight hope, sailed for New York today on the liner Southern Cross to resume his campaign for the heavyweight title. Campolo said he had several matches in sight, but nothing definite as yet and was uncertain whether he would fight first in New York or in Chicago.

New Forces Enter Takatu Story in the Third Chapter

Two interesting jungle "actors" will be introduced to TRIBUNE readers tomorrow when the third installment of the Brazilian adventure story, "To the Land of the Takatu," appears in the sport section of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE. This pair of characters who add considerable spice to the experiences of Red Harper, Skibo Jackson, and Dana Standish, three Boy Scouts who are the principal characters in the story, are the South American jaguar and the fearless little porco or wild peccary.

Both of these animals, which are eagerly sought by Brazilian hunters, enter the story in tomorrow's installment in a dramatic fashion, giving the three Scouts a taste of what is ahead of them before they leave the jungles for home.

"To the Land of the Takatu," the Brazilian story of exploration and hunting written by Bob Becker of THE TRIBUNE'S sport department, is based on Mr. Becker's actual experiences in northeastern Brazil. The scene of the story, the Mountains of the Moon, was visited by the author when, armed with guns and traps, he was searching the savannah country and the foothills of the mountains for rare specimens of birds and animals which were to be brought back to an American museum.

It is an isolated wilderness area of northeastern Brazil where the museum collector finds jaguars, jabiru storks five feet tall, howler monkeys, wild pigs, tapir and other queer jungle creatures.

One of the interesting things in connection with the appearance of this adventure story in THE TRIBUNE is the fact that a large expedition equipped with airplanes will soon begin an assault on that great stretch of wilderness just north of the Takatu country which is described in the serial. This scientific expedition with its pontoon fitted planes will fly up the rivers as far as it is safe and then continue overland to the hunting grounds.

The third installment of the Takatu land serial, which appears tomorrow, lands the three Boy Scouts and Grant Dalley, their leader, into the beyond country and marks the beginning of the thrilling adventures which this quartet encountered with Indians, strange wild animals, and unexplored jungle ruins.

CHICAGO BOXERS GET READY FOR NEW YORK TEAM

Sparring and Road Work Keep Them Busy.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Once more Chicago's Golden Gloves scrappers have begun to tune up for the intercity test. Had the Metropolitan A. A. U. not staged a mock heroic defense of its self-established rights, this morning's Chicago squad of boxers would have rolled into Grand Central station on edge to defend the intercity Golden Gloves title in Madison Square Garden.

But no tears have been shed at the Illinois Athletic club by Chicago's boxers, for, thanks to the quibbling of the Metropolitan A. A. U., the Chicago boys will fight Thursday night before home folks whose anxiety to watch them sold out the Chicago Stadium in six hours, the world's greatest ticket sale. Moreover, next Friday morning the Chicago squad of 24 will depart over the New York Central for New York and points east. So there's no moaning these days at the I. A. C. gymnasium.

New Yorkers Like It.

For that matter the New York squad also is the gainer, that is if the boys care for a 2,000 mile trip and a glimpse of Chicago. Consequently only the people in New York have a legitimate grouch and that may be appeased somewhat by a glimpse of Johnny Risko [at popular prices] Monday night. This does not include, of course, the Metropolitan A. A. U. officials themselves, who now have no place to go with their newly pressed evening clothes, and none to pay attention if they did.

Fifty thousand Chicagoans want to see New York's amateur champions. Perhaps 100,000 is a nearer guess if the clamor for tickets is a criterion. So the easterners are assured a welcome when they reach the west Monday.

Yesterday afternoon Chicago's team stepped into action with the aim of reaching the peak of condition Tuesday. While the boxing was limited to two rounds for each man, there was an assignment of gymnasium work, followed by the customary rubdowns and sunlight baths. The rest period terminated Thursday has put all the boys in shape, although several now are overweight. This excess is easily worked off, for when the squad broke training no one was more than two pounds over.

Kranz Has Narrow Escape.

Jack Kranz, the champion light heavyweight, narrowly escaped an injury yesterday which might have kept him from the tournament. He was butted over the eye during boxing. Fortunately, the skin was not broken, although an ugly bump popped up immediately. Constant application of ice reduced the swelling in a few hours, and when the squad was examined last night by a physician the report was that Jack would soon be back in shape.

With written acceptances from the referees and judges now received, supplementary verbal agreements of the other night over long distance telephone; with the timers, announcers, and clerks selected, the mammoth intercity tournament could be staged tomorrow. Practically all details have been completed and in their consummation THE TRIBUNE A. A. has been generously assisted by the Central association of the A. A. U. Although the 23,000 who will watch the bouts little realize the work these men do to conduct a successful meet, that has not deterred them from cooperating to the fullest extent, as they have assisted on all occasions for the last three years.

Tomorrow the chef at the Illinois Athletic club is preparing a Sabbath surprise for the squad. Just what the menu is we don't know, but we do know a great amount of scribbling was necessary to line up the delicacies for both the noon and evening meals.

Italian Wins $946,360 in Aintree Pool

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 27.—An Italian keeper of a little Battersea confectionery store, who first followed his fortunes in London in the tracks of his ice cream barrow, joined 40 of his relatives today in the possession of riches which were poured out in the lucky number of $5,900,000 in the Irish hospitals sweepstakes on the grand national steeplechase.

"It is me for sunny Italy," Emilio Scala declared as soon as he heard that Grakle had won by a length and a half at the Aintree track, Liverpool. He sold half of his interest in the ticket, which was worth $1,772,720, for $60,000, so his total winnings were $946,360.

An American held the ticket on the Gregalach horse which finished second in the four mile course. He is Clayton Woods of Buffalo, N. Y. The London ticket speculators had been bombarding him by cable since the draw was made last Tuesday in an effort to buy a share in his chance, but apparently without success. His money is $886,360.

The third prize of $590,905 goes to George Dyamond of Claremont, South Africa. He was peddling a half interest in his little green slip of paper, but the speculators turned down his fancy prices on Annandale, which was a hundred to one shot, and the retired policeman's prize is all his own show. The American horse, Rhyticere, owned by Victor Emanuel, came in fourth.

Emilio Scala bundled up his many cousins-in-law and went to Aintree to see Grakle beat Easter Hero, the favorite, which is owned by the American millionaire, Jock Whitney.

Besides the big money in the three first prizes, there will be 40 purses of $6,405 for the rest of the starters, but nobody will draw his money until April 7 when the official results of the race will appear in the next issue of the Racing Calendar.

Another Irish sweepstake on the Derby, run at Epsom Downs in June, already is doing business.

WINNER LOSES JOB

Buffalo, N. Y., March 27.—(AP)—Clayton C. Woods didn't have to resign from his factory job when he won $886,360 in the Irish sweepstakes today—he was fired as soon as he drew the ticket on Gregalach, which placed second in the Grand National.

"Nobody in the plant was jealous, they're all fine fellows," Woods explained. "But you know how it is when news like that gets around. Every time I went into the factory, everybody stopped work to talk about my chances. Finally the boss said: 'Will you get out of her and stay out, so we can start work?'"

Woods was an inspector of car bodies in the Chevrolet Motors plant here before he paid $2.50 for the ticket that made him almost a millionaire.

He was offered $50,000 for the ticket early this week. He and the other four members of his family who held shares in the ticket talked it over and decided to take a chance.

"But I want to tell you," he said today, "that if the offer had been renewed as late as Wednesday night I think I would have taken it."

"Maybe I'm a bit superstitious, but ever since I bought that ticket I've had a premonition that something was goin gto happen. We talked it over and decided that the most we could actually lose was the fifty cents we each paid for the ticket, so we hung on.

"I didn't plan very much on the race. If the horse had dropped dead I wouldn't have been very disappointed, because I had convinced myself all I had to lose was 50 cents."

The strain of the last few days, since the public learned that Woods held the ticket on Gregalach, has been terrific, Woods said. "My wife is almost on the point of collapse. It's been just a mad rush."

Pierre Charles Rallies to Win Over Simms

Cleveland, O., March 27.—(AP)—Saved by the bell after having been down for the count of six in the first round, Pierre Charles, Belgian heavyweight, rallied to defeat Frankie Simms of Cleveland in a ten round bout tonight.

WOLVERINE SWIM SQUAD LEADS IN COLLEGE TOURNEY

Michigan Qualifies 8 Men and 2 Relay Teams.

Michigan assumed a commanding lead over the field in the preliminaries of the national collegiate swimming meet at the Lake Shore Athletic club last night by qualifying eight men and two relay teams. Minnesota followed in second place with six men and one relay team. Finals in all events will be held tonight.

Thirteen out of the sixteen teams qualified men as follows: Princeton, five men and two relays; Northwestern, three men and one relay; Southern California, three men; Rutgers, two men and two relays; Georgia Tech, two men; Iowa, two men; Stanford, two men; Chicago, Purdue, Washburn, and Washington, one man each.

Austin Clapp of Stanford set the pace among the qualifiers by turning in the best time in both the 220 and 440 yard swims. He was the only man to win two events. His time of 2:16.6 for the 220 equaled the national collegiate record held by Al Schwartz of Northwestern.

Crabbe Finishes Second.

Buster Crabbe of Southern California, who holds the National A. A. U. records for the 220 and 440, was content to finish second to Clapp in both these events. The clash between these two Pacific coast youths in the finals of both distance events tonight should be among the best races of the evening.

Mickey Riley of Southern California, holder of the national A. A. U. fancy diving championship, lived up to advance notices by leading the six qualifiers with a total of 125.68. The Trojan ace was easily the class of the divers, and is a favorite to win his specialty tonight. Ken Willard of Northwestern finished second with a point total of 89.94.

The 400 yard relay should be a free for all battle tonight with Rutgers, Princeton, and Michigan all having a chance to win first honors. George Kojac, Rutgers iron man performer, will swim anchor man for the eastern aggregation. He swam his 100 yard leg of the relay last night in the fast time of :53.2. Northwestern was the fourth team to qualify in this event.

Chicago Swimmer Qualifies.

Jack Schmieler, sensational Michigan sophomore, stood out head and shoulders above the field in the 200 yard breast stroke. He led the qualifiers in 2:35.6. His world record, which he set in the Big Ten meet two weeks ago, is 2:31.4.

Chicago's lone entry, Cornelius Oker, finished first among the qualifiers in the 50 yard dash with a time of :24.8. He was nosed out of a finalist position in the 100 yard dash by inches.

FANCY DIVING—Riley [Southern California], 125.68; Willard [Northwestern], 89.94; Nappa [Minnesota], 89.92; Ralba [Michigan], 86.78; Riedell [Minnesota], 78.66; Fenske [Michigan], 76.58.

400 YARD RELAY—Rutgers [Cramer, Sunderland, Dryfuss, Kojac]; Princeton [Turner, Dayton, Schere, Lee]; Michigan [Smith, Klintworth, Kennedy, Ladd]; Northwestern [Debenhaus, Troup, Covode, Wilson]. Best time by Rutgers, 3:39.6. Established new national collegiate record.

200 YARD BREAST STROKE—Schmieler [Michigan]; West [Princeton]; Miller [Michigan]; Kruger [Minnesota]; Evans [Iowa]. Best time: Schmieler, 2:35.6.

150 YARD BACK STROKE—Valentine [Muldrow] [Minnesota]; Rosen [Northwestern]; Long [Princeton]; Lee [Washburn].

50 YARD DASH—Oker [Chicago]; Carter [Purdue]; Turner [Princeton]; Williams [Georgia Tech]; Schaver [Princeton]. Best time by Oker, :24.8.

440 YARD SWIM—Clapp [Stanford]; Crabbe [Southern California]; Kennedy [Michigan]; McCulley [Iowa]; Farrell [Minnesota]; Lang [Minnesota]. Best time by Clapp, 5:03.2.

100 YARD FREE STYLE—Kojac [Rutgers]; Schmieler [Michigan]; Dayton [Princeton]; Williams [Georgia Tech]; Sunderland [Rutgers]. Best time by Kojac, :53.6.

220 YARD FREE STYLE—Clapp [Stanford]; Crabbe [Southern California]; Ladd [Michigan]; Wilson [Northwestern]; Frank [Washington]. Best time by Clapp, 2:16.6. Equals national collegiate held by Schwartz, Northwestern.

300 YARD MEDLEY RELAY—Rutgers [Kojac, Kronjie, Cramer]; Michigan [Schmieler, Miller, Kennedy]; Minnesota [Marsh, Kruger, Quail]; Princeton [Dayton, Lang, West]. Best time by Rutgers, 3:10.2.

DIES

E. S. BARNARD.

Baseball Men Praise Career of Barnard

BY FRENCH LANE.

Chicago baseball men, shocked last night by news of the sudden death of E. S. Barnard, president of the American league, were bewildered when asked who might be the next league president.

"I haven't given it a thought, and I don't believe anybody else in baseball has," K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball said. "I haven't the least idea who might succeed Mr. Barnard."

Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, said he wouldn't even surmise who might be the next president of the American league.

At the death of Mr. Barnard, Frank Navin of Detroit, vice president of the league, became the acting head of it. A new president will be elected when Mr. Navin calls the American league club owners into a special session, which may be held in Cleveland following the Barnard funeral rites there next Tuesday, or it may be held in Chicago the following day.

No Plans for Successor.

William Harridge, secretary of the American league, before departing early last night for Rochester, Minn., to accompany the body back to Cleveland, said that no plans had been made to choose a successor to Mr. Barnard. "It may be some time before a new president is elected," he said.

Henry Edwards, head of the American league public relations department, grieving at the loss of his lifelong friend, declared that he didn't believe there was a club owner in the circuit who had the least idea who might succeed Barnard.

"Mr. Barnard's connection with professional baseball extended over nearly a quarter of a century, and probably nobody had a broader acquaintance in all departments of the game than he," Baseball Commissioner Landis said last night.

His Word Was Good.

"As an official of the Cleveland club for many years it was his business to carry on dealings with other clubs throughout the country, and such was his character and conduct that by common consent, 'You didn't have to have it on paper with Barney.' His word was good.

"He was a fine combination of integrity, intelligence, and industry, and his death entails not only a very great loss to the American league, but to baseball and to athletic activities everywhere," Commissioner Landis concluded.

"Barnard was one of baseball's most constructive workers and I have lost a friend," John A. Heydler, president of the National league, wired to the American league office in Chicago.

Stricken While Conversing.

At Rochester, physicians immediately diagnosed Mr. Barnard's illness as heart disease. They ordered him to bed, and it was in his hotel room that death came at 4:50 p. m. He had been examined an hour and a half earlier. Mrs. Barnard was at his side.

William Harridge, secretary of the league, left last night for Rochester, where he is expected to take charge of funeral arrangements. Mr. Barnard owned a lot in Lake View cemetery in Cleveland, his former home, and it was believed he will be buried there.

In addition to his widow, he is survived by his mother, who lives in West Virginia.

Mr. Barnard became president of the American league on Nov. 1, 1927, succeeding Byron Bancroft Johnson, who now is seriously ill at St. Louis.

American league clubowners, notified last night of Mr. Barnard's death, expressed their grief and shock and offered sympathy to the surviving members of his family.

Early Training for Job.

Although as a young man he probably never dreamed of becoming president of the American league, Ernest Sargent Barnard received a training that peculiarly fitted him for that office. He had been actively associated with athletics in one way or another since his prep school days, but most of the time his interest was centered in baseball.

Consequently when he was elected president in 1927, he assumed his duties with confidence backed up by actual experience in every department of baseball management. In fact, there was little about the national game with which he was not personally acquainted, except perhaps as professional player and umpire.

Former Baseball Writer.

Serving as a baseball writer and sports editor created in Mr. Barnard a desire to get in closer touch with professional baseball and when an opportunity presented itself he organized a league club. Next he was elected president of the Western association and there followed nearly 25 years' service with the Cleveland club as secretary, business manager and president.

When Byron Bancroft Johnson virtually forced his own resignation as president of the American league by his conflict with Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, the names of several men were mentioned as possibilities for the place. It was not surprising, however, that the club owners turned to Mr. Barnard and elected him unanimously as the successor of President Johnson. Barnard had been the leading candidate from the time Johnson's resignation became imminent.

Attended Otterbein College.

Mr. Barnard was born July 17, 1874, at West Columbia, W. Va., but his parents moved to Ohio before he entered his teens. In 1888 the future president of the American league entered Otterbein academy at Westerville, O., and seven years later was graduated from Otterbein college. He married Miss Josephine Flick of Cleveland in December, 1918.

Football claimed the attention of Mr. Barnard while he was at Otterbein academy and college and for a few years after. He played half back with the academy team and during his undergraduate days at the college became a football coach although only 16 years of age. He continued to coach the team for three years after his graduation, signing in 1898 as mentor of the gridiron team of Ohio Medical university, now incorporated in Ohio State university.

Devotes Time to Baseball.

About the same time he became sports editor of the Columbus, O., Dispatch. While in that position he launched into professional baseball as an associate of Robert Quinn, later president of the Boston Red Sox, in the organization of the Columbus

Purple Wins Mile Relay in Texas Meet

Austin, Tex, March 27.—(AP)—Middle western track and field stars won almost all honors in the annual relays here today. They also established two meet records.

A strong, cold north wind cut down the time in many track events, but helped Peyton Glass of Oklahoma A. & M. twice tie the recognized world's record of 9 5-10 seconds in the 100 yard dash. The record breakers were Hugh Rhea of Nebraska in the shot put and John Russell, high jumper. Russell was the only entrant of Bradley Polytechnic institute of Peoria, Ill. Rhea heaved the shot 51 feet 2⅛ inches. The old record was 48 feet 7¼ inches, set last year by Jim Bausch of Kansas. Russell cleared 6 feet 4⅝ inches in the high jump. The old record was 6 feet 4⅛ inches.

The most thrilling relay race was the medley which was won by Marquette by a few inches. Glenn Dawson, Oklahoma's great miler, and J. Walter, Marquette's anchor man, were almost abreast as they sprinted the last 220 yards.

The Marquette team consistted of Tierney, Sweeney, P. Walter, and J. Walter. The time was 10:50.4. This team set a world's record at Hamilton, Ont., last week.

Kansas, Iowa State, Northwestern, and Pittsburg, Kas., Teachers divided the top positions in the other relay races. Kansas was first in the 440 yard relay and the Iowa State quartet won the four mile relay. Northwestern finished first in the mile relay in a close battle with Rice. Pittsburg Teachers won the two mile relay.

Members of the Northwestern team were Heyne, Culver, Burgess and McAuliffe.

About the only upset of the day was the defeat of Tom Warne, Northwestern star in the pole vault. Warne holds the relay record of 13 feet 8½ inches. Today Lansrud of Drake had vault only 13 feet to beat him.

Babe Keller Outpoints Sammy Levine at Cicero

SMITTY—STORM WARNINGS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: In the earlier '80s when the Cullens had the saloon at Halsted and Indiana street, a well known character called "Mickey the Whistler" made his hangout there. At midnight Mickey would walk out on the Erie street viaduct at the river and whistle "Home Sweet Home" and "Lost on the Lady Elgin." If the night was still and the wind from the west, you could hear him as far east as Clark street.

When Mickey was pulled in by the police for too much cargo aboard, Judge Eberhardt at West Chicago avenue police court, after saying "Ten and costs," would allow Mickey to walk out to the Bridewell to work out his sentence. And he'd add, "Now Mickey, if you drive the brickyard team of horses away and try to sell them, I'll give you a year next time."

Silver.

Ran into an oldtimer the other day at Madison and Clark. John Sommers. He had parked at the corner a long time before Dale's drug store hung out its sign and once was Capt. Morrison's bodyguard.

Talking of old times, we recalled George Hankins' "dinner pail" game that held forth on the second floor of what is now the Stone building; Chambers' jewelry store, now Liggett's corner, where we heard Mr. Chambers auction off the rocks and supers; Willoughby & Hill's clothing store, now the Morrison, where we bought many a glad rag; Herrick's hat store across the street where all the live loop sounds of those days replenished their lids; "Silver Bill" Riley's poolroom in old Gamblers' alley where we wagered on the ponies and the winner always bought a feed for his pals; Billy Boyle's chop house where those wonderful porterhouses were washed down with a bottle of Bass ale; "Appetite Bill" Langdon's Tivoli, Hansen's rathskeller, Claton's Drum, and Joe Martin's chance parlor.

Big Steve, the copper, shared in these recollections and we all gave three cheers for "the good old days" and a rap at the 18th amendment.

Eff Bee.

On Voyage.

The while we sail life's changing sea,
Where harsh winds blow relentlessly,
One's judgment is the keeper of
A guiding light, which shines above
To warn against the dangerous shoals—
Regrets of unattained far goals
Whereon might crash the craft of Hope,
Did judgment not reveal one's scope.

Where Is the Editor Now?

Dear Wake: In a tribute to a citizen on his 79th birthday, the Cosmos of St. Charles, Mo., in the article stated he was a "bottle scarred veteran." In the "Beg Your Pardon" correcting this article, it stated he was a "battle scared veteran." M. H. Bonn.

WRIGHT NAMED GENERAL HEAD OF BLACKHAWKS

Major Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the Chicago Blackhawks of the National Hockey league, yesterday appointed Lyle C. Wright, Minneapolis, general manager of the club.

Wright formerly was manager and part owner of the Minneapolis Hockey club and also was interested in the Minneapolis Arena. Coach Dick Irwin will be retained and so will W. J. Tobin, who managed the club during the last season. Tobin will assume charge of business details.

McLaughlin steps out of active control of the club to devote his time to other business interests.

12 CHAMPIONS PLAY TODAY IN C. A. A. U. MEET

Twelve sectional champions that will battle today at the Chicago Stadium for the heavyweight, lightweight, and girls' unlimited divisional championships in the Central A. A. U. basketball tournament were determined last night at Broadway armory and De La Salle institute.

Langner N. U. Wins.

Langner N. U. upset the Elburn Collegians, 24 to 23. A surprise was provided in the south section girls' finals when the Oberlins eliminated Harvey, 15 to 13.

OVERBOARD NIPS STUPENDOUS IN ORMOND STAKES

St. Johns Park, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—The Forest Cove stable's Overboard just lasted in a hard drive to win the Ormond Beach handicap, a claiming affair at five furlongs here today. Stupendous was second, two lengths in front of Vacillate.

Overboard rushed to the front after a good start with Vacillate in close pursuit and Stupendous a little further back. In the final furlong Vacillate began to tire and Stupendous rushed past and just missed nipping Overboard in a hard drive at the finish. The winner covered the distance in 1:02 and paid $6.70 for $2 to win.

The Sunshine stable's Estin, heavily played, was a sad disappointment. After breaking well the favorite dropped out of the race and at no time displayed the speed of which he is capable.

GRAKLE, BRITISH HORSE, CAPTURES GRAND NATIONAL

LIVERPOOL, Eng., March 27.—(AP)—Grakle, British bred, owned, trained and ridden, today scored a record breaking triumph in the Grand National steeplechase, leaving behind him on the punishing field of Aintree the pick of the world's cross country horses. Three hundred thousand saw the race.

Close at his heels was the 1929 winner, Gregalach, Irish jumper, owned by Mrs. Gemmell, and in third place was Lady Glenapp's Annandale, making it a clean sweep for the British. Grakle paid odds of 100 to 6. The time was 9:32 1-5.

Back on the course were eleven American owned steeplechasers, one of them dead in Beecher's brook with a broken neck.

American Hopes Fall.

Easter Hero and Sir Lindsay, owned by the American sportsman, John Hay Whitney, and chief hopes of America, both went down, Easter Hero at Beecher's brook where Mrs. Chester Beatty's Swift Rowland was destroyed, and Sir Lindsay at one of the other jumps. The latter finished, but far out of the money.

Grakle's victory was richly deserved and Jockey Tom Coulthewaite rode a brilliant race for Owner Cyril Taylor, Liverpool cotton broker. It was Coulthewaite's third Grand National victory.

Laying behind the field and avoiding the jams which brought Swift Rowland and Easter Hero down, Coulthewaite sent Grakle out after Gregalach on the second time around, challenged the big Irish jumper in the stretch and wore him down to finish one and a quarter lengths ahead. Gregalach's margin over Annandale was ten lengths.

After a false start the field was away at 3:04 p. m. (9:04 Chicago time) with all of the American jumpers well up and going nicely.

Swift Rowland hesitated at Beecher's brook, which lies behind a high hedge fence, finally jumped and landing on the edge of brook, broke his neck.

Battle Between Pair.

On around the turn and across Valentine's brook the field went with Great Span, Gregalach and Easter Hero well in the lead and fencing nicely. They held that order past the stands and the starting line and started around again.

Great Span began to fall back. Gregalach and Easter Hero fought it out nose to nose to Beecher's brook. Here the American horse swerved slightly, tangled up another jumper and went to his knees on the far side.

The runners were lost from sight for a moment in the slight haze. Then around the canal turn and across Valentine's brook came two horses striving for the lead. They negotiated the first fence safely, sailed across the long water jump and headed for home with only three fences left.

Neck and neck the horses ran, until a furlong from home. Then Grakle's lighter impost—he was in at 161, seven pounds under Gregalach—began to tell and he pulled away to win.

MISS VAN WIE WINS MID-SOUTH GOLF TOURNEY

Southern Pines, N. C., March 27.—(AP)—Virginia Van Wie, caught in the hardest downpour of a rain that descended on the final 18 holes of the mid-south women's 36 hole medal tournament, overcame the elements today to win the championship. The Chicago girl found the going rougher than yesterday when she posted a sparkling 77, but nevertheless shot an 84, one over women's par, for a total of 167.

Her score was seven strokes better than the next best in the field of 16 contenders, Edith Quier of Reading, Pa., could offer. Miss Quier added an 84 today to her 89 of yesterday for a 164.

Veteran of many tournaments Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, the western champion, played steady golf to finish in third place. She had an 81 today to go with yesterday's 81 for a final score of 162.

SOX SLUGGARDS TAKEN TO TASK BY BOSS BUSH

Six Players Put Through Hard Routine.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 27.—Those of the White Sox who had been conducting themselves in a somewhat dilatory manner in the recent exhibition games were forced to pay off on their transgressions today. It was the last time around for ordinary training routine and according to custom should have been somewhat of a holiday, but Mr. Bush, the boss, couldn't see it that way. There were certain fellows he was determined to put through a session of real muscle stretching and that is what he did, much to the discomfiture of his hand picked victims, who were additionally disturbed by a chilling norther whistling about the premises.

Among the pitchers selected to receive some belated but intensive drilling were Tommy Thomas and Hal McKain, two youths scheduled to be among the regular starters in the impending flag campaign. The whip was cracked over Tommy and Hal until they actually worked up what is known as a sweat. In this respect they had nothing on Luke Appling and Bill Cissell, the second base combination, which was drilled with the aim of correcting glaring faults displayed in the barnstorming engagements.

Tommy, Hal Work Legs.

Thomas and McKain didn't have to exercise their arms to prove or disprove their present state of physical perfection, but they did have to stretch their legs a bit. Bush took them to one side of the camp and personally hit fungoes to them. He aimed his hits so as to make necessary a great amount of running on the parts of the receivers. After an hour he told them that if they wished they could doff their uniforms. They did so without hesitating.

Thomas was subjected to the above treatment because Bush finally got an idea that the young man hadn't been intensive enough about his labors during the month already spent here. Tommy had been training according to a program devised by himself. This called for bits of jogging on the cinder path and occasional appearances in a bunting game. Bush didn't object to this go as you please conditioning until he learned that Tommy's arm wasn't in shape. Then he decided to exercise his rights as boss. McKain's inclusion in this select class was not because of his pitching. He merely was too heavy for practical purposes, and along with the chasing of fungoes today he was ordered to wear a rubber shirt.

The special instructions given Appling and Cissell were devised on the basis of coördination in double plays. These two have been like Alphonse and Gaston when twin killings have been involved. Both are fast, but neither has displayed any speed in getting to the bag to act as pivot man in possible double plays. Of the two Appling is the worst offender. Having less than a year of organized baseball experience to his credit, he naturally isn't a finished product. But Bush still is as enthusiastic about him as ever.

Drill First Basemen.

Others selected for extra attention today were Johnny Watwood and Rip Radcliff, the two first basemen. Bush told both in no uncertain language that a well batted ball hadn't been stopped by either in any of the exhibitions played thus far. Radcliff even has had trouble receiving thrown balls unless directly at him. Watwood is going to be at first when the tour with the Giants opens tomorrow, but whether he is a fixture depends entirely on the ability, or willingness, of the club to purchase a skilled performer for the job. Bush makes no bones about needing such a man.

The game here with the Giants tomorrow will see Garland Braxton in the rôle of starting pitcher. He will be given five innings in which to stretch his left arm, and Vic Frasier will succeed him. Bush had intended to start Thomas in the Sunday game, but now doubts the advisability of putting any unnecessary strain on Tommy's sore shoulder.

California's Blasts Keep Cubs Indoors

BY EDWARD BURNS.

San Francisco, Cal., March 27.—There was no foolin' about the ornery character of the California weather today. Last Tuesday the officials jumped the barrier when they called off a contest on account of an early morning sprinkle, but today there was no alternative to canceling the opener between the Cubs and the Missions of the Coast league.

It was the first really bad day encountered by the Chicagoans since they began spring training, and it would have brought tears to your eyes to have seen the poor fellows huddled in corners of the hotel lobby, seeking shelter from the blasts that blew in every time a customer opened the front door.

Play Two Tomorrow.

If the rain ceases and the arctic air warms, the Missions will play their opener tomorrow. Sunday morning the Cubs will seek to make it one victory out of three games with the Seals, and in the afternoon they will wind up their labors in this section with a game with the Missions. In the meantime the Goofs will be playing the Oakland Coast league club in Fresno—tomorrow afternoon and Sunday afternoon. Thirteen men made the trip and will leave Sunday night for Los Angeles where, on Monday, some of them are cast to play important rôles in ax swinging ceremonies.

The following went to Fresno: Moore, Blair, Beck, Jurges, Teachout, Campbell, Zack Taylor, Dan Taylor, Stephenson, George Bell, Hermann, Nelson, Root, and Blake. Pat Malone is expected to be the starting pitcher against the Missions here tomorrow after a two weeks' rest on the ailing list.

Pat's Shoulder O. K. Now.

Pat had a sore shoulder but he says it's all right now and that he anticipates no further trouble with the member for the remainder of the season.

Smith and Bush have been chosen to perform in the two Sunday games. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the Cubs will play their second series with the Pittsburgh Pirates in Los Angeles. On Thursday and Friday they will perform against the Los Angeles Angels, and on Saturday and Sunday will wind up their coast activities with games against the Hollywood Stars.

A. A. U. HANDBALL CHAMPION TO BE CROWNED TODAY

Minneapolis, Minn., March 27.—(AP)—Handball artists from the east and west will battle tomorrow for the National A. A. U. championship. From Baltimore comes George Nelson to challenge Alfred Banuet, San Francisco, for the championship held by the latter. In Banuet, the Baltimore player will be meeting the same man to whom he lost in the finals last year.

The champion, since play started Monday, has been favored to retain his crown and his form during the elimination rounds, and especially in the semi-final match which he won today, has given spectators no cause to alter advance predictions.

Nelson, too, was among the favorites to advance to the final round, but his play in the Penultimate match instilled in his supporters no great hope he would vanquish the champion.

Banuet eliminated Al Hobelman of Baltimore in the semi-final round. The scores were 21 to 14, 21 to 16.

Nelson defeated Angelo Trulio, New York. He lost the first game, 18 to 21, but won the next two by scores of 21 to 11, 21 to 7.

IZAAK WALTONS ELECT JOLIET MAN PRESIDENT

Joliet, Ill., March 27.—(AP)—Josiah Treharne of Joliet was elected president of the Izaak Walton League of Illinois at the closing session of the state convention today.

A score of resolutions for conservation of wild life and forests were adopted and the board of governors of the league was directed to petition the legislature to set aside the Lake Michigan shore from Waukegan to the Wisconsin state line for a dunes park.

Another resolution requested the legislature to replace the department of conservation, headed by Director Ralph Bradford, with a conservation commission.

Other officers elected were: William Lodge, Monticello, vice president; I. W. Edgar, Inglewood, secretary; Dana Rollins, Bloomington, treasurer. Directors chosen included Fred Harbour, Elmhurst, and R. S. Willey, Chicago.

TURNESA RETAINS LEAD IN $5,650 PINEHURST MEET

Pinehurst, N. C., March 27.—(AP)—Touring the championship Pinehurst course in a 73 despite rain, Joe Turnesa of Elmsford, one of a famous family of New York golfers, tonight retained his lead in the north and south $5,650 open golf tournament with a 54 hole score of 215.

Although he started when the downpour was at its height, and played the entire round under difficult conditions, Turnesa conquered par and the elements. He was out in four under perfect figures, but trouble on three holes coming in pushed him up to 38.

Continuous rain during the morning made playing difficult and accurate putting almost impossible on the wet sand greens. The condition of the course caused tournament officials to postpone the final round, set for this afternoon, until tomorrow.

Just a stroke behind the leader came Johnny Golden, chunky Noroton, Conn., professional, who has been shooting the most consistent golf in the field. Golden today had his third consecutive 72. Billy Burke, Greenwich, Conn., and Wiffy Cox, Brooklyn, were together at 217.

team of the old Western association. From that time on he devoted himself to baseball.

His baseball work attracted the attention of the owners of the Cleveland Americans and led to his appointment as secretary of that club in March, 1903. Although his service with the Indians continued for nearly 25 years, Mr. Barnard used to refer to his first job with them as somewhat of a "flyer" into major league ranks.

In 1910 he was chosen vice president of the club and six years later was made executive manager. He held the latter post until 1922, when he was elected president after the death of James C. Dunn, the majority stockholder.

With his election as president of the American league, Mr. Barnard severed connection with the Cleveland club. He negotiated the transfer of the club's stock to a syndicate of home town owners, headed by Alva Bradley, millionaire Cleveland manufacturer.

Detroit, Mich., March 27.—(AP)—Frank J. Navin, president of the Detroit club of the American league, said tonight the death of E. S. Barnard, president of the league, in Rochester, Minn., came as "a terrible shock to me and to baseball in general."

Mr. Navin is vice president of the American league and becomes acting president.

Clear Dempsey in $500,000 Contract Suit

Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, yesterday was cleared of breach of contract charges and the Chicago Coliseum's $500,000 suit was thrown out of court. The trial came to an end when Judge Pomeroy instructed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty.

Five days ago the Coliseum began presenting evidence calculated to show that Dempsey had been under contract to meet Harry Wills, a New York heavyweight, in a title bout in 1926. Dempsey passed up Wills and lost his crown to Gene Tunney on Sept. 22 of that year.

The Coliseum promoters claimed that $287,000 was spent under the assumption that the alleged contract would be fulfilled.

Yesterday Attorney Arthur F. Driscoll, representing Dempsey, moved that all testimony of the Coliseum's expenses be stricken from the court records. Judge Pomeroy upheld the motion.

Then the jurors were called in and the judge said, "I find no competent evidence of damages to have been suffered by the complainant."

He then gave the jury instructions to find Dempsey not guilty. A motion for a new trial was overruled but a plea for an appeal was granted.

Paddy Mullins, manager of Harry Wills, issued a formal acceptance of the challenge voiced by Dempsey in the courtroom on Thursday. Mullins said that his man was willing to meet Jack now or at any time in the future.

Representing Dempsey, Attorney Driscoll said, "We accept the reply to our challenge any time $100,000 is put on the line."

FISHING, HUNTING JOIN THE RANKS OF BIG BUSINESS

BY BOB BECKER.

Stating that each sportsman spent approximately $50 in the year 1929 for firearms, ammunition, fishing tackle, canoes, tents, and other equipment to make a grand expenditure of $650,000,000, the United States senate committee appointed to study conservation and wild life resources, has compiled many interesting facts for sportsmen in its report, which was recently made public.

If there ever were any doubts about it being good business to preserve adequate crops of game birds in the fields and timber, and fish in the streams and lakes, this committee's studies have silenced them. It's not good business to wipe out an investment which brings into the cash registers nearly three-quarters of a billion dollars each year. That is what outdoor recreation returns annually in cash alone.

Here are some of the conclusions reached by the special senate committee with respect to outdoor recreation and the money millions of sportsmen spend each year. First, the firearms expenditures. In 1929 the hunters spent more than $21,000,000 for guns of various kinds. An additional $43,000,000 plus was spent for ammunition. The Institute of Fishing Tackle Manufacturers in Washington told the senate committee that the devotees of fishing cheerfully paid out $25,000,000 for tackle in one year.

The committee also pointed out in its report that the investments which the government and states have made in parks, refuges, hatcheries, etc., in order to preserve or increase wild life comes to a total of $507,000,000. In other words, wild life and outdoor recreation represent a vast business and huge investments with a great turnover each year.

Dear Sirs:

As requested, we have examined and compared your reproduction of our Bespoke Hand Made originals, designed for the Spring and Summer (1931) season.

We must express our surprise at the perfection of detail in reproducing the original shoes.

We have dissected several shoes, and our considered opinion is that you are offering, in material, workmanship, and construction, maximum value to your patrons.

Last Week More than 12 Million Men

Were invited to look in the windows of 100 Regal Stores from Coast to Coast and pick the Expensive Custom Made Original models from the $6.60 Regal Reproductions.

And not One in a Thousand of those invited to compete in our Compare Contest gave us the correct answer.

Through an announcement in 63 newspapers, we extended an invitation to more than twelve million men in thirty-nine different cities to compete in the Regal National Compare Contest.

We not only extended a cordial invitation, we issued an open challenge to the Whole Wide World. We offered a reward—a pair of Regal Shoes free, to any one who could pick out the eight expensive original models from the eight Regal Reproductions, which were shown side by side in the windows of every Regal Store from New York to San Francisco.

During the Contest the stores were crowded and the windows were blocked. Customers, Competitors, Shoe Manufacturers, Shoe Salesmen, Bootmakers and Bootleggers all accepted our invitation.

Now of course, our only object in making this bold challenge was to absolutely convince every one that it was practically impossible for any one to tell the difference.

You would naturally think that a man could easily tell a $28 hand-made English shoe from the Regal Reproduction at $6.60. You would certainly think any man could pick out Anton Nihleen's $48 Buck Brogue, if it was placed right beside a Reproduction of the same Style, made by Regal for $6.60.

But as a matter of fact they couldn't tell Which is Which! Not one man in a thousand who were invited to look at the New Spring Models in our windows could tell the difference between the expensive custom-made original models and the $6.60 Regal Reproductions.

On Monday morning the judges broke the Seals, took out the boot-trees and certified that there were eight Genuine Custom-Made Originals and eight Regal Reproductions. This week we put them back in the window with the labels exposed, in the same position as they were during the Contest.

You can now tell "Which is Which" and select the model you like best, with full assurance that not one man in a thousand can tell whether you are wearing the expensive Custom-Made Original or the Regal Reproduction.

WILL ADD FLOOR TO NORTHWEST SIDE EMPORIUM

Logan Department Store to Be Enlarged.

BY AL CHASE.

Bids are now being taken and work is expected to start shortly on an additional story to be added to the three story and basement building of the Logan Department store at Milwaukee, Kimball, and Diversey avenues. The present store fronts 175 feet on Milwaukee and has the same frontage on Kimball, as well as frontage on Diversey. Rissman & Hirschfeld are the architects.

The present store building was erected three years ago. The store has grown so rapidly, according to officials, that the fourth floor is needed for expansion of several departments. This upper floor will be used for furniture and household goods. It will have 15,000 square feet of floor space. Milton H. Friend and J. F. Rosenberg are the heads of the store.

Sears Roebuck Leases Store.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. have leased and opened a branch store at 6318 North Clark street, at the northwest corner of Highland avenue, a block south of Devon, where tires, accessories, paints, radios, etc., will be sold. The store was leased from Miss V. V. Hanney.

Sally Frocks, Inc., have leased for ten years the store at 2754 Milwaukee avenue, to take the place of the shop at 2630 Milwaukee. H. S. Aberman was lessor. E. D. Weber & Co. were brokers. Sally Frocks has forty-four stores.

Burny Bros. Bakeries have leased the store at 3113 Broadway from Milton H. Callner for a term of years beginning April 1. Milton Moses was broker.

Candy Chain Expands.

The Martha Washington Candies company has leased the store at 30 North Clark street, in the Conway building, for a term of years. This will be the concern's 200th branch in the country and the fourteenth in Chicago. Robert White & Co. were brokers. The candy company has three other loop establishments, at 130 West Monroe street, 24 and 180 West Jackson boulevard.

The three story residence at 4840 Kimball avenue, lot 39x125, has been purchased by the Baptist Executive Council of Chicago from E. C. Johnson for an undisclosed price, subject to $22,500. It will be used as a social center.

BANK OF UNITED STATES ASSETS ARE ESTIMATED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—The Bank of United States has about $48,000,000 in cash and about $50,000,000 in what are regarded as good securities, it was disclosed today in an unofficial talk with a man connected officially with the bank now.

That is the estimate of its worth at present, although it is subject to change and will change by the time that liquidation is completed or until a reorganization is effected.

Deposits in the bank were about $160,000,000, which leaves a deficit of $82,000,000. On the basis of those figures, the depositors of the bank now have an equity of about 60 or 70 per cent of their deposits, but that cannot be obtained until the securities owned by the bank and its other holdings have been hypothecated.

Against the assets of the bank are four or five hundred suits of persons who claim that they bought securities of different kinds under agreements that the stocks or bonds would be repurchased at the selling price if they fell in value. These suits are now in the hands of the banking department with Carl J. Austrian, attorney for Superintendent of Banks Joseph A. Broderick in the case of the Bank of United States, charged with the duty of defending them.

Most of the suits against the bank charge repurchase agreements were made at the time depositors bought stock in the bank and in Bankus corporation, but real estate bonds also figure in some of them.

North Western Ry. Reports $383,755 February Income

The Chicago and North Western railway reported yesterday net operating income of $383,775 for February, as compared with $868,348 for February, 1930. Total operating revenues last month were $7,891,125, as compared with $9,895,110 in 1930, and total operating expenses of $7,507,350, as compared with $9,026,762.

EXPECT $75,000,000 FOX FILM ISSUE; STUART MAY RESIGN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—Announcement of new financing of approximately $75,000,000 for the Fox Film corporation, which is expected to be made early next week by the Chase Securities corporation, will officially disclose that the last vestige of the organization of William Fox, founder of the firm company, has been removed. Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., who have played an important banking rôle in the affairs of Fox Film, have withdrawn voluntarily from the situation and will have no part in marketing the forthcoming securities.

The financial difficulties that the Fox Film corporation encountered late in 1929 involved a series of court contests in which it appeared that a sharp banking fight was on with Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., on one side and Mr. Fox and allied banking interests on the other. The banking interests included the Bancamerica-Blair corporation, Dillon, Read & Co., and Lehman Bros. It was not until later that the Chase interests were introduced into the matter.

Although Halsey, Stuart & Co. were victorious in the courts, the three other banking houses participated as silent partners in the offering of $50,000,000 6 per cent secured notes of the Fox Film corporation, due on April 15, 1931. Part of the proceeds of the latest financing will be used to pay off this issue at maturity. The additional money to be raised will probably be used in connection with certain obligations of Fox Film on the west coast and to strengthen the working capital.

It is expected that in view of the new alignment that Charles B. Stuart, vice president of Halsey, Stuart & Co., will resign as a director of the Film corporation and that he will be replaced by Albert H. Wiggins, chairman of the governing board of the Chase National bank.

It is understood that Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., will still have some interest in the senior financing of certain of the Fox theaters properties. With the forthcoming announcement of the new financing plans it is expected that the new securities will carry certain stock purchase features either in the nature of warrants or conversion privileges.

PAEPCKE WINS OUT IN BATTLE OVER COMPANY

Pick New Directors for Container Corp.

Going into the fray armed with a preponderance of proxies, including those of his allies—a banking group—President Walter Paepcke of the Container Corporation of America won an easy victory yesterday in a fight to oust him from his position. The opposition, headed by J. P. Brunt, was able to secure only a fourth of the total vote in their efforts to remove the youthful executive.

The stockholders elected a new board of directors, which follows: Sewell Avery, president United States Gypsum company; William R. Basset of Spencer Trask & Co.; F. G. Becker of the Container corporation; Henry B. Clark, representing the old Sefton company interests; Edward R. Hankins of the Contained corporation; Mr. Paepcke, and Charles Ward Seabury of Marsh & McLennan.

Hold Brunt's Position Open.

Following its election the board of directors immediately reelected the present officials of the company with the exception of Mr. Brunt, whose position is being held open. Also the board decided to increase its membership to eleven and named four new members, who are: William P. Jeffery of Jeffery & Redmond, industrial engineers, New York; George Meade of the Meade Pulp and Paper company; George Greene of E. H. Rollins & Co., and Wesley M. Dixon, vice president of the Container corporation.

Early in the meeting Mr. Brunt read a speech in which he charged the present management with inefficiencies resulting in unnecessary overhead due to duplication of personnel; no uniform sales policy or price control, and no uniformity in quality of standard of raw materials and finished products.

Mr. Paepcke answered Mr. Brunt's charges by calling on executives of the company to state present conditions in the firm's affairs and he detailed the corporation's progress in comparison with other companies engaged in similar business in the face of the depression.

Tells of Losses.

Answering a request for information from the opposition Mr. Paepcke stated that the corporation suffered a loss after deprecation for January, 1931, of approximately $35,000 and for February of $45,000. He added that the March figure would be considerably improved.

Mr. Paepcke, commenting on the meeting, said: "We are naturally much pleased at the overwhelming vote of confidence given our management by the stockholders. We feel that our new board of directors is an excellent one, with seven representing outside banking and other interest and four executives of the Container corporation."

The Container corporation is the largest manufacturer in the country of shipping containers and cartons. It was incorporated as a Delaware corporation in 1926.

REPUBLIC OF PERU UNABLE TO MEET BOND OBLIGATIONS

New York, March 27.—(AP)—Its treasury bare and with revenues steadily declining, the Republic of Peru today announced its inability to meet in full its obligations to foreign bond holders.

In a letter to the American fiscal agents of the Peruvian government Finance Minister M. A. Vinelli announced that the interest and sinking fund payment, amounting to approximately $1,215,000 due April 1 on the Peruvian national loan, second series, will not be made at this time.

The Republic of Peru intends loyally to comply with its obligations to the limit of its capacity, the minister said, and is making every effort to set its finances in order. Its American debt represented by dollar bonds floated since 1926, amounts to approximately $80,000,000, having been reduced from the original $87,000,000 through sinking fund payments. In addition the country's external debt includes several loans floated in Europe.

Prof. Edwin W. Kemmerer of the United States, who has been the diagnostician for the financial ills of several countries, is directing the work of a commission now studying the economic and financial condition of the Peruvian republic and expects to report during April.

Revolutionary strife and the economic distress laid a heavy hand on Peru, as well as other Latin American countries, and it is the second South American country to take steps towards a partial moratorium of its foreign debt, during the last few months.

ALTON HOLDERS ASK B. & O. RY. TO REIMBURSE THEM

Washington, D. C., March 27.—(AP)—A group of Chicago and Alton railroad stockholders asked the interstate commerce commission today to require the Baltimore and Ohio railroad to reimburse them at least partly for their holdings.

Claiming an equity of at least $65,000,000, the stockholders' protective committee contended their rights should come ahead of an issue of bonds which, it was claimed, were tainted by fraud. The Baltimore and Ohio, their brief said, had been notified of the alleged fraud prior to buying the bonds.

The Alton Railroad company has asked the commission for permission to take over the Old Chicago and Alton, purchased at a receiver's sale for $23,000,000. The Baltimore and Ohio in turn has applied for permission to take over the stock of the Alton company. The stockholders recently requested permission to intervene and the railroad company objected.

The stockholders claimed the road was worth at least $120,000,000, and that only $75,000,000 of debt should come ahead of their claims. The railroad company contended that there were $122,000,000 worth of debts that must be considered ahead of the stockholders.

The committee said the stockholders never had a chance to have their claims adjudicated, alleging Kuhn, Loeb & Co., New York bankers, who sold the bonds to the Baltimore and Ohio, had promised to coöperate in presenting a reorganization plan.

CHICAGO BANK DEPOSITS SHOW A RECESSION

Loosening of Purse Strings Indicated.

The steady increase in bank deposits which lasted all through the depression year of 1930 was not carried over into the new year, at least as far as Chicago banks are concerned. This is shown in the reports made yesterday by Chicago institutions in response to the calls for statements of condition as of March 25, issued by the controller of the currency and the Illinois state auditor.

The reports also showed that loans and discounts and cash resources showed seasonal declines. While the decline in deposits is in keeping with the seasonal movement it would seem that the returning confidence in the business outlook has loosened the purse strings of the public to a certain extent.

Total deposits of all Chicago banks, state and national, showed a decline during the three months period of $168,941,000. Total deposits now stand at $2,737,256,000. This compares with $2,947,857,000 on June 30 last year.

National Bank Deposits.

National banks on March 25 had total deposits of $868,911,000, or a decline of $29,982,000 from the total as of the end of 1930. State banks had total deposits of $1,862,265,000, which was a decrease of $135,089,000 in the three months' period.

Savings deposits of Chicago banks dropped $1,747,000 to a current total of $461,611,000. Total savings deposits of the national banks now stand at $75,794,000, compared with $81,382,000 on Dec. 31. Deposits of the state banks increased from $581,976,000 to a current total of $585,817,000, but the increase was more than offset by the drop in savings of the national banks.

Resources Show Shrinkage.

Cash resources of the banks also showed a shrinkage during the first three months of the year. Combined cash resources of all Chicago banks now stand at $534,150,000, as compared with $688,905,000 on Dec. 31, a decline of $154,755,000. The uncertainty which existed after the epidemic of bank failures late in 1930 had led the banks to build up cash resources to a high point. The improvement in situation throughout the country has allowed the banks to put some of these funds at work again.

The period was one of further liquidation of debts as reflected in the decline of loans and discounts. The decrease, however, was not as sharp as during the last quarter of last year. Loans and discounts of all Chicago banks dropped $102,388,000 to a current total of $1,784,324,000. The reduction in loans and discounts in the last three months of 1930 amounted to $203,478,000 which climaxed a long period of liquidation which followed the stock market collapse.

July Wheat Improves to Close at 61¾c a Bushel

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Traders largely ignored yesterday the government's tentative estimate that the spring wheat acreage might be decreased 3,000,000 acres for this year's crop, although taken in connection with the probable acreage of winter wheat remaining for harvest, there were indications of a total crop for the country this season of slightly over 800,000,000 bu, providing a normal yield per acre is secured. This would compare with 854,000,000 bu harvested in 1930 and with a 5 year average of 833,000,000 bu.

While a cold wave overspread the greater part of the winter wheat belt there was little apprehension of damage, as snow generally preceded the sharp drop in temperatures, and messages from sections of Oklahoma and Texas, where the plant is most advanced, claimed there was sufficient snow to give ample protection.

July Wheat Shows Strength.

Further closing of spreads was largely responsible for an early bulge in July wheat, which lifted that future to 61¾c, a new high on the present movement, and 3¼c above Tuesday's low, and it went to about 1c over the September, the latter being somewhat easier a good part of the day due to persistent selling in small lots by commission houses. The upturn in the July brought in profit taking and a reaction followed to around Friday's finish, with the close ¼c higher, July being 61⅛@61¼c to 61⅝c, while September was 60⅝@60¾c, the spread at the last being practically the same as the previous day.

Scattered longs were on the selling side of the old crop wheat months and made a small decline early which was recovered later with the close unchanged to ¼c higher, March being 80⅝c and May 82¼@82⅜c. Houses with eastern connections were buyers of July and October at Winnipeg and there was also support from seaboard interests, although foreign demand was reported as slow, and total export sales were estimated at only 150,000 bu. Futures closed ⅛c higher, with July 59⅜c. Liverpool was off ⅛d at the last, with the July quoted at 63c, while Buenos Aires finished unchanged.

Wheat Recovers Recent Loss.

At the high point yesterday July wheat has practically recovered the loss sustained following the announcement that the federal farm board would not permit stabilization operations in the 1931 crop. Sentiment is decidedly mixed, especially on the July, but there is a growing belief that operations on the bear side will go largely into the September delivery.

Corn Under Pressure.

Corn market developed independent weakness as the result of further closing of spreads between that grain and wheat, and the close was ⅛@¾c lower with March 60⅝c, May 62½@62⅝c, July 64⅜@64½c, and September 64c. The decline was in the face of very unfavorable weather over the belt for the movement of cash grain to terminals, and country offerings were limited, although 59,000 bu were booked to come here from outside markets. Kansas City May gained fractionally on Chicago. Little attention was paid to the prospective increase of 4.9 per cent in the acreage for the 1931 crop. Shipping demand showed improvement with sales of 106,000 bu.

Cash and commission houses were buyers of oats futures, but sufficient scattered liquidation by longs developed in the March to make the close on that delivery ⅝c lower, at 30⅜c. Deferred futures were ⅛c higher to ¼c lower, with May 32⅛@32¼c, and July 32¼c. Outside interest in rye remains light, and it took but little buying to make the close ⅛@⅜c higher with March 37½c, May 39¼c, and July 41c.

Progress even now is highly irregular and not widespread.

Many essential adjustments have been made, however, and others are being effected as the need arises, and these changes are steadily strengthening the commercial structure. The first quarter is ending with an improved sentiment based upon a moderate uplift in some lines and a decided advance in isolated instances.

Bradstreet's says the most notable feature of the week, chiefly seasonal in nature, has been an upturn in retail trade under the stimulus of Easter buying.

RETAIL TRADE GAINS

As business nears the end of the first quarter, gains in trade, particularly in retail lines recently, have come more clearly into view, weekly trade reviews reported yesterday. Progress, however, remains slow and mostly seasonal in character.

"Tangible reasons for encouragement are increasingly numerous," comments R. G. Dun & Co.'s summary of business conditions.

"Events since the speculative collapse of the autumn of 1929, with its serious derangement of trade, have demonstrated the importance of the time element in recovery from a setback of major proportions, and progress even now is highly irregular and not widespread.

WESTERN UNION INCOME EQUALS $9.03 A SHARE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—The Western Union Telegraph company issued its pamphlet report for 1930 today, showing net income of $9,247,032 after taxes, depreciation, and interest, equal to $9.03 a share on 1,023,811 shares, against $15,474,893 in 1929, or $15.11 a share. Gross operating revenues of the company in 1930 amounted to $130,581,857.

Aluminum Goods Manufacturing company reported for 1930 net income of $890,010, equal to 82 cents a share, against $1,671,000, or $1.39 a share, in the preceding year. Electric Boat company and subsidiaries for 1930 had net loss of $1,071,135, against profits of $2,765,207 in 1929.

G. R. Kinney company and subsidiaries for 1930 had net income of $102,193, against $947,606 in 1929. New England Steamship company reported for 1930 net loss of $395,950, against net loss of $65,684 in 1929.

Says Rails Would Like to Try Hand at Waterways

New York, March 27.—(AP)—The railroads, which once had their lines upon the great lakes, would like to be free to try their hand at making inland waterways a paying business, W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, told the Atlantic states shippers' advisory board today.

It is not now profitable in the hands of the federal government, Mr. Atterbury added.

"The only excuse that has ever been offered for shutting the railroads out from the use of the Panama canal, the great lakes, the coastal and intercoastal trade, and the artificial inland waterways has been the cry that the public should be protected against a monopoly of transportation in railroad hands," he said.

Sees no Reason for Fear.

"The fallacy of this is placed beyond reasonable argument by the fact that the regulative powers of the government are unlimited, and with ample regulative authority there is no reason to fear monopoly.

"The country today has an abundance of transportation facilities, that it will ultimately need, and profitably use them all, I have no doubt," Mr. Atterbury said. "The most immediate requirement is to introduce order into the situation, check wasteful competition and duplication of service, and obviate the too rapid creation of additional facilities in advance of the country's needs. This includes, among other things, effecting a proper degree of coördination between our different agencies of transport so that each may serve the public best in its particular field and freeing the railroads from the discrimination which they now suffer by reason of unregulated and subsidized competition.

"These, as I see them, are the main purposes of the 'declaration of policy.' In any event they constitute our understanding of it on the Pennsylvania railroad."

Expect Improvement.

Freight movement in territory covered by the board is expected to show some improvement in the second quarter of the year, compared with the first three months, traffic officials were told.

Car loadings in the Atlantic states territory amounted to 747,198 in the first quarter. Reports to the board indicate that 755,103 carloads of freight will be moved in the same territory during the second quarter. This estimate represents a 5 per cent decrease from the comparable period of a year ago.

The territory embraces the greater part of the state of New York, all of New Jersey, Delaware, and Maryland, and the District of Columbia and the eastern sections of Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Daily Value of Building Contracts Shows Let-up

New York, March 27.—(AP)—The daily average value of building contracts, as reported by F. W. Dodge corporation, tapered off in the third week of March from the large increases of the first fortnight. The figure for last week, $12,706,725, was about $3,000,000 less than the daily rate for the first two weeks. There was a similar drop in the latter part of February.

Standard of Ind. Orders Oil from Stripper Wells

Standard Oil Company of Indiana gave an order yesterday for 6,000 barrels of oil daily from Kansas stripper wells until April 14. Another order for 2,000 barrels daily after April 15, on a permanent basis, was announced. The orders resulted from a conference of oil company representatives with Gov. Harry Woodring of Kansas seeking a settlement of the stripper well relief problem

New York, March 27.—Plumed by the continued run of adverse news developments, bear forces cut loose on the share market today and succeeded in damaging values from 1 to 5 points throughout the list.

Even the utility shares, long regarded as the shock troops of the market, had to give way under the selling barrage, and the close found such issues as American and Foreign Power, North American, Electric Power and Light, Consolidated Gas, Standard Gas, and American Telephone quoted generally 1 to 2 points below yesterday's final ratings.

The break took the speculative community somewhat by surprise in view of the sturdy resistance the list has been offering all week to the apparently unending stream of dividend cuts and omissions, reports of reduced corporation earnings and dwindling commodity prices. Indeed, some ob-

PLAN BOOST IN PRICE OF CIGARS AND TOBACCOS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—The Schulte Retail Stores corporation and the United Cigar Stores company will increase the price of cigars and other products on April 3, it was announced today. The change will be made to correct what was described as a condition unprofitable to retailers.

L. Goldvogel, executive vice president of the Schulte Retail Stores, announced that the advances would apply to cigars, little cigars, smoking and chewing tobacco, and some other articles. For the present, he said, there will be no increase in leading brands of cigarets. It was said, however, that prices of some brands of cigarets would be increased.

At the offices of the United Cigar Stores it was said that the company was in sympathy with the action of Schulte, and that it would follow that organization's action. This, it was said at the United offices, would be done to improve the situation for retailers. Current prices, it was said, do not provide retailers with adequate returns.

Consolidated Publishers Earn $1,434,195 in 1930

New York, March 27.—(AP)—Paul Block, president of Consolidated Publishers, Inc., reported that consolidated net earnings of the company and subsidiaries for 1930 available for interest and taxes were $1,434,195, equal to 5.45 times interest charges. Net earnings for 1929 were $2,046,176 and covered total interest charges 7.59 times. For 1928 net earnings of $1,451,178 covered interest charges 4.81 times.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 27.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today with refiners continuing in the market at last paid prices. Early gains in raw futures as a result of covering against sales in the spot market were followed by reactions with the market closing 1@2 points net lower. Approximate sales, 30,050 tons. Prices follow:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, March 27.—(AP)—Cotton goods prices were slightly irregular today, coarse sheeting being easier, duck dull, and fine goods and print cloths showing continued strength. Percales have been advanced for fall delivery. Mohair draperies were advanced 10 per cent. Raw silk was firmer. Silk goods were in moderate demand. Further openings of wool goods for fall show substantially the average price declines already noted from last season. Burlaps were steady, rayon sales for knit wear were better.

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES SHOW A WEAK TREND

Realizing Reaches Peak in Late Trading.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Chicago stocks of all descriptions registered losses in yesterday's trading as the selling which had brought irregularity to the list on the previous day reoccurred with greater intensity. The realizing reached its peak in the late trading and left standing only a few gains among some of the less active shares.

The active stocks were barren of improvement. Losses of the chief sufferers did not exceed two points and in the case of the automotive and utility shares were generally kept within a one point margin.

The market gave the appearance of being a bit weary after having resisted fairly successfully the unfavorable dividend news on the two preceding trading days. Selling came in at faster rate considering the total volume of trading. Transactions amounted to around 150,000 shares.

Was the Last Straw.

The announcement which came after the close of the market on Thursday of the National Cash Register dividend omission topped a rather formidable batch of dividend reductions and omissions and was the straw which tipped the scale in favor of the speculators for the decline.

Early liquidation in Borg-Warner had that issue down more than a point at one stage of the proceedings, but the stock firmed up and was only a fraction below the previous close when the day ended. Dealing in Cord amounted to some 34,000 shares and the stock sold below 13, but the issue was marked up later and finished flush at that figure.

Swift International and U. S. Radio were the chief sufferers among the specialty stocks. Swift was forced down over a point to finish the day at a low for the movement of 38. The speculative favorite, U. S. Radio, sold off 1⅝ to 31.

Selling among the utilities converged in Insull Utility which sunk to 42½, representing a net loss for the session of 1⅝ points, which was the largest among the active stocks. Middle West and Cities Service sustained only slight losses.

Are Hit by Selling.

Among the lower priced shares, Polymet and Raytheon were hit by the selling. The latter issue dipped a point to 4 and Raytheon fell off 2 points to 12 on fairly heavy transactions.

After scoring a new high for the year at 5½, Q. R. S. reacted to close with a fractional net loss. It is understood that the company will dispose of its Neon sign business in the near future.

U. S. Gypsum was another stock which scored in the early trading, but fell victim to the latter realizing. During the day the stock brought a price of 50, which is the best value the issue has commanded this year.

C. S. Davis, president of the Borg-Warner corporation, told stockholders at their annual meeting yesterday that the company was looking forward to increased business in the foreign field. The firm intends to establish reciprocal manufacturing deals with foreign companies when the volume of business justifies it, he stated.

MEXICO TO PUT ABSOLUTE BAN IN CORN IMPORTS

MEXICO CITY, March 27.—(AP)—An absolute quarantine will be placed on all importations of corn under terms of a decree signed by President Ortiz Rubio. The decree cites existence of a disease in foreign corn. It will become effective when published in the official gazette within a few days.

BEAR BARRAGE FORCES RETREAT IN STOCK MARKET

servers had begun to hope that the worst was over and that with most of the anticipated bad news out of the way a turn for the better might be anticipated.

Leads to Heavy Selling.

However, the overnight announcement of the National Cash Register omission—a reduction of the $3 rate was the worst that was expected—was evidently too much for the rank and file. Heavy selling came into the stock of this corporation at the outset, carrying it into new low territory, and a whole flock of redoubtables began to cede ground with it. Constructive forces sweat blood to keep some of their favorites going, but the situation was beyond them.

One group after another succumbed to the pressure and finally, in the last hour, it became something of a rout. Even the pools, which have been working on the up side in various sections, appeared to have given up the struggle.

Many key issues broke through the resistance levels supposed to have been established in their behalf, among them being United States Steel common, which dipped to 142¾ after being pegged reputedly at 143½; American Can, which dropped to 124⅛, nearly half a point below its resistance level; General Motors, which crashed through its support level of 45 to 44¼; General Electric, which sank to 50¼, ignoring its "stop" of 51; Consolidated Gas, dropping to 104, a point too far on the reckoning, and Westinghouse, selling down to 89⅝, an eighth of a point below its supposed resistance notch.

Close Near Low Point.

Most of these pivotals closed at or within a small fraction of their lows of the day. The closing sale on U. S. Steel showed a net loss of 2¼ points, while American Can was off 2⅛.

Among the sharper losses of the session were Bethlehem Steel, off 3¼ points; Delaware and Hudson, off 3¼; Worthington Pump, 3⅝; Vanadium, 3⅛; International Business Machine, 4⅛; Industrial Rayon, 4; Eastman Kodak, 3⅝; Du Pont, 3, and Hercules Powder and Federal Mining and Smelting, 5 points each.

There was little distinction between the various groups in the selling movement. Even issues which had gained favor by retaining their dividend rates were sacrificed with the rest. A conspicuous example was R. H. Macy, which recently announced an increase in its dividend rate. It sold off without a struggle, losing more than 2 points on the day.

EXCHANGE VALUE OF PESETA RISES ON LOAN NEWS

MADRID, March 27.—(AP)—The exchange value of the peseta improved this morning, with a quotation of 9.30 to the dollar instead of yesterday's quotation of 9.37.

Stabilization of the peseta rate was expected to follow the establishment of a $60,000,000 credit here by foreign financial concerns, including J. P. Morgan & Co., the National City bank and the Chase National bank of New York.

The banking and business world showed marked surprise at the news of the loan. The government had kept the negotiations very secret and most of the best informed bankers did not know that the loan was pending until the last minute.

Criticism of the loan was heard in some circles but in the majority of banking and business houses it was not agreed what the final effect might be. Madrid was quiet today.

American Brake Shoe and Foundry.

Will you please give me some information concerning American Brake Shoe and Foundry company? Its stock is quoted on the New York Stock exchange.—H. A. M.

American Brake Shoe and Foundry company was incorporated in 1916 to carry on a business started in 1902 consisting of the manufacture of brake shoes and parts. Since then it has diversified its business by also making car wheels, railroad track fixtures, mine cars, castings, bearings and forgings.

Earnings have been relatively stable because a large part of the company's output consists of replacements for parts that wear out. In this respect it has had the advantage over manufacturers of original equipment in periods when railway buying has been low.

In the last ten years only a little over one-half of earnings have been distributed as cash dividends. The balance has been plowed back into the business or used to build up surplus.

Consequently financial position is strong. Current assets at the close of last year were $13,760,948, including $2,454,930 in cash and call loans, and $4,216,453 in marketable securities. Current liabilities were $1,682,331. This left a working capital of $12,078,617, against $11,691,482 a year before. Surplus was $12,462,671.

Net profit, available for dividends, last year was $2,906,385. This was equal, after preferred dividends of $667,695, to $3.24 per share on the 690,346 common shares. Net profit for 1929 was $3,230,230, or $3.71 per common share.

Earnings for 1930 include $590,788 dividends received from companies that were not wholly owned. Of this amount $200,662 was paid by these associated companies from their earned surpluses. For that reason net profit for 1930, including equity in earnings of controlled companies, would amount to $2.95 per share, whereas in 1929 net income, including the parent company's equity in undivided earnings, was $5.50 per common share.

The management stated in February that a slight improvement in the amount of orders began in December, 1930, after an almost continuous decline beginning in August, 1929.

The current dividend rate on the common is $2.40 per annum. The stock is considered high grade.

NEW HAVEN RY. REPORTS 1930 NET OF $15,863,791

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 27.—The annual report of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company, issued today, disclosed net income of $15,863,791 for 1930, a decrease of $6,432,477 compared with the previous year. After preferred stock dividend requirements and guarantees on separately operated properties the balance was equal to $7.33 a share on the common stock.

The common stock of the company is on a $6 annual dividend basis, so that net for 1930 exceeded dividend requirements on the common by $1.33 a share.

Total operating revenues sustained a severe decline for 1930 to the lowest amount since the year 1919, as a result of the general economic depression which developed in the fall of 1929, reflecting reduced earnings of business in general, according to the report.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 200; hogs, 10,000; sheep, 2,000.

Cattle sold slowly yesterday at the week's full decline, but hogs and lambs reacted sharply when supplies fell short at all points. Combined receipts of cattle, hogs, and sheep at the 20 leading markets yesterday at 145,000 showed a decrease of 37,000 head, or 20 per cent, compared with the previous Friday's total, and showed a decrease of almost 50,000 head, or 25 per cent, compared with a year ago.

Thursday's losses in the hog market were replaced yesterday. Prices moved up 10@25c, the extreme top showing 25c advance at $8.25, while the general average gained 15c at $7.50, these prices comparing with a top of $8.25 and average of $7.50 on the previous Friday's trade.

Practically all smaller houses and order buyers bought readily at the upturn in view of the possibility of storms curtailing the movement of some stock from far western points for early next week. Larger houses held back for steady prices, but obtained only scattered lots. Only 3,000 were left at the close, with five markets estimating 19,000 in sight for today, against 22,200 last Saturday.

September Hogs Bring $9.00.

Contracts for September light weights for the first half of that month were sold at $9.00 on a 25c higher futures market yesterday. May light weights sold at $8.40 and June light reached $8.50. April light were offered at $8.50 and bid $8.00. September heavy hogs were offered at $9.00. On the "to arrive" market light weights for Monday's delivery carried bids of $8.00 and mediums were bid $7.75, but there were no sellers at these figures.

Yesterday's meager supply of 2,000 cattle met a semi-demoralized trade and many loads are being carried over for next week's market in hopes that the country will hold back supplies and allow the market to recover some from the blow it received this week.

Supplies this week have been largest of the year and packers are carrying some cattle over for next week's slaughter. Heavy cattle show losses of 25@50c for the week, while light steers and yearlings are off 50@75c and some sales show $1.00 decline. Calves scored additional price gains yesterday, selling mostly $2.00 above a week ago.

Lamb Market Active.

For the first time in more than two weeks activity featured the lamb market yesterday and bulk of offerings had changed hands before the late afternoon rounds. All buyers were eager for numbers at 15@25c higher prices, packers taking a good share of the supply at $9.00, with 102 lb averages at $8.85 and extreme weights downwards to $8.50. Top to shippers reached $9.10. Lambs without fleece sold at $8.25@8.35. Movement of stock from leading lamb feeding areas has been curtailed, due to the unsatisfactory condition of the trade during the last two weeks. The year to date total at the seven leading markets is almost exactly the same size as a year ago. Early in March the year total was running more than 100,000 greater than in 1930.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 48,000 to 60,000. J. M. Waters marked 60,000, E. S. Waterbury and G. McClean 59,000, P. Allan 57,000, H. Pattison and C. Romeiser 56,000, F. M. Sherwood, G. W. Chandler, S. Lund and H. Wolfe 55,000, W. T. Reneker 54,000, H. S. Turner 53,000, F. Knutzen 51,000, R. B. Ellis 50,000, and M. S. Castle 48,000.

TAKE NO ACTION.

Directors of Wilson & Co. took no action on the quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share usually paid April 1.

NARROW RANGE IN COTTON

Cotton prices yesterday moved within a range of 14 points. There were no developments during the day to inspire business in either direction. The trade awaits definite statement from the farm board as well as official reports of planted acreage for the season's crop. Buying by the south has fallen off and there was more disposition to go slow in the absence of new developments. Cables were easier early, but closed unchanged to 1 point higher, with spot sales 5,000 bales. Futures in Chicago were unchanged to 3 points higher, New Orleans 1 to 3 points up and New York 2 points lower to 2 points higher. Spots in the latter market were up 5 points to 10.85c; New Orleans was 10.60c; Galveston, 10.65c; and Houston, 10.60c.

Spinners' takings of American cotton for the week, as given by Hester, were 225,000 bales, against 181,000 bales the previous week and 269,000 bales last year. Prices follow:

GOV'T OFFERS WHEAT

There is no change in the Grain Stabilization corporation's buying policy on cash wheat, according to President George S. Milnor. The corporation will start to offer for sale at a minimum price its holdings of cash wheat on April 1 in the leading markets, the basis grade being No. 2 hard winter at Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, and St. Louis and No. 1 northern or No. 1 dark northern spring at Minneapolis and Duluth. All prices for the various periods are for f. o. b. grain with market premiums for quality, protein, and special billing.

The schedule of minimum selling prices in the leading markets for the various dates to the end of the old crop season follows:

	Chicago.	Kas. City.	St.L.	Minneapolis-Duluth.
April 1 to 10	.82½	.73½	.81	.79
April 11 to 20	.83	.74	.81½	.79½
April 21 to 30	.83½	.74½	.82	.80
May 1 to 10	.84	.75	.82½	.80½
May 11 to 20	.84½	.75½	.83	.81½
May 21 to 31	.85	.76	.83½	.81½
June 1 to 10	.85½	.76½	.84	.82
June 10 to 20	.86	.77	.84½	.82½
June 20 to 30	.86½	.77½	.85	.83

Basic price at Omaha is 1c below that quoted at Kansas City for the same period.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET·NEWS

Wheat traders said that until definite information is known of damage to crops in the southwest, as a result of freezing temperatures, over Kansas, Oklahoma, and the Texas Panhandle, the disposition is to go slow on the selling side, particularly of July. They say that should it develop that the crop has come through without serious injury, and the general belief is that it will, the selling side on bulges is preferred. An impression also prevails that July should command a good premium over the September.

The Year Book of the Chicago Board of Trade, with a complete list of grain, 1930, as well as for a series of years, 1930, as wel las for a series of years, has been issued by Secretary Fred H. Clutten.

LARD TRADE IMPROVES

Buying of July lard credited to packing interests, with selling by commission houses, kept prices within a narrow range and they closed 2½c lower to unchanged, the latter on September. Liverpool lard was 3@9d lower, the May being the strongest. Export clearances of lard were 931,950 lbs. Bellies were 5@7½c higher. Packers reported a better tone in the market for loins and for Easter hams, with sales increased. Hog prices were higher and receipts less than a week and a year ago. Prices follow:

To the HOLDERS OF 4½% DEBENTURE GOLD BONDS OF MARSHALL FIELD AND COMPANY Issued Under Trust Indenture Dated October 1, 1925, by and between Marshall Field and Company and Illinois Merchants Trust Company, Trustee.

YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED pursuant to the provisions of ARTICLE III. of the aforedescribed Trust Indenture that there will be redeemed and will become due and payable on April 21, 1931, at the office of Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Company (successor to Illinois Merchants Trust Company), Trustee, at 231 So. La Salle Street, Chicago, Illinois, all of the 4½% Debenture Gold Bonds of Marshall Field & Company which by their terms mature either on January 1, 1932, or on January 1, 1933. The holders of said bonds so to be redeemed are hereby notified to present the same for payment on or after April 21, 1931, together with all unmatured interest coupons at the office of said Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Company, at which time there will be paid to the holders of said bonds the principal amount thereof and accrued interest to April 21, 1931, together with a premium of one-half of one percentum (½%). Interest on said bonds will cease to accrue on April 21, 1931.

Holders of said bonds so to be redeemed may, if they so desire, present their bonds for payment prior to April 21, 1931, and receive payment of the principal, premium and interest accrued to the date of presentation.

Dated at Chicago, Illinois, this 19th day of March, 1931.

MARSHALL FIELD AND COMPANY.

1911-1931

Twentieth Anniversary Celebration Week, April 6th

Associated Electric Company

4½% Gold Bonds due 1953

Attractive Features

Market and Yield

Well seasoned, active on the New York Curb, selling around 92 to return about 5.90 currently or approximately 5.10 to maturity.

Earnings

Net over 2.42 times all interest charges before depreciation and 2.10 times after depreciation.

Revenues

75% of gross revenues derived from electric and gas operations.

Growth

Gross earnings, 1920-1930, increased 84.9% .... from $15,447,932 to $28,576,978;
Net earnings before depreciation increased 159% .... from $ 4,698,087 to $12,170,240;
Ratio of net to gross increased .... from 30.4% to 42.5%.

Territory

Well established, diversified industrial, agricultural and residential areas in Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio, Indiana and other states, as well as the Philippine Islands. Cities included are Johnstown and Erie, Penn.; Bowling Green, Ky.; Portsmouth and Ashtabula, Ohio; Richmond and Terre Haute, Ind.; Bloomington, Ill.; and Manila, P. I.

Protective Clauses

Underlying debt and preferred stocks may not exceed 50% of principal amount of bonds issued under this indenture. Additional bonds may be issued only (a) to refund the same principal amount of bonds issued under this indenture or prior liens, including subsidiaries' preferred stocks and (b) for not to exceed 75% of the cost or fair value of additions and acquired property.

The protective provisions and restrictions place these Bonds in a position substantially similar to that of the better first and refunding mortgage bonds of operating properties.

Equity

The equity for the $75,000,000 bonds of this Company, which are outstanding, is represented by 650,000 shares of capital stock (without par value) having a stated value of $65,000,000 and by surplus of over $15,500,000.

Financial Policy

To eliminate all prior debt and underlying charges except a moderate amount of highest savings bank quality, leaving Bonds a first claim upon many of the properties and nearly so upon others. Priorities are now only 21.2%, of total debt and equity combined.

Management

The management and supervision of the various operating companies are under the direction of the experienced public utility executives who have been responsible for the successful development of the properties to their present high standards.

Tax Refund

Federal 2% income tax; Pennsylvania 4 mills; Massachusetts 6% on income.

Legal in the opinion of counsel for Life Insurance companies in New York State.

Circular with full details on request.

EVERY STUDEBAKER
HAS A SECOND TERM UNDER THE HOOD!

If you do not buy a new Studebaker you are safe in buying a used one. First, because the excess mileage built into a Studebaker is sufficient to carry over from one owner to another! Second, because we stand back of our used cars with the famous Studebaker Pledge —for the reassurance of the second purchaser!

STUDEBAKER COACH. Std. 6 with many valuable extras. It's exceptionally clean throughout and has a sweet running motor. $95.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN. Spec. 6. The finish, upholstery and tires are in dandy condition. Motor runs smoothly and quietly. Reduced to $145.

STUDEBAKER PRESIDENT. 1927 Big Six 7 pass. that will satisfy the most exacting buyer. The finish is a beautiful tan and the upholstery has not a worn spot. Motor runs very efficiently. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Priced at $445, but worth twice this figure.

STUDEBAKER COMMANDER. 1928 5 pass. sedan that we recommend as one of our very best buys. The finish is bright and shiny and the upholstery is luxurious. Has a wealth of extras. $450. Also a STUDEBAKER COMMANDER VICTORIA, 1928, that's like new today. $450.

STUDEBAKER STR. 8 PRESIDENT SEDAN 1928, 7 pass. This car is a positive beauty. The upholstery is protected by seat covers, and the handsome blue finish has not a mar on it. Tires are practically brand new and the equipment includes driving light, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Has a sweet running motor. Special for $695.

1929 STUDEBAKER PRESIDENT 8, 5 pass. sedan. It was carefully checked by our expert mechanics and now it carries a 30 day free service guarantee. The finish, upholstery and tires are in the original new condition and there are a wealth of extras. $785.

1930 STUDEBAKER DICTATOR 8 SEDAN. [This is the car advertised in The Tribune full page display ad.] It was only driven a few thousand miles and now it will certainly give you new car satisfaction. It's equipped with every essential extra. The motor could not be improved, and every detail of the interior and exterior is 100%. $795. Also a 1930 STUDEBAKER DICTATOR 8 COUPE, with rumble seat for $795.

STUDEBAKER CABRIOLET. Recent Commander 8 Conv. Coupe that's the last word for beautiful appearance and sparkling performance. Has snappy low-slung lines and the finish is a handsome canary yellow. Equipped with wire wheels, side mounts, and a number of valuable extras. Spacious rumble seat. This car will not remain 24 hours at our reduced price of $985. Also a 1929 STUDEBAKER PRESIDENT 8 ROADSTER that's de luxe in every respect, for $850.

1930 STUDEBAKER PRESIDENT 8, five pass. sedan. Was owned by an official of this company and given exceptional attention. Today it will please the most exacting buyer. Has wire wheels, side mounts, and $200 worth of extras. Motor is guaranteed. Now $1,250.

SUBSTRUCTURE AND SUPERSTRUCTURE OUTER DRIVE BRIDGE.

Sealed proposals will be received jointly by Louis Nettlehorst, Secretary of The Commissioners of Lincoln Park, and by Milton E. Connelly, Secretary of the South Park Commissioners, and Hugh E. Young, Consulting Engineer for each of said Boards of Commissioners, until 3:00 o'clock Friday, April 24, 1931, at the office of the CHICAGO PLAN COMMISSION, Room 2200, 208 West Washington Street, Chicago, Illinois, for the construction of the substructure and the superstructure complete of a double leaf trunnion bascule bridge over the main branch of the Chicago River at the Outer Drive improvement crossing and will be publicly opened by The Commissioners of Lincoln Park and The South Park Commissioners at a joint meeting to be held at that time and place.

A deposit of One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($100,000.00) represented by certified check or cash must accompany each proposal as a guarantee of the good faith of the bidder.

All bids must be made upon blank bidder's forms furnished by the Consulting Engineer of The Commissioners of Lincoln Park and the South Park Commissioners and shall be made in accordance with and conform to the terms and conditions set forth in "Instructions to Bidders" attached thereto. Said bid with accompanying specifications shall be enclosed in an envelope furnished by said Consulting Engineer bearing only the printed endorsement, "Bid for the Construction of the Substructure and Superstructure complete of a double leaf trunnion bascule bridge over the main branch of the Chicago River at the Outer Drive Improvement crossing."

Bidding forms, specifications, form of contract, bond and plans may be obtained upon deposit of Two Hundred Dollars ($200.00) represented by certified check or cash, at the office of the Consulting Engineer of the Commissioners of Lincoln Park and the South Park Commissioners at Room 2200, 208 West Washington Street, Chicago, Illinois, which sum so deposited will be refunded when the plans and specifications are returned with the bid. Bidders will be limited to receiving two complete sets of plans and specifications from the Park Commissioners under the deposit named herein. Any additional copies of plans desired by bidders will be supplied at cost price.

The Commissioners of Lincoln Park and the South Park Commissioners reserve the right to reject any or all bids or to accept any bid which will be for the best interest of the public.

THE COMMISSIONERS OF LINCOLN PARK,
By LOUIS NETTLEHORST, Secretary.
W. H. BECKMAN, Attorney.
